LIFE has never presented many "problems" to me. I have been too busy. Working people do not evolve "problems." They are invented by the learned idlers, gossiping about the market place like Paul's Athenians, "who spend their time in nothing else, but either to tell or to hear some new thing." —Robert J. BURGLAR IS SLAIN

DAWKINS MERCHANT'S AIM PROVES DEADLY

Frank Dawkins Shoots Unidentified Man Who Attempted Burglary in Little Hamlet East of Ft. Wayne.

VICTIM FOUND DEAD BESIDE RAILROAD TRACK

Firing at a range of ten feet with a 44-calibre Colt's revolver at 1 o'clock Friday morning, Frank Dawkins, aged 56 years, a crippled bachelor, who keeps a general store at Dawkins, a Hamlet twelve miles east of Fort Wayne, on the Nickel Plate railroad, killed an unknown man who was attempting to burglarize the place.

The body of the robber was found on the Nickel Plate tracks 100 feet from the scene of the shooting shortly after 5 o'clock Friday morning by Otto Butcher, an employe in the elevator at Dawkins. Until the finding of the body Dawkins did not know he had hit the man whom he discovered entering his store.

Heard Crash of Glass.

Dawkins, who leads a bachelor's life, with his home in his store, was aroused about 1 o'clock Friday morning by a crash of glass in the front of the store. He arose from his cot, got his big Colt's revolver and walked forward. Within ten feet of the window he saw a man's hand thrust in to push aside the window shade. Almost immediately a man's head peered in through the broken pane and Dawkins fired.

There was a sound of hurrying footsteps from the front of the store and Dawkins went outside. He could see no trace of the marauder and no traces of blood on the sidewalk. He concluded that his shot had missed its mark and returned to his bed.

Reports Body Found on Track.

At 5:30 Friday morning Coroner E. H. Kruse was notified by Superintendent W. F. Waterson, of the Nickel Plate, that the body of an unknown man had been found on the railroad's tracks at Dawkins. Coroner Kruse notified Scheumann & Son, undertakers on East Lewis street, to go out for the body and started at once himself for the scene of the tragedy.

A half hour later Sheriff A. C. Gladieux was called on his telephone by Frank Dawkins, at Dawkins, who stated that he had killed a burglar early in the morning.

Coroner Kruse and Sheriff Gladieux arrived on the ground about the same time, the coroner, who had been also informed of the killing, expecting to find two cases for his attention. At Dawkins the coroner learned that the two cases were identical.

Dawkins Learns of Killing.

When Butcher, the elevator man found the body and reported that a man had been killed by a train, Dawkins went over to view the body. An examination disclosed that the man had been shot and then for the first time he knew, five hours after the shooting, that his aim had been true and his bullet had gone home.

The big 44-calibre bullet tore into the burglar's body just below the left shoulder blade, passing entirely through an severing a large vein from which the man bled to death.

Commissioners Refuse a License to Henry A. Wiebke.

REV. NIPPER WINS BITTER CONTEST

Board Takes Two Minutes to Reach Decision in Saloon Fight.

After a career of a few weeks less than ten years the Hof Brau saloon, at Calhoun and Columbia streets, closed its doors upon the public at 9 o'clock Thursday evening, following the refusal of the board of county commissioners to again issue a license to Harry A. Wiebke, proprietor of the place.

The last testimony in the sensational hearing of the Hof Brau case was concluded at 5:40 Thursday afternoon. Five minutes later Guy Colerick, of counsel for the applicant, began a quarter-hour argument to the board and was followed by William P. Breen, of counsel for the remonstrant, Rev. James A. Nipper, in an address of similar length. At 6:15 President James D. Butt, of the board of commissioners, announced that the commissioners would retire and that a decision would be reported in fifteen minutes.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 24.—A diamond thief named Poltner, worst of three criminals being taken to Jeffersonville prison by Lake county sheriffs, escaped from custody here at noon today.

He was handcuffed to another prisoner and slipped the cuff over his hand and jumped from a Monon passenger train in the yards. Local police and many citizens are scouring the north end of town. The deputies continued their journey with the other two prisoners.

FRANK POIRSON SURRENDERS TO NIPPER AND CLOSES HIS CALHOUN STREET SINK

Another notorious dive for men and women has been extinguished.

When the board of county commissioners Thursday evening gave its decision denying a renewal of license to Harry A. Wiebke for the Hof Brau saloon and cafe, Frank J. Poirson, keeper of a saloon and chili parlor at 504 Calhoun street, and his attorneys, saw the handwriting on the wall.

Friday morning Poirson's counsel went before the board of commissioners and withdrew his application for a licenee and his place was shortly afterward closed.

The hearing of the remonstrance filed by Rev. James A. Nipper against renewing Poirson's license was set for 9 o'clock Friday morning and the remonstrant and William N. Ballou, his attorney, were ready with their witnesses to go to trial. Poirson and his lawyers decided that the best course was surrender instead of battle and withdrew the application, as had been decided upon late Thursday night at a conference of the attorneys.

Rev. Nipper and Attorney Ballou were said to be pleased the decision with that is the end will have to be quiet.

times as much evidence of immorality, unfitness and law-breaking as had been presented against Wiebke. The two Chicago detectives, Sickles and Malkus, who appeared against Wiebke, had thoroughly investigated the Poirson deadfall and were prepared to prove the proprietor to be the keeper of a place that it would have been a crime for the commissioners to relicense. Much other testimony was also at hand and some of the same women whose names were brought up in connection with the Hof Brau case were known to have been habitues of Poirson's place.

It would have been no trouble at all to prove that Poirson was unfit to be licensed and that his place should be suppressed. Poirson and his lawyers knew that if the commissioners could not license Wiebke there was more reason why the board could not permit Poirson to continue in business. The place at 504 Calhoun street is gone. The scarlet women who resorted there to meet debauched men and callow youth and the jitney drivers who threve on

ROACH MAKES HIS THREATS

Hints at Prosecution of Bell Case Witnesses for Perjury.

Saloon Men Made Contributions; Deny Coercion by Officials.

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—Threats of prosecution for perjury were made today by Special Prosecutor Joseph Roach at the trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell, charged with election conspiracy. A number of saloonkeepers were being called and asked about their contributions to the democratic party at the time the threat was made.

Harry Farber admitted that he had made a contribution, but denied that William Kissel, who holds the contract to supply the city with mules and a co-defendant, threatened him with persecution by the police if he didn't contribute. He also denied making a statement to that effect before the grand jury. The defense objected to jogging the witnesses' memory. Mr. Roach then made his threat, declaring "there is a remedy."

M. A. Ryan, of counsel for the defense, was on his feet immediately.

"It ill becomes the state," he said, "to make threats of prosecution for perjury here in the midst of this trial. It is not proper in the presence of the jury."

The witness, when the court permitted him to answer, continued to insist that he did not remember the questions or answers he was reported as making.

More than twenty saloonkeepers were called and told of contributing to the democratic campaign fund in amounts ranging from $5 to $25.

None to Republicans.

On cross-examination some of the saloonmen were asked if they had contributed to the republican campaign fund. All said they had not. Among those named as collectors of the fund were Herman Adam, city sealer and a co-defendant, and Louis Larsch and Paul Bonner, saloonkeepers.

Mayor Bell, who had to leave the court room yesterday because of illness, arrived a little late today, but apparently was feeling much better. He laughed and talked with his attorneys and a few spectators.

FIELDS CASE WILL BE DECIDED TONIGHT

Officials of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company and members of the grievance committee from local union No. 862, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, will meet Friday evening at which time the case of Clarence Fields, a former conductor on the city lines, who is asking for reinstatement will be taken up. Disposition has already been made of the four other trainmen whom the union has asked to be reinstated. Two of them were taken back and the other two were dismissed.

No action will be taken by members of the newly organized union until the Fields case has been disposed of. A meeting of the union will probably be held following the conference with officials of the company at which time it is expected that definite action regarding the future course of the organization will be taken up.

MR. ROGERS TALKS ON REINCARNATION

Reincarnation was the theme of L. W. Rogers, of New York, last night at the Elks' temple. He declared that if the soul is created at birth there is no reasonable explanation of why one should be born a genius and another an idiot. Reincarnation, he said, showed that souls evolve as worlds evolve and that the stupid man is one who has not striven in his hundreds of past incarnations to develop his mind, while the genius is one who has energetically developed his intellect. If God made souls when people were born, the lecturer said, it was remarkable that they should not all be wise and kind and have an even chance to reach the heaven for which they are supposed to be destined.

He declared that the truth is that souls have evolved on the spiritual side as physical bodies have evolved on the material side and that reincarnation is the process by which the Supreme Being directs all evolution.

Tonight Mr. Rogers will speak on "The Laws of Destiny."

Coalition of Indiana Brewers and Liquor Dealers Paid for Evidence That Killed Wiebke and Poirson.

It was the Indiana Law Enforcement and Reform league, a coalition of brewers and liquor dealers in this state, and not the Berghoff brewery alone, that sent Chicago detectives into Fort Wayne to collect evidence against law-breaking saloons and furnished the evidence upon which Harry A. Wiebke and his Hof Brau and Frank J. Poirson and his chili parlor saloon were put out of business, and upon which Rev. James A. Nipper and the Men's Christian league, who inaugurated and are maintaining the fight, declare the Hotel Edwin's license will be revoked in the superior court.

Wanted to Know What Was Wrong.

The investigation under the auspices of the Indiana Law Enforcement and Reform league began more than a year ago, when the Thiel Detective agency, in Chicago, was commissioned by the league to find out what was wrong with the saloon situation in Fort Wayne. At that time Detective Ray Sickles, a Thiel agent, came to Fort Wayne and collected much evidence against cafes and saloons of the dive class. Last May Sickles came back and was accompanied by Detective Maurice Malkus. For two weeks they worked in Fort Wayne. Scores of saloons were investigated and reported upon by the detectives. Most of the reports were good, but several places the reports were a total condemnation.

Reported to Norton.

These secret service agents made their reports to Martin C. Norton, secretary and manager of the Berghoff Brewing association in Fort Wayne, for some of their instructions, as well as to disclose their findings and sent written reports to Chicago. These prepared reports were forwarded to Mr. Norton in Fort Wayne.

The Thiel agents spent much time in the Hof Brau, in Poirson's and the Hotel Edwin, it has been disclosed, and mingled much with the women who resorted in those places. Numerous other saloons were watched and reported upon and those that complied with the laws of Indiana were given clean bills in the reports made by the detectives.

Norton Aids the Fight.

It was just after the disclosures made last July that half a dozen or more well-known youngsters of Churubusco had been coming to Fort Wayne to get drunk and meet women in the saloon cafes that Manager Norton, of the Berghoff brewery, went to the law firm of Breen & Morris, retained by the Churubusco parents to assist in prosecuting the saloonists who helped to debauch their boys and tendered the use of his voluminous reports from the Chicago detectives who had made the investigation in May.

These reports were not of use in the prosecution in which the Churubusco boys were chief witnesses against Wiebke, Edwin S. Kleindinst, of the Hotel Edwin and Jack Hedges, a Columbia street saloonist, and Saban Smith, who was doing a blind tiger business at the old Hiser roadhouse on the Goshen highway, north of the city, but they were discovered to be of vital importance to the purpose of the Churubusco men and Rev. James A. Nipper and the Men's Christian league, of Fort Wayne, to put the worst of Fort Wayne's places out of business.

Fight is Begun.

After the conviction in the city court of Kleindinst and Smith on blind tiger charges and of Hedges for selling to minors, Rev. Nipper began his war to extinguish the city places. A suit was filed in the superior court against Kleindinst for revocation of his license

Marshall Makes Statement After His Talk With President.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Vice President Marshall called at the white house today and discussed with President Wilson the international situation, national defense and other problems confronting the administration. It was Mr. Marshall's first visit to the president since congress adjourned last March.

Mr. Marshall told the president that an extensive trip through the country had convinced him that the people were pleased with the manner in which international affairs had been managed. He said he favored an adequate army and navy, but had no specific recommendations to make regarding details. The question of calling a special session of the senate to permit it to revise its rules before the regular session begins in December, also was taken up. Mr. Marshall said afterward the president had not indicated any direction in the matter. The vice president expressed opposition to a special session of the whole congress at this time. Whether the political outlook was discussed was not indicated, and Mr. Marshall would not comment on it afterward except to say he was not a candidate for renomination.

JITNEY DRIVER HAS BEEN JOY RIDING

William Van Camp's Wife Has Him in for Neglect of Child.

When William Van Camp, a jitney bus driver, was arraigned in the city court, Friday morning, on a charge of neglecting his child, and Mrs. Van Camp related that her husband had been from home since Tuesday and consorting with a woman whose evil eye had her spouse hypnotized and infatuated, Van Camp took the stand and admitted it all. He said he had been carrying the woman about in his jitney while he worked and that they spent the nights together in his car—she sleeping on the rear seat and he in front. Van Camp was arrested Thursday evening at Calhoun and Wallace street as he and the woman were returning from Bluffton, where they had spent the day attending the street fair. Van Camp said he had been sober for eighteen months, riding the water wagon without a single fall, until he met the woman, whose name he gave as Blanche Burger or Karbar, and then he had an awful tumble. Mrs. Van Camp said that but for the woman her husband would be all right. She only wanted him to give her enough to bring up their child properly and keep him in school. The boy in question, little Jimmy Van Camp, aged 7 years, was uncovered a few days ago as the bold bad robber who had been looting automobiles about the Commercial club and Anthony hotel of robes, tools, motorists' goggles and in one instance of a large bottle of whisky. Detective Sergeants Spillner and Junk, who unraveled the puzzling series of robberies, say the little fellow had stolen property valued at from $50 to $100. Judge Kerr held Van Camp under $100 bond to get him thoroughly sober, indicating that he might release him Saturday, provide he would go home and care for his wife and child.

Other City Court Cases.

Kirk Wilson was found asleep on the porch of a residence opposite Swinney park, Friday night, and was arrested. A window pane had been broken in the front of the house and burglary was at first suspected. He was merely drunk. He begged to be allowed to go back to wife and child at dear old Pennville, Ind., but was held for a day to be looked up.

William Lampert ascribed his condition to weak booze and strong tobacco. He lamented a new coat he had pawned for a pittance and wanted to hike for home at Crestline, Ohio, but was continued a day.

James Leadman, of Huntington, said he would fain return to the shade of his own vine and fig tree in the Lime City, although he had appeared Friday night at police headquarters and asked to be locked up to ward off a threatened attack of movies. He was held.

Harry Allen, a drunk, was fined $5 and costs and went to jail.

STREET CAR CAUSES RUNAWAY.

Sexton Upholds Former Ft. Wayne Pastor Whom Foes Would Unseat.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—"The trouble with Pastor Ainslie was that he worked too hard for the church."

The sexton of the North Shore Congregational church, the pastor of which, Rev. James Stuart Ainslie, after fifteen years of devotion to its welfare, has been asked to resign by a faction of his congregation, came to the pastor's defense yesterday afternoon.

The only occupant of the darkened church, he was discovered by a reporter after a collision with the organ pipes in the furnace room nursing a battered foot.

"No sir," said Sexton H. J. Johns, "the matter with these people is, they don't like it because he got out and hustled for the money to build this church instead of sittin' around wearin' a silk hat and lettin' the deacons do the work.

Growth of Church.

"He started in 1900, when all they had was a rented grocery store over on Evanston avenue and eighty-five members, and he worked and worried and preached until they have this big place —that's worth $200,000.

"They talk about wanting somebody that'll bring in the bathers from Wilson beach. The only thing that'll do that is a cowboy and a lasso that will go out there and drag 'em in. It isn't good common sense those soreheads want to hear. They want somebody that will thrill 'em and scramble around the pulpit and use slang. One of those big guns that will shoot 'em into heaven," and the sexton carefully set the damaged foot on the cement floor and "shot 'em into heaven."

Popular With Young Folks.

"The young people all like him," he continued after the rumble of a wagon on Wilson avenue had died away. "They've been calling him up about three times a week since he got back from his vacation askin' him to marry them."

"How does Mr. Ainslie feel about it?" the reporter prompted.

Sexton Johns' mustache drooped and he shoved his hat a little further over his eyes. "When I saw him this morning he looked just as bad as I feel," he said eloquently.

"I have seen it comin' a long time. There have been some pretty hot meetings up above in the Sunday school room, and Wednesday night one of the trustees would have broken up the meeting if Pastor Ainslie had been conducting it.

"There isn't anybody who could fill his place. But if I was him I wouldn't stay now even if they wanted me to." And the sexton carefully laced up the shoe on the offending foot and prepared to go home to dinner.

Rev. Mr. Ainslie, former pastor of Plymouth Congregational church, in Fort Wayne, resigned the local pastorate to go to the Chicago congregation some fifteen years ago. He will be well and favorably remembered in Fort Wayne.

DUELLING MANIA IS SUPPRESSED BY WAR

Conflict Does What Law Had Utterly Failed to Do in Hungary.

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 30.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—In suppression of the duelling mania in Hungary the war has done more in six months than the law would have been able to do in twenty years. Up to a year ago, it seemed that nothing could be done to stop duelling. Notwithstanding all legal prohibitions, such an important personage as the Minister President, Count Stephen Tisza, continued fighting duels, having had a dozen to his credit, six of them during his term of office, and openly defying all the penalties threatened by law.

In the first six months of the war, the change was so marked that fewer duels were fought during that period than had ordinarily taken place in a single week before. Since last spring not a single case of duelling has been reported, in contrast with the fact that during one week in July, 1914, fifty-four duels were recorded in Budapest, alone.

How public opinion has changed on this question of duelling is shown in a document recently published in the Hungarian papers. A provincial lawyer made some disparaging remarks about the army in the presence of a wounded officer, who resented his conduct in very sharp language. The lawyer sent a challenge but the seconds met and drew up a document setting forth that an officer ready to sacrifice his life for his country, was not obliged to give the so-called "satisfaction," and that in the present war the life of every soldier, and of every civilian, was too precious to be risked in duelling.

The Anti-Duelling league, which has long existed in Hungary, expresses the hope that this evil has been overcome, not only for war times, but also in peace.

RELEASED FROM PENAL FARM.

Two Terre Haute Men Get Freedom by Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

Greencastle, Ind., Sept. 24.—Two habeas corpus petitions have been filed in the Putnam circuit court for penal farm prisoners from Terre Haute, and in each case Judge Hughes has released the men, finding that they were not sentenced according to law. The last petition was filed yesterday by Charles S. Batt, former city attorney of Terre Haute, acting for John Godsey, whose sentence is alleged to be excessive. Further, it is alleged that Godsey was arrested without a warrant and was sentenced without being permitted to plead to the purported affidavit filed against him.

Constantinople, Aug. 30—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The extent to which the war has promoted good roads building in Turkey is indicated in a report just issued by the Ottoman Ministry of War, stating that 740 miles of roads have been graded, levelled and resurfaced with gravel, and 382 miles of roads have been macadamized by the "work battalions" of the Turkish army since the beginning of the war.

European Turkey has benefited greatly by these improvements, but the greater mileage of the new roads is in Anatolia, the Asiatic peninsula. The work has involved not only actual road improvement, but the construction of hundreds of bridges and culverts.

The total mileage of roads built by the Ottoman army during the war is 1,122 English miles. The work was done entirely by the older Turkish reserves and by Armenians of military age who were not sent into the field because their loyalty to the Turkish flag was doubted.

From his own experience in traveling over several hundred miles of the new roads, The Associated Press correspondent can say that the work was well done on the whole. Much care was taken in finding the best grades. Wherever necessary, the embankments were reverted and no labor was spared in making cuts where they were necessary to a favorable grade. This is especially true of the roads built between Adrianople and Constantinople and those built in the Taurus and Amanus mountain ranges. While the majority of the engineers and officers supervising the work were Turks, there were a few Armenians and Greeks and a number of Germans and Austrians.

Very little modern road-building machinery was used with the exception of a few steam rollers and small rock crushers. The roads were levelled by pick and shovel, and cuts were made in the same manner, although hand drills and blasting powder were used where ledges were encountered. Most of the crushed rock, tons of which were used, was broken by hand, a task which some officers made easier by having a piper keep the hammers in time with a tune.

Those familiar with travel conditions in the Ottoman empire say that the country has never had so many good roads as at present. In addition to the new roads that have been built for strategic purposes, many miles of neglected roads have been put in repair, one such notable instance being the pass road through the Taurus, from Erigli to Tarsus.

Mr. Edward Leigh Pell Writes:

You think your "little" is not worth saving; but I have noticed that the cigar man and the theater man and the soda water man have such a high opinion of your "little" that each is glad to get his hands on just a small fraction of it in order that he may carry it to HIS bank and have it placed to HIS account. I suppose it is all the same to the bank—your little is going there anyway—but, say! If it is going there anyway, would it not be better to carry it there yourself and have it placed to YOUR credit?

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By O. E. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course of the Moody Bible Institute.)

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 72.
GOLDEN TEXT—The king shall joy in thy strength, O Lord; and in thy salvation how greatly shall he rejoice. Ps. 21:1.

The subject assigned for this review lesson is aptly chosen, for the kingliest quality or virtue passed by any king is to be obedient. The servant who truly serves is obedient. The motto of the king of England is "Ich dien"—I serve.

Gen. R. E. Lee once said that for him the greatest word in the English language is the word "obey." We read of our master that he "learned obedience by the things he suffered" (Heb. 5:8) and he taught that "if ye love me, keep (obey) my commandments" (John 14:15).

The lessons for the past quarter cover an approximate period of about 125 years beginning probably B. C. 1024 (Beecher). In them there are presented nine rulers; David, Solomon, Rehoboam, Jeroboam, Asa, Ahab and Jezebel from within, and two from without Israel, the Queen of Sheba and Ben-hadad, king of Syria. There are also five prophets mentioned, Nathan, Ahiah, Azariah, Obed and Elijah. It might be well for teachers to distribute blank pieces of paper and ask the scholars to write a brief outline of the oustanding facts regarding these rulers, also of Nathan and Elijah, though the last will more properly come later as there are yet several lessons about that great prophet. These kings can be classified as good and bad, though the greatest of them all (David) suffered a most terrible fall. From these lessons the great facts of sin, grace, prayer, the word of God, faith, salvation and unbelief are all to be emphasized.

For the older classes a most interesting study can be made of the development of God's people materially and the religious development also as well as a study of the causes for the division of the kingdom.

The tendency in both kingdoms was downward towards the destruction of the northern one and the captivity and impoverishment of the southern.

A good method of review would be to take up each of the different characters and give a summary of his life and of its effect upon the nation. It will be profitable to answer such questions as: What do the events of the past quarter teach us about the character of God? What great teachings have we had presented on the subject of prayer? What peculiar manifestations have been seen in the development of sin? In this quarter's lessons what emphasis has been made relative to the word of God? What moral duties and obligations have been emphasized? If a good crayon artist is available prepare on the blackboard 12 circles, five above, five below, and one at each end of a rectangle. In this last place the Golden Text for the day and in each of the circles, beginning in the upper left hand corner, either a sketch or some other suggestion of each of the several lessons.

Another suggestion for use upon the blackboard would be to draw two panels or columns on either end of the board and connect the tops by an arch. Divide the arch into five divisions and in the top, the keystone of the arch place the name of good King Asa, to the left Absalom and Adonijah, and to the right Elijah and Ahab. On the left panel write "The Word of God" and on its capstone "David." On the right panel write, "Obedience," and on the capstone "Solomon." Then underneath the arch and between the panels first the names of the remaining chief characters belonging to Israel, and below, but separate, those from without whose names have been considered during the past quarter. This arrangement of names might be so made as to call attention to the separated kingdoms of Israel and Judah, using the arch for the names of the characters affecting the kingdom before its division.

Again the board may be ruled into two columns, one to contain the names of the "chief persons," and the other the "chief facts." Divided according to lessons they will be about as follows: Chief persons 1, David, Joab, Abishai, Absalom; 2, David, Bathsheba, Zadok, Nathan, Solomon, Adonijah; 3 and 4, Solomon; 5, Solomon, Queen of Sheba; 6, Rehoboam, old and young men; 7, Jeroboam; 8, Azariah, Asa; 9, Elijah, Ahab and the widow of Zarephath; 10, Elijah and prophets of Baal; 11, Elijah and God; 12, Benhadad, Ahab, young men.

Chief Facts—1, failure; 2, anointing; 3, choice; 4, prayer; 5, wisdom, 6, division; 7, sin; 8, reform; 9, providence; 10, testing; 11, discouragement; 12, defeat. Thus by careful and prayerful preparation a review of each lesson can briefly but profitably be presented.

The material for a successful review along any of the lines suggested will demand careful preparation on the part of the teacher, but will be well worth while in fixing the chief facts in the pupils' mind while it also will test the sort of work the teacher has been doing.

SEES CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING REMEDY

Houston Discusses Waste of Apples, Peaches and Other Crops.

By Gilson Gardner.

Washington, Sept. 24.—All about Washington—and doubtless the same is true in many parts of the United States—the trees hang full of fruit, apples, peaches, plums, etc., which are not picked and will not be picked. It does not pay. A man sent a carload of peaches and his broker wired a bill for $18.00 deficit for freight and brokerage. The fruit did not pay the cost of sending it.

Yet every city has its homes—some poor homes and others not so poor—where fruit is not eaten and where it would be welcome. What is the answer?

I put the matter up to Secretary of Agriculture David F. Houston.

"Yes," he said, "I took a ride in an automobile only the other day through the wonderful fruit region west of here out by Harper's Ferry and Leesburg. I saw the trees with the fruit on them unsold and unpicked. The answer is co-operative marketing. The farmers must do for the apples and peaches and other crops what the citrus farmers of California have done for the citrus crop. They must standardize the products and organize for its marketing. They must have their own warehouses and act as a unit in dealing for its sale and finding where the crop is needed and sending it there. That is the work on which my office is engaged at present and is one of the things in which I am most deeply interested."

Anybody interested in knowing what Col. T. Roosevelt intends to do in the next presidential campaign may have the answer. And this is made on dependable authority. He is going fishing.

Much that is not true has been printed during recent weeks about the effect of the seaman's bill in "driving the American flag from the seas." Following are the facts in regard to the two principle lines which recently have taken action supposedly in this direction.

The Dollar line of steamers, owned by Robert Dollar, consists of a fleet of seven steamers. Three of these are in the coastwise trade, carrying lumber and of necessity flying the American flag, and always have done so. All steamships in the coastwise trade are obliged to be American registered. They always have and they always will—until they rot—fly the American flag and the seaman's bill does not affect these vessels one iota. The other four vessels of the Dollar fleet are in what is known as the offshore trade. They are tramps which go anywhere a profitable charter is offered. These vessels are coolie manned; always have been coolie manned and always have sailed under an alien flag. When German raiders, however, were loose, two of these ships sought the protection of the American flag as the head of the company announced "for the time being only." The German raiders having ceased their raids, "our flag" was of no further use to the management of the Dollar fleet and one of these two coolie manned foreign-built boats changed back to a foreign flag, leaving one vessel only of the offshore fleet under the Stars and Stripes. The Dollar line will come under the Stars and Stripes or leave them just as it profits their owners, and nobody need be alarmed about the effect of the seaman's bill in "driving" them from under the flag.

As to the Pacific Mail Steamship company, the facts are equally illuminating. This company is railroad owned, and being such is not allowed by law to pass its steamers through the Panama canal. Observing that foreign lines were liable to take the Panama canal business away from them, the Pacific Mail transferred ownership to a subsidiary of the International Mercantile Marine and announced that at least two of its five vessels are to be used in the New York to San Francisco run via the canal. These, of course, must be under the American flag. Great efforts have been made to make it appear that this transfer of ownership was caused by the seaman's bill "driving the Pacific Mail out of business." The fact is that the transfer of the Pacific Mail was brought about, not by the seaman's bill, but because this company, being railroad owned, found that it could not use the canal until it did transfer ownership.

The withdrawal of the trans-Pacific coolie manned liners of this company will leave the way uncontested for the establishment of the proposed government-owned merchant marine on the Pacific, as desired by President Wilson.

Coughs and Colds Not to Be Neglected

Anyone will realize the seriousness of neglecting a cold if he observes results of such neglect among his acquaintances. How often have you heard, "He caught cold, didn't do anything for it and it turned into"—then some dreaded disease is named.

Ordinary colds yield to prompt treatment at the beginning. That is why every family should be supplied with a reliable cough medicine—one that will heal raw and inflamed surfaces, loosen the phlegm, allay irritation, ease the hoarseness and stop the tickling sensation in the throat that does not permit one to sleep.

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is invaluable for relief of coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, tickling in throat, tightness or soreness, grippe or bronchial coughs. It contains no harmful ingredients. Its healing soothing, antiseptic and alterative

Chamberlain's Tablets invigorate the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally, they also regulate the bowels. As an agreeable laxative they are unsurpassed. LOOK OUT, PUSSY!

Audubon Societies Investigating Bird Killing Proclivities.

New York, Sept. 24.—Things look dark for the cat! The charge is that prowling felines destroy 5,000,000 birds a year. Whether this is true or not is to be decided by an impartial investigation of pussy's bird catching proclivities, conducted by the National Association of Audubon societies, of this city. The people of the United States are to be the jury. T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the Audubon societies, has just sent out an invitation to the general public to forward to his office "any evidence that may have bearing on the subject, either for or against cats as destroyers of birds." "We want the truth," said Pearson.

The town of Montclair, New Jersey, has just passed the first cat-tagging or dinance in America. It provides that all untagged cats are to be regarded as "vagrants," and are to be proceeded against accordingly. Spokane, Washington, is on the point of passing a cat license ordinance.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Exodus 5:14-23.

14 And the officers of the children of Israel, which Pharaoh's taskmasters had set over them, were beaten, and demanded, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your task in making brick both yesterday and today, as heretofore?

15 Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cried unto Pharaoh, saying, Wherefore dealest thou thus with thy servants?

16 There is no straw given unto thy servants, and they say to us, Make brick: and, behold, thy servants are beaten; but the fault is in thine own people.

17 But he said, Ye are idle, ye are idle: therefore ye say, Let us go and do sacrifice to the Lord.

18 Go therefore now, and work; for there shall no straw be given you, yet shall ye deliver the tale of bricks.

19 And the officers of the children of Israel did see that they were in evil case, after it was said, Ye shall not minish ought from your bricks of your daily task.

20 And they met Moses and Aaron, who stood in the way, as they came forth from Pharaoh:

21 And they said unto them, The Lord look upon you, and judge; because ye have made our savour to be abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants, to put a sword in their hand to slay us.

22 And Moses returned unto the Lord, and said, Lord, wherefore hast thou so evil entreated this people? why is it that thou hast sent me?

23 For since I came to Pharaoh to speak in thy name, he hath done evil to this people; neither hast thou delivered thy people at all.

The Hof Brau Decision.

The board of county commissioners acted promptly and correctly in denying a renewal of liquor license to the Hof Brau. In the face of the mass of damning evidence piled up against the place by the remonstrants any other finding would have been inconceivable. Witness after witness testified to personal knowledge of practices permited in certain departments of the place that stamped it as a moral cesspool of the vilest type. The repeated sales of liquors to minors, operation at illegal hours and the operation of a place where men were permitted to meet women of evil repute and where they were permitted to take girls of tender years to be plied with liquor constitutd an indictment that, once established, could not fail to spell the doom of the place.

Mutterings of complaint against the Wiebke place had been pronounced and long continued. It had been repeatedly rumored that much of its business was conducted with a laxity that indicated flagrant disregard for law. It was perhaps the experience of some half a dozen Churubusco boys in their tour of the gilded way a few weeks ago that supplied the momentum for the launching of the definite crusade that has wiped out the place. Yet it develops that the Hof Brau, with certain other Fort Wayne places, was under investigation by detectives in the employ of the Indiana Law Enforcement League even before the sensational denouement that followed the splurge of the Churubusco youths. The Hof Brau has merely reaped what it sowed.

The decision is a victory of no mean importance for Rev. Mr. Nipper, the Men's Christian League and other forces which joined in the fight on the place. Its value lies not so much in the mere wiping out of one place which flagrantly offended the popular sense of decency as in the fact that it serves impressive notice upon all others who may be similarly offending. There is plainly a popular demand that the clean-up be made complete.

The South Bend city council, after a lively debate in committee of the whole, rejected an ordinance drafted by the city attorney to regulate the jitney bus business in that city because it was too lenient and ordered the preparation of a law of more rigorous character. The council is disposed to insist upon license fees, bonds and indemnity insurance as a protection to the public against possible accident arising from the operation of the jitneys. Whether the jitney is to become a permanent fixture or not will doubtless be disclosed shortly when it is forced to meet the stress of the ice, snow and storm of the winter season. Will it then stick to the job, as the street railways are compelled to do, or will it find itself unable to combat that sort of weather? If it is to be more than a transitory institution, nothing is more certain than that every city in which the jitney operates will be forced to adopt some sort of regulative system to control its operation.

The claim that femininty lacks resourcefulness is now left without a leg on which to stand. Down at Winchester a woman utterly routed a burglar from her home by lambasting him over the head with a pot of baked beans. The incident seems to make necessary a revision of the penal code defining deadly weapons, but since the efficacy of the pot of beans has been demonstrated, its use in similar cases may be regarded as perfectly justifiable under existing statutes where the issues seem to be so clearly defined as in the Winchester case.

Victor Murdock, chairman of the national progressive committee, confidently announces that the moosers are going to run a straight progressive ticket next year, which seems to indicate Mr. Murdock's absolute confidence that there will still be enough followers of Colonel Roosevelt left to fill the ticket, despite the claims of the republican leaders that they have all come back to the G. O. P.

One day after he had won a motorcycle in a "popularity" contest, a Lafayette lad met with an accident which utterly wrecked his benzine bicycle and sent him to the hospital for the repair of personal injuries. This appears to clear the way for others who aspire to win popularity honors.

Those Anglo-French financiers who are in the United States endeavoring to negotiate the loan of something like a billion dollars appear to be striking a rather large variety of snags of one sort and another. Well, a good many equally good men have had a deal of trouble in borrowing considerably less than that.

WHAT THE EASTLAND WRECK COST.

(Indianapolis News.)

The Red Cross society this week is distributing $190,000 of the sum collected for relief of families whose wage earners lost their lives in the Eastland disaster. The largest sum given to one household is $3,000. Every effort is being made to be just in the apportionment. The Eastland tragedy continues to be the subject of discussion in Chicago, though it has fallen into the background elsewhere. A dispatch from Washington the other day said that Secretary Redfield and President Wilson had conferred on the former's report. But what has been done, or what may be done, by the federal government with regard to the inspection features of the disaster is unknown.

Disasters are quickly forgotten. But the bills come in just the same. "The community, which is all of us," says the Chicago Herald, "is paying about $1,000 each for the 834 lives lost on the Eastland through a combination of private recklessness or greed and government extravagance." The Eastland, which, an hour before it turned over, was regarded as one of the finest passenger carriers on the lakes, and was worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, is to be sold, December 20, on court order, to meet a claim of $34,500 filed by the company which raised it in Chicago river. The ship itself, the 834 lives with all their possible earning power, the insurance, the expense of investigation, litigation and settlement, and the generous outpouring of gifts for the relief of the suffering—all these make the total cost of the Eastland disaster.

It is a prevalent notion, as the Herald observes, "that the loss of such disasters is somehow limited to those members of the community directly affected, with those who may be so moved by the spectacle of distress as to put their hands into their pockets to give aid." But this is not true. Every cent of destroyed life or property comes out of the community. Aid is being disbursed. The corporation employing the victims or their relatives has done well. Grand juries have indicted—but no one has been convicted. As far as the public knows, the federal government has taken no steps to improve the steamboat inspection service. Possibly it needs no improvement. Secretary Redfield was quick enough to defend it. But something, somewhere, was wrong, or the Eastland never would have tipped over.

DESTROYING THE INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT

(Toledo Blade).

On November 2, New York state will vote upon a new constitution which, though written by conservatives, embodies policies which have been agitated by progressives for a decade. The most striking reform is the proposal for the "short ballot," hitherto applied only in the instance of cities. If it passes, New York will have the credit of leading the states in this highly desirable policy.

New York has been the extremest example of irresponsible government. Elihu Root, president of the constitutional convention, pronounced that government one of patronage, for patronage and by patronage. Hordes of officeholders swarmed about the state capital and the county court houses "giving no honest service for the money they get." There had been established one hundred and fifty-two commissions and bureaus "lying around loose, accounting to nobody, spending all the money they can get, violating every principle of economy, of efficiency and of the proper transaction of business."

The new constitution reduces the number of elective state officers from seven to four, cuts the number of state departments from one hundred and fifty-two to seventeen and gives the governor the initiative in budget making. Should the constitution be adopted, every state officer, big or little, will be responsible for the conduct of those under him. He can be reached and, if remiss in his duties or corrupt, he can be punished.

This is the hardest blow which "invisible government" will have been made to endure in the entire career of that vicious institution.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Superior to Any Other.

"I can say for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy that it is far superior to any other that I have tried," writes Mrs. J. C. Fentzel, Oakmont, Pa. "It has been used for coughs and colds by our children and always effects a quick cure." SUICIDE FOLLOWS DIVORCE COMPLAINT

Monroe Runyan, Near Roanoke, Kills at Home by Shooting.

Roanoke, Ind., Sept. 24.—Monroe Runyan shot and instantly killed himself at 7:15 o'clock last night on the lawn of his home, one-half mile north of Roanoke. The bullet entered the center of the forehead. Wednesday his wife, Alice Runyan, had filed a complaint for divorce in the circuit court here, and his act is the sequel to it. Coroner R. S. Galbreath made a prompt investigation and held an inquest this morning.

Half an hour before killing himself Runyan gave his watch to his son, Albert, with brief instructions to keep it. Since the difficulties between Mr. and Mrs. Runyan had reached an acute stage, it is believed he had meditated suicide, although he is not known to have made any direct threats. It had been rumored he told Mrs. Runyan he would kill her if she sought a divorce.

Wife's Absence Saved Her.

The fact that Mrs. Runyan was not at home may have saved her life. Those intimate with Runyan for years are convinced that when he went to his home late in the afternoon it was with the intention of shooting her and then himself. Mrs. Runyan was in Roanoke with a relative.

Where the 32 calibre revolver used was obtained is not known. Mrs. Runyan, fearing either that he would commit suicide or harm her, had hidden all the weapons she found about the house.

Son Witnessed Death.

Albert Runyan, the son, and Earl Poling, of Roanoke, witnessed the death. They saw Runyan walk out the rear door of the home, and seeing something in his hand, hurried to the house to tell the others. In the meantime Runyan walked around the house, paced back and forth a few times, and then placed the revolver against his forehead and fired before either the son or his friend, who were on the porch, could strike down the weapon. The body was taken into the house and a physician called, but death had been almost instantaneous.

Mrs. Runyan was summoned and in view of the threats he is said to have made to kill her because she filed suit for divorce, took the tragic death calmly. The children were almost prostrated with grief, a daughter, Etta, being inconsolable.

Reared Near Roanoke.

Mr. Runyan was forty-eight years old, and was born and reared near Roanoke. Men with whom he had been associated for years respected and liked him. He had been employed in Huntington most of the summer, and until yesterday had worked regularly for the C. C. Hufline company in paving First street. Wages due him were tied up by a restraining order issued by the court at the request of Mrs. Runyan, and when Coroner Galbreath searched the dead man's clothing not a cent was found.

Six children are living: Elva Runyan, of Michigan; Mrs. Eva Smith, living north of Roanoke; Etta, Ira, Albert and Golda Runyan, who live at home. His father, Deneen N. Runyan, lives in Roanoke, and a brother, Charles Runyan, lives two miles north of the town. Mrs. Clinton Hambleton, a sister, lives in Roanoke and her father has made his home there.

MARKLE REVIVAL A SUCCESS.

Markle, Ind., Sept. 24.—After six nights of the revival services of the Methodist church here, the success of the five weeks' campaign seems now assured. Because of the cold weather many were kept away from the services for two or three evenings, although there was a fairly good crowd present. Two furnaces have been installed in the tabernacle and arrangements for a third are being made. It is believed that there will be no question of it being warm enough in the place now. Rev. E. K. Towell, the evangelist, who has been obtained for the services, preached the services last evening on the subject, "Aaron's Fatal Mistake." Rev. Towell is from Jacksonville, Ill., and is meeting with the approval of his hearers from his forceful sermons delivered nightly.

SUES THE ADMIRABLE CRICHTON.

Columbia City, Ind., Sept. 24.—Esther L. Johnson, the 18-year-old Cleveland township girl who married James W. Johnson, the former barber, motorcycle expert, painter and laborer, is suing for divorce. She was misled, she says, by lurid promises made by her lover to the effect that he would quit drinking and that he would provide a home; and that he would do many other things which looked big a few months ago, but after a residence with him of six or seven weeks, during which time they lived with his relatives and he did not do a day's work, she learned that the glittering promises were like unto a bubble that had burst. On May 30, she quit him and forever separated herself from him. She now asks a legal decree which will sever the tie between them.

CLAIMS BEER; IS FINED.

Portland, Ind., Sept. 24.—Claiming ownership of the twenty-nine cases of beer, cash register and three tubs, confiscated in the raid on the Carmony room by local officers three weeks ago, Levi Wible appeared in Mayor C. A. Paddock's court yesterday, and was arrested on a charge of operating a "blind tiger." He entered a plea of guilty to the offense and was fined $50 and costs—$68.05 in all, and a 30 days' jail sentence imposed, was suspended during good behavior. Wible was also called upon to settle the costs on the search warrant issued from the court of 'Squire A. G. Lewis, and this item amounted to something like $8 additional.

PAULDING BOYS WIN PRIZES.

Paulding, O., Sept. 24.—Three Paulding county boys will enjoy a trip to Columbus Farmers' week with all expenses paid for one week, as a result of the boys' live stock judging contest held at the county fair. The boys who were so fortunate as to get this opportunity of attending the state's big agricultural meeting and learning more about stock judging are: Byron Hartsell, Haviland; Albert Arend, Paulding; Herbert Troyer, Paulding. Not only are these boys prize winners in this county, but they now become the representatives of the county in the state boys' live stock judging contest which will be held during Farmers' week, January 31-February 4, 1915, at Columbus.

BOY'S INJURIES FATAL.

Bluffton, Ind., Sept. 24.—Everett Dowty, aged 10, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dowty, who live five miles north of Bluffton, is dead after lying unconscious since 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning when he was accidentally run down by an automobile driven by Rev. LeRoy Huddleston, of Fountain City, who with a party of four parishioners was en route home from the gathering of the M. E. ministers and laymen of the North Indiana conference at Fort Wayne. The boy darted directly in front of the automobile from behind a wagon loaded with stone on which he had been riding on his way to the Eagleville school.

GOES TO SUPREME COURT.

Portland, Ind., Sept. 24.—Judge J. F. Denney today rendered his final decision in the mandamus suit instituted recently against Mayor C. A. Paddock by the firm of Fitzmaurice & Beard, holding that the defendant should execute a contract to the plaintiffs for the construction of the improvement of Pleasant street. The case will now be appealed to the supreme court by D. O. North, a Bluffton contractor, who placed the low bid on the proposed improvement and since the suit was instituted was made a party defendant at his own solicitation.

ASKED TO AID NATIONAL DEFENSE

Columbia City, Ind., Sept. 24.—Jonathan Williams, a veteran of the civil war and one of the best known old soldiers in the county, has received word that he had been selected as a delegate to the conference of national defense, which will be held in Washington, D. C., Oct. 4-7, 1915, under the auspices of the National Defense League. The invitation was on a magnificently engraved card and it bore the names of Winfield Jones, secretary; Julius Kahn, member of congress, who is chairman of the movement, and Robert F. Broussard, U. S. S., vice-chairman.

ARRESTED FOR CHECK JOB.

Warsaw, Ind., Sept. 24.—Charles W. Cook was arrested at Auburn on a charge of drawing checks without funds. The charge was filed in the Kosciusko circuit court by Stanley & Armstrong, of Leesburg. He will be brought here today. The charge asserts that Cook presented them with a check for $20, payable at the Thomas Exchange bank at Corunna. They claim that he had no funds in the bank to make payment on the check. Cook tendered the check in order to make payment for some automobile repairs.

PERSONAL WORKERS ACTIVE.

Montpelier, Ind., Sept. 24.—Three automobile loads of personal workers from the local organization went to the Chester Center church, north of this city, and conducted services at that place. There was quite a nice attendance, and a splendid meeting is reported. H. G. Dragoo was leader. Rev. Ed. Oren, new pastor of the South Main street Christian church accompanied the party and gave a most interesting address. The league will meet Monday evening in the Baptist church for their regular weekly meeting.

HIGH SCHOOL IS JAMMED.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 24.—Four hundred and two pupils are now enrolled in the Huntington high school, with a possibility of more to come in soon. There had been in the first few weeks of school 405, but three of them dropped out because of ill health. With the school full and every available seat taken, Prof. C. E. Byers, principal of the school, is waiting grimly for the advent of about sixty more when the January term begins. There will be no possibility of housing them.

YOUTH ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 24.—Jesse Troxell, 19, of Gas City, attempted suicide at Eaton, Thursday, by drinking a quantity of carbolic acid. He will die, according to word received from Eaton. Troxell was well known in this city. He had been here and other points looking for work of late, and it is supposed that despondency because he could not obtain it caused his rash act. His father was called from Gas City to be at the bedside of his son.

VAN WERT PYTHIANS BUSY.

Van Wert, Ohio, Sept. 24.—The Knights of Pythias will begin its meetings for the coming fall and winter on Friday evening. After the regular lodge meeting there, will be a luncheon and smoker. A good attendance of members is desired to consider plans for forming a local representation of the lodge at the dedication of the Old Peoples' Home, at Springfield.

WINS TRIP TO EXPOSITION.

Bluffton, Ind., Sept. 24.—H. M. Edris, a local insurance man, has won a trip to the Panama Pacific exposition and the Panama Canal by writing a stipulated amount of employers' liability for an Indianapolis company.

BURNED BY LIVE WIRE.

Hickaville, Ohio, Sept. 24.—While Ad Bice, of Cornelia street, this city, was repairing fences along the B. & O. railroad, he came in contact with a live wire from the light plant. The force of the shock threw him several feet and burned his arms and side so bad that he has not been able to work since.

scarcely touch human hands

One machine mixes the dough.

Another cuts out the cakes, three dozen at each stroke of the cutter, and a stroke with every tick of the clock.

A third finishes the cake as it comes from the oven by putting on a layer of creamy marshmallow, a covering of chocolate and a whole walnut meat—and it does it all with one operation.

ALL-STAR CAST IN 'VIA WIRELESS'

"Via Wireless," showing at the Jefferson today, should prove a treat for both the lovers of fiction and theater-goers inasmuch as it is a story of merit and features Gail Kane, George Cohan's foremost star. This lovely young Broadway actress bids fair to even increase the popularity she held on the stage, where she appeared in "Seven Keys to Baldpate" and later in "The Miracle Man," by her triumphs on the screen.

Bruce McRae, an English actor of considerable note, and a cast composed entirely of stars, gives assistance in this drama which cannot help but delight those who view it.

Paramount Travel Series complete the Jefferson bill for the day.

"Neal of the Navy" Tomorrow.

The third installment of "Neal of the Navy" brings forth another series of thrills in connection with the attempt to purloin the yellow packet. A Mutual master picture is also shown on Saturday.

Miss Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Somers, of 2318 Webster street, celebrated her birthday anniversary on Thursday with a company of playmates at a party. The principal thing after the children arrived at Dorothy's home was the playing of games. That fun was followed by a supper which Mrs. Somers had planned without forgetting a single thing that little folks like even to lovely gifts of a dressed doll and a basket of candy for each of the children. The guests were Arline Bohn, Betty Hackney, Helen Mitchell, Cosette Garwood, Mary and Margaret Pocock, Marguerite Luecke, Patty Price, Virginia Seemeyer, Gladys and Jane Stringer, Martha and Jane McBride, Rosemary Niezer and Vivian Mills.

Paul Bosch, son of Rev. and Mrs. John H. Bosch, was fourteen years old on Thursday and so far as his intentions went, the day was to pass as other days, school and home duties and some playtime between. But Mrs. Bosch planned differently and in consequence Paul had an unexpected invitation to take an automobile ride after school and when he arrived home after that his mother asked him to fetch her something from the school hall. Paul ran up stairs to do his mother's bidding and was actually opunced upon by his Sunday school classmates, who gave him fourteen slaps across his back and congratulated him in less earnest fashion with their tongues. It was a jolly party with plenty to eat and drink and many games to enjoy. The hours were from 5 to 9 o'clock. The boys gave Paul a signet ring and his Sunday school teacher, Miss Henrietta Antekruse, assisted Mrs. Bosch in serving the boys their supper.

One of the prettiest parties of this week was that given by Mrs. Ray Deahl and Mrs. Ralph Hardesty, on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hardesty in Wells street, to honor Miss Gertrude Seely whose wedding to Ray Fish will take place on October 5. The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers and paper cupids with the colors of pink and white predominating. A bouquet of pink cosmos blossoms occupied the center of the supper table. Pretty hand painted place cards and pink nut cups were an attractive decoration of the table besides the flowers. The menu was also expressive of the same coloring. A game of red letters was enjoyed and prize winners were Miss Irene Rohyans and Mrs. Elmer Feistkorn. The gifts were presented to the elected bride by the winners. The guests were Misses Gertrude Seely, Irene Rohyans, Marguerite Wirth, Georgia Wirth, Neva Smith, Bessie Orr and Mrs. Elmer Feistkorn, Mrs. Charles Durnell, Mrs. Otto Heiny, Mrs. Charles Long, Mrs. Elmond Seely, Mrs. Valentine Blough, Mrs. Frank Keller, Mrs. Lydia Miller, Mrs. Mary Barrow, Mrs. Ray Deahl and Mrs. Ralph Hardesty. AT THE TEMPLE.

Regular Matinee Saturday.

The usual Saturday matinee will be presented by the Temple theater players tomorrow in the comedy drama, "Help Wanted," the smart little bit written by Jack Lait, a Chicago newspaper man and fiction writer. But few of the modern plays presented in the last two years in Fort Wayne have created the stir that "Help Wanted" is responsible for. It has served as a warning for heedless girls and has made men employing young women to gather themselves together a bit more tightly, so that suspicious tongues might not be made to clack. The story is one of marked interest. It deals with the experiences of Gertrude Meyer (Miss Ethel Hamerick,) who follows a long line of "private secretaries" into the office of Jerrold Scott, sr., (Mr. Maurice Jenkins,) a wealthy and unscrupulous millionaire. Gertrude accompanies her employer to lunch frequently, despite warnings and a natural sense of peril, doing it to escape losing her job. She comes near the brink, but does not topple over because she finds in Jack Scott, McLain Gates,) a protector who braves his step-father's displeasure to keep the girl from harm. Of course the elder Scott reforms and everybody is happy enough before the curtain drops.

FOURTEEN DIFFERENT WARDROBES

Used By Princess Mazella Each Week. Is Widow of Late Kid Mitchell.

Princess Mazella has been identified by many people who have witnessed this week's performance at the Empress theater. She is the widow of the late Kid Mitchell, the well known light weight prize fighter, who was well known in Fort Wayne and who was married on Lafayette street in October, 1900. Princess Mazella, who has now acquired and won admiration and esteem all over the country as an exceptional oriental dancer, uses fourteen different wardrobes each week, one for each performance.

Billy Gross, a cyclonic comedian, whose ability as a humorist at the spur of the moment has never been equalled here before, has won the admiration of every one who has seen this week's bill at the Empress theater. The chorus is a gingery aggregation of pretty girls and they have been handsomely and daringly gowned for the ensembles.

"The Hurley Gurley Girls" will be the bill next week at the Empress.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

MOVIE ACTORS ENDANGERED.

When Boat Burns in "The Regeneration."—Powerful Film at Orpheum.

No incident better illustrates the fanatical efforts of motion picture directors to secure realism in photoplays than one which takes place in "The Regeneration," the terrific screen hit which is playing at the Orpheum today and tomorrow with Rockliffe Fellowes and Anna Nilsson. The scenario of the original story called for a scene in which a river excursion boat is supposed to burn, affording the stalwart hero an opportunity of rescuing a number of small children. In order to visualize this particular scene with utter exactitude, the producers of the play purchased a Mississippi river "double-decker," filled it with eight hundred well trained "supers" and set it afire. In less than ten minutes the river around the boat was filled with swimmers paddling away from the burning boat with more haste than ceremony. Narrow escapes were numerous as the ancient craft burned like tinder, and the expert swimmers who were held in reserve, had their hands full dragging the exhausted "supers" to terra firma.

Monday Holbrook Blinn and Alma Belwin will be seen at the Orpheum in "The Ivory Snuff Box," Tuesday and Wednesday brings Emily Stevens in "The Soul of a Woman," and Thursday William Farnum in "The Wonderful Adventure."

KNOWS WHEN TO STOP.

Rae Samuels Leaves One Still Hungry for Her Songs.

Someone has announced the secret of gastronomic delight to be found in leaving the table while still hungry, and not to stuff oneself to satiation. Rae Samuels, thevivacious comedienne at the New Palace this week, has adapted this rule to her amusement menu and always leaves her audiences just a bit hungry for a few more songs. She probably would have to sing a dozen more than she does to satiate them for this clever songstress is a character artist of class. Her little laugh at the story book small town sheriff is a gem.

Among the other hits on the current program are the Seven Colonial Belles in a delightful musical offering; Homer Miles and Helen Ray and company in the skit, "An Innocent Bystander;" Bill Robinson, the black daffydill; Joe Fields and Will Halliday's farce, "A Raw Recruit; Hill and Sylvany, the cycling marvels and Myrl and Delmar's gymnastic novelty, "Over the Garden Wall."

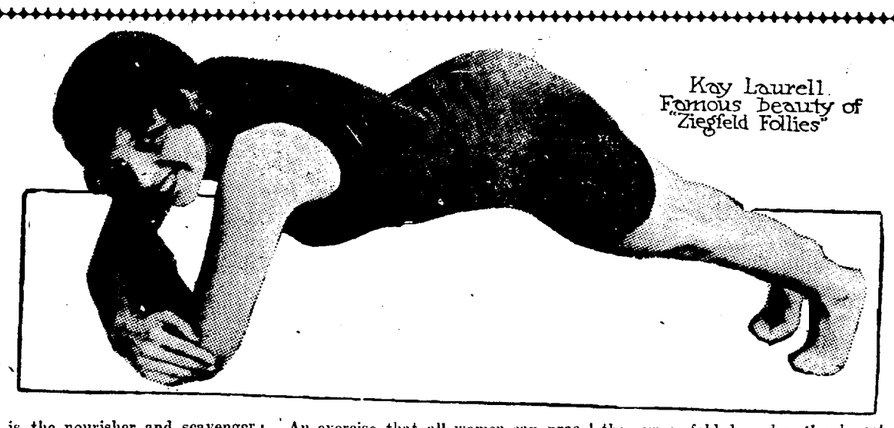
FOR HEALTH, BEAUTY AND GRACE, FAMOUS BEAUTY URGES ALL WOMEN TO EXERCISE DAILY.



Blood is the nourisher and scavenger of all the body's tissues. Without good blood one cannot have health and without health one cannot retain beauty, nor the grace that comes of a healthy virile figure.

Lie face downfard on the floor with the arms folded under the breast as pillows. Now stiffen up the whole frame and rest upon the toes and elbows, raising the hips as high as possible. Next lower them until the abdomen touches the ground. Repeat this slowly, raising and lowering the body for ten counts. Then relax and rest taking deep breaths meanwhile.

YOST STARTS MEN ON "HARVARD DRILL"

Michigan Footballers Are Down to Business With a Vim.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 24.—The so-called "Harvard drill" was introduced in the preparatory work being done by candidates for this season's University of Michigan football team. After a session of blocking and tackling Coach Yost put the men through the exercises which the Wolverines' training staff adopted last year from the crimson system.

One exercise is calculated to teach speedy footwork and dodging, and is much like shadow boxing, while the other drill consisted in running in a crouching position. Yost finished up his drill with the usual punting practice, and he had the same boys working their toes. Raymond today showed the best work, with Hildner, Dunne, Bixler and Sharpe as the others. The coach spent a long time with each man, carefully instructing them on the details of the booting game.

That Yost intends to search his squad to find a quarterback and center was indicated today by the practice of the field and by his talks with the coaches and newspaper men. Howe, Norton, Niemann, Adams and Warner were the centers he had passing the ball during the punting drill. During the grinds up and down the field in offensive formations the whole squad was trying to quarterback.

Four new arrivals, two of them veterans, joined the squad today. Jack Norton, of Ontanagon, lineman on the varsity squad last year, showed up, as did Jimmie Whalen, flanker, who was injured in the Syracuse battle last season. Owen J. Watts, of Wagner, O., a sophomore, and Samuel Cohen were the other newcomers.

Sixteen Cities Engaged in Struggle To Determine Amateur Championship.

HOW THE AMATEURS DRAW! SECTION OF CROWD BACK OF THIRD BASE AT AN AMATEUR BASEBALL GAME IN CLEVELAND. IT IS ESTIMATED 75,000 PEOPLE SAW THE GAME.

Just about the time the annual quarrel between National and American league champions is beginning to be history the fur will begin to fly in another world series that covers more territory than does the big blue ribbon event.

It's the world amateur championship series in which the big blow-off won't occur until late in October.

Eliminations now are being held in various parts of the country for the big amateur series. Teams representing sixteen cities are battling to decide which two shall meet to settle the big title.

The final games will be played on the Pacific coast Oct. 21, 22 and 23, with the team that wins the eastern division finals meeting the coast champions.

At the start of the eliminations the eastern group was made up of these towns: Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburg, Johnstown, Pa., Indianapolis, Louisville, Duluth, St. Paul, Omaha, Kansas City, Chicago and Columbus. The Pacific coast division consists of Tacoma, Portland, Sacramento and Los Angeles.

The series for the world title and the $1,000 trophy that goes to the winner will be played in whatever coast town wins the championship of that division.

All of these cities are members of the National Amateur Baseball association. The best amateur talent in the country plays on these clubs.

Last year the Cleveland entry won the national title. The association then did not comprise half as many cities as it does now.

HIGH SCHOOLERS HAVE FOUR HUNDRED NAMES

Faculty Members Join the Newly Formed Athletic Association.

Practically 400 names had been placed on the list of the Fort Wayne high school athletic association Friday noon, and the members in charge of the membership campaign are overjoyed at their success. The faculty members are enthusiastic and nearly the entire line of teachers has joined.

Membership in the association costs $1 and members may attend all of the ten local basketball games and four local baseball games on complimentary tickets. The students need nearly five hundred signers before the organization is assured, and it will be no difficulty to secure these names.

Acting Principal Louis Ward is an athletic enthusiast, and has promised to book ten good in town games and ten games out of town for the local boys through the winter, provided the athletic association is strong enough to support a team without any financial danger.

HAIL COLUMBIA!

New York, Sept. 24.—Football practice was begun at Columbia university Thursday for the first time in ten years. In that time Columbia has taken no part in intercollegiate games. Last spring more than 300 students promised to report as candidates for the eleven, but it was not expected that more than sixty or seventy of them would begin work today. None of the candidates has played the game since graduation from preparatory school two years ago. Some of Columbia's old football stars, including Tom Thorpe and Harold Weeks, were expected to aid in the preliminary coaching.

Y. W. C. A. TENNIS TOURNEY.

The only match in the Y. W. C. A. tennis tourney played off Thursday resulted in a win for Miss Katherine Brown over Miss Helen Hackius in two sets, 7-5 and 6-4. The girls played a snappy game with many sensational features. The tourney is being held on the association courts on Tennessee avenue, near Spy Run.

Records are just things for Dario Resta to break. His latest stunt is to travel ten miles on the new Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., speedway in 32 4-5 seconds, an average of a little over 108 miles an hour. This betters Resta's own record made on the Maywood speedway, Chicago, by 28 seconds.

SOLID TRAIN OF WHEAT FOR EXPORT

Thirty-Nine Cars Are Being Rushed to Seaboard on Passenger Schedule.

Shipments of wheat for export are increasing, making good eastbound business for the Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania and Wabash. Westbound freight continues to be light, however, and a large portion of the westbound cars are empties. The grain movement on the Nickel Plate is so heavy that it is necessary to occasionally send out trains composed exclusively of grain-laden cars. One passed through the city over that line this morning, running on a schedule nearly equal to passenger trains. It had thirty-nine cars, each one of which was loaded to its capacity with wheat for export. The grain movement is not at its greatest, though it is increasing in volume every day.

IS SEVENTY YEARS OLD.

R. J. Fisher, of Bass Works, Reaches Three Score and Ten.

R. J. Fisher, traveling salesman for the Bass Foundry and Machine company, is receiving the congratulations of his friends today upon his arrival at the seventieth anniversary of his birth. He was born in Herkimer county, N. Y., September 24, 1845, and came west with his parents, who settled in Chicago in 1853, when R. J. was eight years old. In his recollection of early days an undertaking establishment figures prominently, for Mr. Fisher's father was an undertaker both in New York and in Chicago. R. J. came to Fort Wayne in 1861 and took employment with Brooks & Hill, who conducted a bookstore, and a year later went to the drugstore of Reed & Wall, where he remained until August 1, 1864, when he resigned and took employment as a clerk with Bass & Hanna, the founders of the manufacturing establishment which for many years has been the Bass Foundry and Machine works. There Mr. Fisher remained continuously over fifty-one years, working in different capacities at different times. For many years he traveled in the interest of the company and in that capacity visited all the leading railway centers in the United States and became widely acquainted with railway managers. No Fort Wayne resident is more widely known in railway circles than he. Father time has dealt kindly with him and the signs of approaching age are not visible in appearance of action in Mr. Fisher. Many men a quarter of a century younger are less sprightly physically and mentally than he.

N. Y. C. OFFICIALS HERE AN HOUR.

Vice President P. E. Crowley, of the N. Y. C., who recently assumed supervision of the lines west, made his first official visit here yesterday and spent about an hour looking over the company's property. With him were General Superintendent F. H. Wilson. Assistant Superintendent of Motive Power Joseph Chidler, Rolling Stock Superintendent J. Thompson, Master Car Builder George Thompson, Master Mechanic M. D. Franey, Division Superintendent M. L. Reynolds. The party traveled by special train.

With Superintendent Williams were Trainmaster Ogden Pierce, Chief Clerk Fred Smith, Chief Clerk of Trainmaster F. C. Jenne, Division Operator D. H. Caldwell and Car Clerk W. E. Cotterman.

AEROPLANE GETS ON TURKISH NERVES

Soldiers of the Sultan Do Not Like the Airship Kind of War.

Constantinople, August 30.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Although the Turkish soldier is hardened to artillery, machine-gun and rifle fire, he is still so terrorized by the aeroplane that the mere sight of one sends him to cover.

The fear of the flying-machine is due, of course, to the effect of the bombs and darts that are thrown by the aviators, but there are psychologists among the Turkish officers who maintain that the fear of the man-bird largely arises from the fact that men still carry the "bloody memory," as evolutionists call it, of the days when human beings were the prey of huge winged creatures.

But the aeroplane bomb has qualities of its own to make it a fearful thing. Unlike the artillery projectile, it has no trajectural curve, against which cover can easily be obtained. In addition, although the scatter area of either the aeroplane bomb or the steel darts is small, it is in the form of a complete circle while the scatter area of the artillery projectile lies almost straightforward of the explosion. For this reason, an infantry position that is well protected against the artillery and small arms fire, is still open to attack from above.

Another feature that makes the aeroplane bomb feared is that it contains high explosives of a sort that cannot be employed in artillery ammunition, owing to their great susceptibility to shock. Most of the British and French aeroplane shells dropped on the Gallipoli peninsula contain nitro-gelatine, a mixture of nitro-glycerine and cellulose, the two making an explosive that is 98 per cent. pure, which, in other words, is all converted into heat with the exception of about two per cent.

The shattering effect of this explosive upon the steel shell of the bomb is terrific. At its best, the ordinary artillery shell flies into but a small number of fragments, but the aeroplane bomb is shattered completely. Its fragments usually show edges that are as sharp as that of a razor, and wounds caused by them are deep lacerations.

The aeroplane bomb "splinter" has a shattering effect upon small bones, but hitting a large bone it will firmly imbed itself. The artillery projectile fragment hardly ever does this. The wounds caused by it are as a rule fatal or easily cured, while those caused by the aeroplane bomb are what surgeons term "vicious." While the artillery "splinter," owing to an absence of great velocity at mean distances, takes a direct course in making a wound, the aerial bomb fragment, because of its smallness, shape, sharp edges and greater velocity, literally plows a zigzag route through the human body. Were it not that the Roentgen rays make the location of the fragment possible, the mortality from the effects of aeroplane bomb wounds would be appallingly great.

BILLY SUNDAY RAPS HUSBANDS AT OMAHA

Wife Deserves Flowers and a Few Kisses, He Tells Men Hearers.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 24.—Billy Sunday won the affections of every wife, young or old, and a lot of prospective brides here recently, when he lambasted erring husbands and exposed many masculine shortcomings.

The husbands squirmed on their seats and many looked guilty. If Omaha wives were shocked by hubby kissing them when they got home they might guess he was at the tabernacle and was perfectly sober.

If the florists got hurry calls for flowers from many Omaha benedicts they may thank Billy Sunday.

Sunday told the husbands to do their lovemaking and say nice things about their wives now, not to wait until they select an epitaph.

Here's some of the things Billy said for the benefit of the Omaha husbands:

Brag on your wife while she is alive. Don't wait until the undertaker has her.

Say nice things to your wife now. Don't wait to carve them on her tombstone.

Many a dollar has been spent on rosewood coffins that should have gone for a hired girl.

Some men buy rosewood coffins and big bouquets for their wives, who never gave her $5 when she was alive.

Many men make a big splurge at the funeral to throw the wool over some other fool woman's eyes.

The height of irony is to read "At Rest" on the tombstone of a woman ho has worked herself to death.

One man told me he married his wife because she was the best worker in the country. I knew another man who bought a mule for the same reason.

Scatter some rosebud's in your wife's path now. Don't wait until she is six feet under the ground.

Some men wait to put the bouquets on the grave and say, "Darn you, smell them if you can!"

Tell the neighbors what good coffee your wife makes, so she can hear you.

Kiss your wife as you did when you were courting her. She won't mind.

HAVE NO PART IN IT.

The Comparison Sale Ends Tomorrow

A Sale that was inaugurated to demonstrate conclusively our remarkable value-giving—It seems as if most of the women in Fort Wayne have profited by this sale.

The reasons for the growing popularity of our Ready-to-Wear sections are not far to seek. First, by far the widest assortments in Fort Wayne. Second, prices which we confidently believe are ten to fifteen per cent less than any other store. Third, the very newest styles shown as soon as they appear in the east. And finally, the knowledge that our advertised prices are genuine, and that the marked prices are absolutely the lowest at which anyone can buy the garments. We maintain a strictly one price standard.

Select a Fur Coat Saturday

Because our ready cash bought these coats at 25 to 35 per cent less than usual wholesale prices we are offering them to our customers at 25 to 35 per cent less than usual retail prices. Included are coats of Hudson Seal, Near Seal, Pony, Muskrat, Caracul, Squirrel and Persian Lamb.

If you can't pay for one now, just ask us to lay your choice aside, which we will be glad to do for a small deposit. Then get your coat November 1st.

Garb for the Little Miss

Reinforcements Have Filled In the Gaps In Our Suit Lines

Favored by excellent weather, Fort Wayne's army of women have attacked our suits in force, making wide gaps in our lines. These, however, have been closed up with reinforcements of new suits fresh from New York, so that today we present quite as strong a front as on the first day of this convincing comparison sale.

GREEK MOBILIZATION ORDERED BY DECREE

Athens Prepares to Promptly Meet Recent Move of Bulgaria by Energetic Action.

Paris, Sept. 24.—An official decree for the mobilization of the Greek army was issued in Athens today, says the Athens correspondent of the Havas News Agency. Parliament probably will be summoned tomorrow.

The dispatch says the decree was published in the official journal. It states that mobilization has been decided upon as a measure of prudence, on account of similar action by Bulgaria. The classes of 1892 to 1911 are called to the colors.

The semi-official newspaper Patris of Athens says the military measures undertaken by Greece show a decision has been reached to meet Bulgaria's move energetically and without delay. It adds that the intention of Greece is to defend her own rights and to fulfill her duty to support Serbia.

ALL EYES ON BULGARIA.

Paris, Sept. 24.—The Bulgarian situation is absorbing the attention of France to the exclusion of all other topics. Little doubt is felt here that Bulgaria, or rather King Ferdinand, has decided to cast its lot with the central powers.

"For months," says Jean Herbette, one of the authors of France on foreign politics, "the quadruple entente has been talking to Bulgaria without acting. During the same period Bulgaria has been preparing to act without talking. The time has come when Bulgaria is acting."

Military writers are beginning to discuss the course Bulgaria probably will take. Most of them are of the opinion that they will hurl troops into the upper Varda valley in Serbia and then cut the Salonika-Nish railway, which would cut Russia off from all communications with her allies, except through Archangel. It is generally believed such an eventuality must have occurred to the allied governments and that preparations have been made against it. While such headlines as "Will Czar Ferdinand repeat the error of 1913?" are common, French editorial writers betray some anxiety at the prospect of an added complication in the struggle for Constantinople.

WOULD AID TRADE WITH RUSSIA.

New York, Sept. 24.—Alexander Behr, president of the Russian-American chamber of commerce, who is in this city, started today a movement among American trade and commercial organizations looking to the organization of an international chamber of commerce, in which business houses of both the United States and Russia may become members. Mr. Behr came here in the interests of Russian business and to extend the trade between these two countries and aid in overcoming the obstacles which now hamper it.

What Thin Folks Should Do To Gain Weight

Good Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered combination of assimilative agents has made fat grow after years of thinness and it is also unequaled, judging from reports, for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable preparation is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing assimilative elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this preparation, which is endorsed and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A few weeks' systematic use of Sargol should go far to produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying nourishing fats to the blood. If not, every druggist who sells it is authorized to return the purchase price. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten and the additional fats that thin people need are thus provided. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., Dreier Drug Co., D. & N. Pharmacy, The Family Drug Store and other leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has from reports given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer, its use is not recommended to nervous people, unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

VON PAPEN FOUND IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Sept. 24.—Capt. von Papen, German military attache at Washington, who in one of the letters found in possession of James Archibald, referred to Americans as "these idiotic Yankees," is in San Francisco today. He is accompanied by a friend, who registered at a hotel as "Mr. Hatzfeldt, of New York.

Captain von Papen arrived yesterday and attempted, it is said, to preserve an incognito. When his identity was determined he refused to make any statement other than to say he is here on leave of absence. Captain von Papen's companion, who is believed to be Prince von Hatzfeldt, of the German embassy at Washington, refused to make reply to questions addressed to him.

EXPECT DECISION MONDAY.

Ruling in Bankruptcy Case of Winona Assembly Will Be Made Soon.

A decision will probably be made Monday in the federal court on the recent sale of the Winona Assembly and Summer School association to E. O. Excell, of Chicago, for $106,000. Objection to the sale was filed some time ago by certain creditors, which was overruled by Sol A. Wood, referee in bankruptcy. An appeal was then taken.

The property of the W. H. McIntyre company at Auburn, which is in the hands of a receiver, was sold, Thursday, to the highest bidder, which happened to be the creditors. The bid was $38,000 for the property and $12,500 for the material and contents of the factories. The creditors are incorporated as the DeKalb Manufacturing company.

20,000 JAP BALL FANS THERE.

Tokio, Sept. 24.—Twenty thousand Japanese baseball enthusiasts saw the City of Chicago university team win the first game of its series with Wazda university here this afternoon by a score of 5 to 3. The American's victory was due to their ability to make hits when they meant runs. The natives fielded cleverly and ran bases well, scoring all their runs with only one hit.

The American ambassador, George W. Guthrie, and the president of Wazda university, Dr. Santetaka, attended the game.

ALEXANDER $1,000 RICHER.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Grover Alexander, the big right handed pitcher of the Philadelphia Nationals, was $1,000 wealthier today as a result of his victory over Chicago in the first game of the double-header yesterday. Alexander was given $1,000 by the management of the club for scoring his thirtieth victory of the season. He previously had been given $500 after winning twenty games.

BULGARIA FEARS BELGIUM'S FATE

Sofia Newspaper Throws Bit of Light on Cause for Mobilization.

Sofia, Sept. 23.—(Via London, Sept. 24,4 a. m.)—An article which may throw some light on the Bulgarian mobilization appears in the Mir, which asks what Bulgaria will do if the Germans appear on its frontier, since a German invasion in Serbia will be attempted. Replying to its own question the paper says:

"It would mean the Bulgarians must allow the undisputed passage of German troops through their country. If the Bulgarians consented without making common cause with Germany then they would be unable to refuse the same privilege to the Russians, who might disembark at Varna (on the west shore of the Black sea.) Then the two adversities would meet to fight on Bulgarian territory to decide the fate of the country and people, if not the fate of the whole war.

"Thus Bulgaria would emerge ruined like Belgium. Moreover, her honor would be lost. If the Bulgarians joined the Germans, should they triumph, then Bulgaria would be a vassal state of Germany and Austria."

The Mir urges an agreement with the quadruple entente on the ground that Bulgaria will be overrun with Germans if Serbia is invaded.

MEETS ON LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.

General Assembly of Ohio Holds Session During Southern Tour.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 24.—The general asembly of Ohio had a brief session on the summit of Lookout mountain today, with a majority of both houses present. The session, incident to a tour of the Cincinnati Southern railroad, was confined by the proclamation authorizing it to discuss an adoption of a resolution of thanks to cities along the route for their hospitality to the party. Presiding Officer Arnold, of the senate, used a pile of cannon balls for a chair, while Speaker Canover's rostrum was a cannon. A roll call showed eighty-two representatives and twenty-five senators present.

THREE CALLS IN AN HOUR.

The city fire department answered three telephone calls for fires in an hour's time Thursday afternoon. The first was answered by No. 8 wagon to the residence of 1326 Hoagland avenue, where the house had become filled with smoke from a furnace. No. 1, No. 3 and No. 5 came to the Newark shoe store at 3:17, where a flat iron had set fire to a partition. The loss was $25. Twenty-five minutes later a small building at the back of the house owned by Mary Maloley, on Clinton street, was destroyed by fire.

TRUTH SOCIETY IN PROTEST ON LOAN

New York, Sept. 24.—A protest against the proposed Anglo-French loan was sent to President Wilson, the treasurer of the state of New York, the state banking department and the mayor, comptroller and chamberlain of New York city today by the American Truth society. The protest was expressed by resolutions adopted last night at the first of a series of mass meetings held for the avowed purpose of blocking the loan.

The meeting was under the auspices of the American Truth society. A. G. Koelbel, president of the German-American Alliance of New York, was one of the speakers. The resolutions characterize the proposed loan as "unsound, hazardous and improvident, subversive to the interests of depositors and corruptive of the purpose of our federal banking laws."

board on Thursday, Commissioners Butt, Schwier and Black retired to a private room. Almost immediately the four filed again into the court room. They took their seats and President James D. Butt arose and said, addressing the applicant and the counsel in the contest:

"Gentlemen: The board has decided to refuse the applicant a license on the ground of his unfitness to run a saloon."

The board had not required more than three minutes to retire, complete a verdict and to announce its judgment.

The Hof Brau was dead and the law required the doors of the place to be closed and the sale of liquor to cease at once. It already had run three weeks over the tenure of its last license by reason of the contest that had been launched against a renewal.

Girl's Testimony Hurt.

The most impressive testimony presented to the board of commissioners was given late Thursday afternoon by Anna Block, a 16-year-old girl, who sobbed out a heart-wracking story of disgrace and ruin at the hands of a man who first took her to the Hof Brau cafe on the 10th of last January.

The court room was cleared of all who had a legitimate interest in the proceedings, as well as of a goodly flock of buzzards, who were cheated of what had been promised as the salacious treat of the inquiry. Only Judge Morris, the members of the board, the remonstrant, the applicant and counsel for both sides were permitted in the room while Anna Block told what had happened to her on the fateful night when she was picked up on the street early in the evening, taken to the Hof Brau cafe, plied with beer and then of knowing no more until she awakened at 6 o'clock the following morning beside her betrayer in a room on Pearl street.

Breaks Down Completely.

The girl's story was broken by convulsive sobbing and it was with difficulty that she regained sufficient control of herself to testify at all. When she had concluded her shocking story she broke down completely and had to be assisted from the room, her hysterical weeping filling the rooms. She said the man who wrought her ruin is Harvey Jackson, a railway man 28 years old, who has fled the city to escape the suit brought against him by the girl. A charge of criminal assault will lie against Jackson if he can be found. The young victim is soon to become a mother and her unhappy state elicited the profound pity of all who saw her in court.

Printed stories that the girl would testify to having been assaulted in the rooms at the Hof Brau were wholly without foundation. The girl had no such story to tell. That it was possible to take a 16-year-old girl into the Hof Brau and get drunk was considered by the commissioners and others who heard her story as sufficient indictment of the place. Miss Block's testimony dealt Wiebke a terrible and perhaps the fatal blow.

Pushed to Rapid Conclusion.

Late Thursday afternoon Judge Morris began to crowd on speed in the taking of testimony in an effort to conclude the hearing. He announced that no recess would be taken until that had been accomplished, and refused several different times after 5 o'clock to adjourn until Friday morning.

The counsel for the opposition put Rev. James A. Nipper on the stand to prove by him that he had often seen drunken men and women come from the Hof Brau, but the testimony was ruled to be improper and Rev. Nipper's appearance on the stand was brief.

Half a dozen waiters from the Hof Brau were examined by the applicant's attorneys to prove that all employes of the place were carefully instructed to serve no minors or lewd women in the cafe. Their testimony was uniform to a nicety.

"Do you know any lewd women—do you know a solitary lewd woman—in this city, and have you ever seen one?" Attorney William P. Breen, for the remonstrant, asked Ernest Reed, one of the waiters.

"No, sir," responded the witness.

"And you have always kept such women out of the Hof Brau?" said Mr. Breen.

"Yes, sir," replied Reed, whereat there was a roar from the court room.

Wiebke, the applicant, was called again to the stand to explain the checking system, and Bernard Hedekin, the manager, was examined briefly.

Then both sides rested their case. Earlier in the afternoon Oscar Gandy, of Churubusco, a fifteen-year-old youth, almost six feet tall, was questioned as to the drinking by himself and young companions from his town in the Hof Brau last July, and related the story he has told on other occasions.

Arguments Were Brief.

The arguments in the case were so brief as to permit only a summing up by Mr. Colerick for the applicant and Mr. Breen for the remonstrant. Mr. Colerick declared that no applicant for a license had ever supported his character by such an array of substantial witnesses who knew him, whereas the only witness made on him had been by two detectives from Chicago who gave "hired testimony." He made a strong plea for his client.

Mr. Breen declared that every allegation of the remonstrant as to violations of the law in the Hof Brau had been established and the moral unfitness of the applicant proved.

Henry A. Wiebke closed his saloon at 9 o'clock, but the three cafes attached to the place were open. He says he is done and will go out of business.

BUSINESS PICKING UP, SAYS DELANO

Washington, Sept. 24.—F. A. Delano, vice governor of the federal reserve board, got back to Washington today from a trip through the Panama canal and across the continent.

"Business," said Mr. Delano, "is picking up, and that is true everywhere except in the farming country of the west. The farmer seems to think he can get $1.25 again this year for his wheat. He can't, but he's holding it just the same. The fact that money is easy makes it easier for him to hold his crop for higher prices, and I'm afraid he will get fooled."

Mr. Delano said signs of increased prosperity were noticeable from the Pacific coast all the way eastward, and that war orders, more buying by railroads and other factors were responsible. He visited the federal reserve banks in San Francisco, Minneapolis, Chicago and Cleveland and thinks their usefulness is becoming more appreciated.

The Juvenile Section Appeals to the Thoughtful Mothers

The needs and health of the children are studied and thought of deeply in our Juvenile Section.

Garments which are perfectly comfortable and which encourage rather than hinder the play and school hours of the little ones are to be found here.

CHILDREN'S COATS were never jauntier or more becoming, and are made of corduroy, serges, novelty checks and chinchilla cloth. Some are snugly trimmed with fur, others with braid and buttons, and most of them are warmly interlined.

CAPTIVATING LITTLE DRESSES for school and play are made of plaid ginghams, percales and galateas, in plain and combination effects. The designs are very simple, but charming in effect.

In this section, too, are the cunning hats and caps to match the coats.

And prices are wonderfully reasonable, so that the kiddies' winter outfits are not expensive.

CLEVELAND MEN ARE COMING NEXT WEEK

Manufacturers and Wholesale Merchants Will Spend Night Here.

At 4:53 o'clock Thursday morning, September 30, a special train composed of four Pullman cars, will arrive in Fort Wayne, bringing a hundred or more members of the manufacturers' and wholesale merchants' board of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, who have included this city in their five days' trade extension excursion through the state of Indiana. They will remain in Fort Wayne all night and will not leave until Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

The visitors come to Indiana, not with gripsacks in their hands, but simply with good will and a desire to become more closely associated with local merchants with whom they now have or may hereafter acquire more close business relations.

"Business now days is based on confidence, and confidence is based upon acquaintance," is the motto of President Upson, head of the Cleveland delegation.

The manufacturers' and merchants' board of Cleveland has recently entered the third decade of its existence, having been established in 1895. The original membership consisted of twenty-three jobbing houses, and the first president was George T. McIntosh, then of the McIntosh-Huntington Hardware company, now the secretary and manger of the One Cent Letter Postage association of the United States.

One of its earliest activities was the projection of trade extension by which its members paid visits to merchants in surrounding cities with the purpose of increasing personal friendships between heads of institutions and the men with whom they were carrying on business correspondence.

The board has done much to increase Cleveland's commercial relations throughout the middle west, and has been a prominent factor in the activities of the chamber of commerce at home. The manufacturers' and wholesale merchants' board only selects those territories in which business conditions are promising in making its tours. Last spring it took in the great middle west and northwest from Kansas City and Omaha to St. Paul and Milwaukee. This fall it is devoting itself to a rich section of central Indiana.

ASSAILANT NOT SOAKED HARD ENOUGH; PROSECUTING WITNESS DEMANDS APPEAL

It is neither out of order nor unusual for the convicted party to express dissatisfaction with the judgment of trial courts and to seek appeal to higher tribunals. It is frequently done. But it remained for Sam Pontello, of Melita street, in Fort Wayne's Little Italy, to come forward as a witness and denounce a court's verdict and demand an appeal because an offender had not received all that was coming to him.

Sam caused the arrest of Joe Liberatto, a Melita street neighbor, on a charge of assault and battery. The two sons of sunny Italy had a disagreement which, according to Sam's story, Joe had sought to compose by appeal to the arbitrament of an iron bar and two bricks. Joe accordingly was arraigned before Judge Kerr in the city court, Friday morning, on a charge of assault and battery. There were none to testify but the accused and accuser. Each told his story in a rather incoherent mixture of the Latin and English tongues. Each blamed the other, but Sam blamed the most fluently and the court assessed a fine of $1 and costs against Joe, which that belligerent promptly paid, and walked out of court.

To see his assailant walk forth free and buoyant at a trifling outlay of $11 made Sam's angry gorge to rise against his late adversary and the court.

Sam dashed forward to the court's desk and said excitedly:

"G-r-r-r-r-r!" Likewise "Carramba!"

"Whatta it costa to go to-a the cir—what you call court. I have him tried there where he getta enough for him, I betcha."

The court informed Sam that the thing was over unless Joe wanted to appeal and others warned him he was geeting himself in line for a fine for contempt and he went away much disgusted with American judicial procedure.

BORED SOCIETY FOLK IN AMATEUR FILMS

Upper Circles at Spokane Have Discovered New Diversion.

Virginia Riblet

Bored to death by tango teas, and afternoon bridge parties, the leaders in this city's five hundred have taken to scenario writing and the production of motion pictures in which they themselves are the principal actors.

Miss Virginia Riblet, young society maid who has a hankering for the stage, started the fashion. Miss Riblet wrote a scenario and invited her friends to pose for the motion picture machine. The film was produced on the estate of her father on the Little Spokane river and one of the managers of a local motion picture theater acted as stage director.

Five hundred society men and women acted as "the mob."

The film was exhibited at a motion picture house for three days and it did a rushing business.

Society folks here plan to make this a regular feature of their entertainments this coming fall.

CRYING FOR THEIR PAPA.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 24.—A search is being made for Otto R. Deming, a painter, twenty-eight years old, who disappeared from his home in the country near here last Tuesday, and has not since been seen. His young wife is frantic with grief, and his two children cry almost incessantly. The young man, who came to Muncie with his family a few months ago, and moved to the country, told Mrs. Deming a few days ago that he was going to Muncie to work. He had no bad habits and few acquaintances in Muncie, and was always devoted to his wife and children. He is described as having a smooth face and fair complexion, being six feet and two inches in height, weighing 175 pounds; but having a blue mark across the bridge of his nose, one upper tooth out, brown eyes and dark brown hair. When last seen he wore a brown coat, blue trousers and black derby hat.

Our men will be at the addition office tomorrow to give prices and explain the $300 bonus for building.

CURIOUS EFFECT OF WAR ON PAWNSHOPS

Fewer Loans and Increase in Amount of Property Redeemed.

Leipzig, Germany, Sept. 5.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—One of the curious effects of the war has been to reduce the number of loans made by the poor of the city at the municipal pawn establishment, and to increase the number of redemptions of property already pawned.

The explanation is that most of the loans, in peace time, are made by women; that most of the women are the wives of men now in the field; and that never in peace time have these women had as large an income as they do now that most of their husband's earnings come to them to supplement what they themselves can make.

In the twelve months just preceding the war the municipal pawn shop made approximately 240,000 loans on articles ranging from silver-headed canes to babies' shoes. The exact number for the past 12 months has not as yet been compiled, but the director of the establishment is authority for the statement that the number probably will run closer to 200,000. Incidentally, the money loaned will not, either, reach the figures of the year before.

The usual rate of redemption, in normal, peace times, is astonishingly high as pawn shops go. With a normal of almost a quarter of a million loans a year: it is seldom that more than 20,000 articles have to be auctioned off. The number usually runs between 15,000 and 18,000. This year it will be still smaller because of the increased number of redemptions.

Leipzig's loan establishment is a huge affair, and is conducted along much the same lines as a few institutions in America that make a specialty of encouraging redemptions by advancing little, and by charging a low rate of interest. The city of Liepzig, however, incorporates a new feature by charging 12 per cent. a year, and then by returning to the borrower everything above the interest charges that may be procured by auctioning off the pledge when it has not been redeemed.

Women are by far the most frequent customers, and rarely offer anything of great value. A prosperous loan establishment would scoff at the watches and jewelry that find their way to the municipal "pawn shop" and would refuse to accept the clothing, even bedding and household utensils, that are offered. That they are taken by the city's establishment is one of its virtues, for with them many a needy person can get temporary relief that she could not obtain elsewhere.

The haggling, arguing methods of the private loan office are noticeable by their absence in the Yorkplatz establishment. The women enter by a rear door, free from the prying eyes of gossiping neighbors, and tender their bundles to appraisers who briefly announce what will be loaned. That ends the matter. The women accept the decision without demur and silently get their money.

The pledges are for the most part homely articles of wearing apparel, and often are not without their touch of tragedy. The Sunday shoes of the whole family—father's, mother's, daughter's and the baby's—hanging together by a single string, indicate a degree of distress if not actual poverty that is appealing.

CONFESSES CRIME TO SAVE BROTHER

Goes on Stand and Testifies That He Alone Committed Deed.

Butler, Pa., Sept. 24.—To save his brother from going to prison, Steve Hoffner, 26 years old, who inflicted serious wounds on Louis Tomolitz, last July 26 in Zelienople and escaped into Ohio, returned to Butler county voluntarily and gave himself up.

Hoffner and Tomolitz fought over a girl, it is alleged. Nick Hoffner attempted to interfere. Tomolitz was stabbed in the stomach and under the heart and spent five weeks in a hospital. Steve Hoffner escaped and Nick Hoffner was arrested. Tomolitz was unable to tell who cut him.

The brothers were indicted jointly on a charge of felonious cutting and assault and battery. At the trial, Steve Hoffner went on the stand and testified that he did the cutting and that his brother was innocent. The jury returned a verdict finding Steve guilty of felonious cutting and acquitted the brother.

CHILDREN ALARMED BY TOY-TOWN RUMOR

Metal Used in Tin Soldiers May Go Into More Real Purpose of War.

The Hague, Netherlands, Sept. 8.—(Correspondence of the American Press).—Disquieting rumors have reached Dutch children to the effect that the famous toy-making town of Nuremberg, in Bavaria, may use the metal which it has been putting into millions of little tin soldiers for more real purposes of war. However true the report may be, there is as yet no serious decimation in the ranks of the armies of the nursery floor. From toy dealers' reports, in fact, the tin-soldier armies are increasing faster than any others in Europe.

Although before the war Dutch children were satisfied with an indiscriminate phalanx of red coats, German Hussars and Cossacks, the nursery now must be equipped uniformly with unbroken lines of soldiers, with the child's favorite always predominating in strength of men and guns. If there is any class in Holland that has entirely ignored the neutrality stand, it is the children, who, in the toy shops exhibit their preferences. The toy dealer has more than ever become a diplomat.

In Rotterdam it is very noticeable that the toy shop generally displays German soldiers, while in Amsterdam, it is the French and British which are shown. In the matter of naval toys, children also have marked preferences, with Rotterdam windows displaying the German colors on dreadnoughts and torpedo boats, while Amsterdam windows cater to the sentiment there by giving the Franco-British allies the better show.

SUE RELIEF DEPARTMENT.

Discharged Negro Porter-Brakemen of Pennsylvania Lines Ask Judgments.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Sept. 24.—Nathaniel Marble and John Britton, two of five negro employes of the Pennsylvania lines who have sued to recover the difference in pay which they received as porters on the run between Louisville and Indianapolis and the rate of pay of white brakemen on the same run, have filed additional suits against the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway company, the former asking $121 and the latter $54, alleged due as part of their wages kept back as contributions to the voluntary relief department of the railroad. Both were discharged, with several others, August 15, 1915, because of the protest made by the railroad organizations over the employment of the porter's to do brakemen's work. Each is suing for more than $2,000 alleged due as difference of wages. Several suits similar to the new ones have been instituted against the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad company, but these are the first, as far as known here, to be directed against the voluntary relief department of the Pennsylvania lines.

Carried Away Broken Glass.

That the burglar felt secure, after smashing in the big window pane in the front of the store was shown by the care he took to remove the jagged pieces of broken glass. Large pieces of the pane had been removed and carried to each side of the store building.

After making the means of entrance easy the robber was just about to step through the opening he had made when Dawkins' big gatling belched its fire and lead.

No Means of Identification.

The burglar was clad in a suit of blue overalls and one shoe was removed. He was a man of medium height, of dark complexion, dark hair and wore a dark mustache. There was not found in his clothing a scrap of paper by which he could be identified. The label had been removed from his overalls so that no means of determining the place of purchase remained. In his pockets were found a penknife and a razor, but no other weapons.

John Riehle, employed on the Nickel Plate section crew at Dawkins, after viewing the body stated that he had seen the man walking on the tracks near the village about 5 o'clock Thursday evening but paid no special attention to him.

Make Finger Prints.

Sheriff Gladieux brought to the city several fragments of the broken glass that the finger prints on them might be examined by Sergeant Detective Joseph P. Brennan, of the police identification bureau, and later Sergeant Brennan took finger prints of the dead man at Scheumann & Son morgue. By this means it is hoped to identify the victim of Dawkins' bullet if he is a man with a criminal record.

Dawkins, who killed the burglar, has long been in business in the village of Dawkins. He is badly crippled by rheumatism and gets about with difficulty. He says that an attempt was made to rob him about eighteen years ago and that since that time he has always been prepared for marauders.

Finger Prints Not Positive.

Detective Sergeant Brennan, after developing the finger prints on the fragments of glass brought from the Dawkins store and compared them with prints he took of the dead man at the Scheumann morgue.

"There are indications that some of the prints on the glass are identical with those of the dead man," said Sergeant Brennan at noan Friday, "but the conclusion cannot be positive. So many persons handled the glass either after it was picked up or had their hands in contact with it while it was yet in the sash before the shooting that it is not possible to get conclusive results from the glass. However, there are some indications that are of value."

One reason for identifying the prints of the dead man's fingers with those on the glass is to establish completely that the man whose body was picked up on the railway tracks is the same man who was seen by Dawkins in his window and at whom he shot. The importance of this lies in establishing a justifiable homicide.

REFORM LEAGUS WARS ON LAWLESS SALOONS

on the ground that he was morally unfit to run a saloon and was guilty of numerous violations of the law and on similar grounds remonstrances were filed against Wiebke and Poirson, who were applicants for renewal of license before the commissioners at the opening of the September term of the board's court. Both Poirson and Wiebke filed motions to have the complaints of the remonstrant made more specific and were accommodated so quickly that the applicants got a shock. The reports of the Chicago detectives furnished all the ammunition of that sort the applicants might call for. The same reports, it is disclosed, will furnish the specific charges demanded in the superior court by Kleindinst, whose case is set for trial November 22.

Detectives as Witnesses.

The applicants remonstrated against and their attorneys were taken completely by surprise Thursday in the Wiebke case hearing when the detectives were put on the stand to detail what they had learned in their investigations.

"That was a h—l of a mess to have to go against," said one of Wiebke's attorneys at noon Friday, after the Chicago sleuths had been on the stand most of the forenoon. There was no weakening the force of such testimony. Names of women, days and hours when the detectives met and bought drinks for the female hangers-on in the Hof Brau and made assignations with them were a part of the testimony and the testimony was of record made at the time. The same character of notes had been taken in Poirson's place and in other resorts for the commingling of men and women over boozing tables.

Reform League Wants Reform.

The Indiana Law Enforcement and Reform league, composed of interests enormously interested in the preservation of the jeopardized brewery and saloon business, had taken note of the repeated agitation against saloons in Fort Wayne and wanted to know what was wrong in this city. The league resolved to find out and to give its aid to local efforts to put out of business the dealers who were making the way hard for all liquor dealers and manufacturers. The services of the Thiel agency were employ to make a secret investigation. The result so far has been that two notorious places have become extinct and that others will become so as opportunities are found to attack their licenses.

STILL TAKING 'EM BY STORM

The first loan, which closed in September, 1914, amounted to $1,125,000,000, according to figures from Berlin shortly after the subscriptions closed. For the second loan, in March last, $2,140,000,000 was subscribed.

SLOW GERMAN ADVANCE.

Austrians Unable to Bear Burden of New Russian Drive.

London, Sept. 24.—Miliary activities on the eastern front are once more assuming the familiar phase of a slow German advance, following the recent impetuous rush of the invaders. The German plan of dividing the Russian armies north and south of the Pripet has been a strategic success in a way, but the immediate effect of the severance has thrown an increased burden on the Austrians who seem unable to check the Russian drive.

Unofficials dispatches from Petrograd satte that the latest Russian victory northwest of Dubno is of more importance than was revealed by the official communication from Petrograd, involving recapture of the fortress of Lutsk, northwest of Dubno. Relinquishing tthis fortress, the Austrians are said to have retired across the Styr.

All the way from the Baltic port of Riga to the Pripet marshes the Russians are holding their line stubbornly in an attempt to bring their long retirement to an end. The fighting is particularly severe southeast of Vilna and eats of Dvinsk. Envelopment of the Vilna army having failed, it is assumed the Germans will develop their offensive movement at Dvinsk, with the view of an ultimate blow at Riga. It is generally believed the Germans have determined to capture Riga before the onset of winter.

London is still in the dark concerning the developments in Bulgaria and the policy of the government. Not the slightest hint of the reason for mobilization has reached England.

CALLED HER HUSBAND A TRAMP AND A BUM

Consequently George Kelley Wants Divorce from Helen Kelley.

Because his wife and her two children by a former marriage persisted in calling him a tramp and a bum, George Kelley filed suit Friday in the superior court asking for a divorce from Helen Kelley, through his attorneys, Emrick & Emrick. Mr. and Mrs. Kelley were married in 1913 and luived together until September, 1915. Kelley also alleges that his wife refuses to cook his meals, compelling him to prepare his own many times after he had done a day's work.

Divorce Is Granted.

Judge Carl Yaple in the superior court Friday granted a decree for divorce to Caroline Taylor from Cecil A. Taylor. Mrs. Taylor also was given the custody of the minor child, Irene, the husband being ordered to contribute $3 a week toward its support. The plaintiff was represented by Attorneys Hanthorn and Clapham.

WOMAN GIVEN SCORING.

Mrs. Dennis Testified She Had Not Seen Babies Since Last June.

Mrs. Maude Dennis was given one of the severest scoring Thursday afternoon by Judge John W. Eggeman in the circuit court that perhaps any woman ever received from a court when in a suit for divorce brought by her husband, Francis M. Dennis, testimony was introduced showing that she had not seen her little children since she left the family home in Lafayette township last June, and had never made any inquiry concerning their welfare. Mrs. Denns was not in court at the time and the court ordered that she be brought in, when she admitted that she had not seen her children, declaring that the only reason she left her family was because she did not like life on a farm and would rather stay in town and "run around." The court granted the divorce and gave Dennis the custody of the children. The husband was represented by Attorney William C. Geake.

Fined for Stealing Current.

George W. Bryan, a restaurant man, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Eggeman in the circuit court Thursday afternoon for sealing current from the city light and power department. Several other consumers are alleged to have been found using "jumpers" to prevent their meters from registering. Bryan was represented by Attorneys Barrett, Morris & Hoffman.

Received Stolen Property.

Hattie Edwards, colored, was fined $10 and costs for receiving stolen property and a jail sentence of thirty days suspended, while Mark Walters, also colored, was fined the same amount and sent to jail for twenty days on the same charge. The couple are alleged to have received much property that had been stolen by Walter Hamilton, colored, who is now serving time in the penitentiary.

NOTES OF THE COURTS.

The divorce case brought by Minetta Agster against Chester Agster has been set for trial in the circuit court for September 28.

The suit brought by Louis Plost against Abraham Weil was dismissed Friday morning on motion of the plaintiff.

Attorneys Frank H. Kleekamp and Robert B. Dreibelbiss entered their appearance Friday morning in the superior court for the defendant in the case brought by Homer J. Kelsey against Daniel W. Rhodes, involving the possession of a piece of property on St. Joe boulevard.

The case against Floyd LeRoy, charged with child neglect, on complaint of his wife, will be heard October 16.

TW OSUITS ON NOTES.

Otto H. Schmidt, Emma Schmidt and Gottfried Schmidt filed suit in the circuit court Friday against Henry J. Andrews for $125, alleged to be due on a promissory note. The plaintiffs are represented by Attorneys Somers and Kenerk.

Suit for $200 alleged to be due on a note was filed by the Farmers' State bank, of Sheldon, against Albert Brown. The bank is represented by Attorney H. I. Smith.

ORDERS PROPERTY SOLD.

In the case brought by George B. Dolan against Christian Solge for the foreclosure of a mechanic's lien, Judge Carl Yaple Friday, in the superior court, found for the plaintiff, awarding judgment in the sum of $210 and ordered the sale of lot 2 in Jones' addition to Fort Wayne.

COLORED MAN ADMITTED.

Frank Wililams, colored, was admitted to the Allen county bar Thursday afternoon, on motion of John G. B. Jones. Williams has been practicing law in Marion county.

CHANGE OF VENUE.

A change of venue was taken Friday morning in two cases, the suit brought by Nettie Campbell against Hyman Goldstein and A. N. Houk, being sent to Adams county, and the suit brought by the Armour Leather company against John P. Evans being sent to DeKalb county.

FIND NO LAW TO FIT THE ARCHIBALD CASE

Correspondent Who Carried Dumba Letter to Escape Prosecution.

Washington, Sept. 24.—James F. J. Archibald, the American, who acted as messenger for Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba, Austro-Hungarian ambassador here, possibly will not be prosecuted by the department of justice. Examination of the papers relating to Archibald's activity has not been completed by the department, but some officials say there is no statute covering the case. As a result of the incident, it was said that congress would be urged to enact a law to cover such cases.

Archibald's attorney today requested an appointment for his client with Acting Secretary Polk for further explanation of his claim that he had not consciously misused his American passport. The interview will be granted as soon as the state department has received copies of all the documents taken from Archibald.

Are you saving your money? If not, why not start now by contracting for a lot in Calhoun Place and pay monthly.

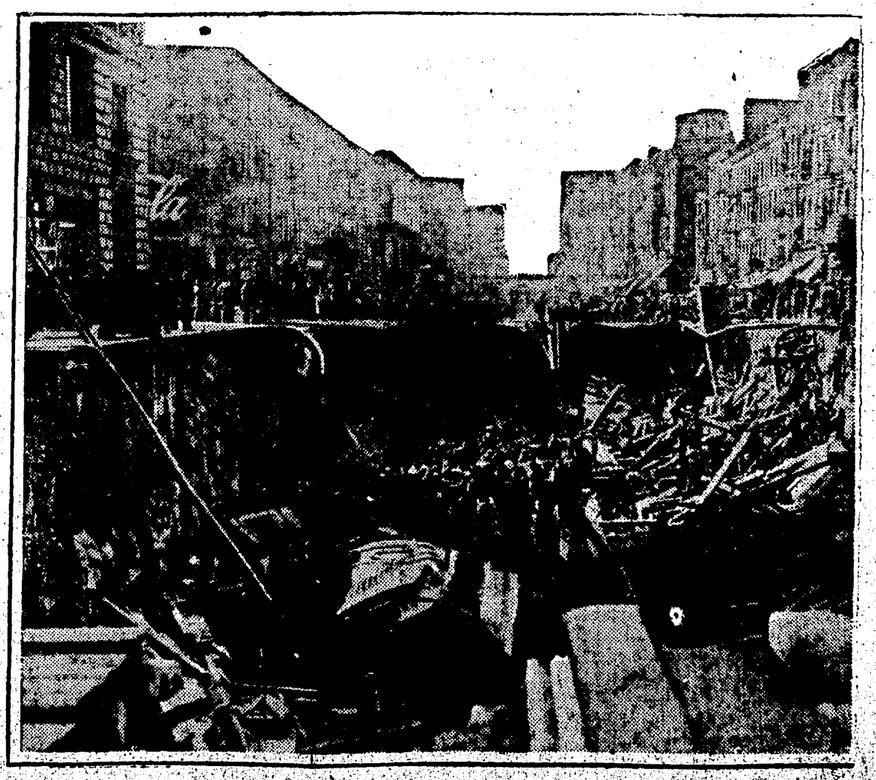
New York Subway Cave-in Which Claimed Seven Lives.



This shows the cave-in of the Seventh avenue subway at New York, in which seven people were killed and many others injured. The cave-in followed the premature explosion of a large blast of dynamite. Rescuers are shown in the bed of the subway searching for victims. The construction work gave way for a block, dropping crushed cars into the chasm.

SING SING'S RIP VAN WINKLE TO START LIFE ANEW AT 85.

©UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

George Cram, Sing Sing's Rip Van Winkle, and Miss Doris Easton, his hostess at an electrically cooked dinner.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

New York, Sept. 23.—Last month he was "Old George the Lifer," the most pathetic figure in Sing Sing prison.

Today he is a new Rip Van Winkle at large in New York city, and staring wide-eyed with wonder at the miracles which have come to pass since he passed, 20 years ago, under the lowering portals of what was then the gloomiest prison in the world.

Between "Old George, the Lifer," the 85-year-old prisoner who had never hoped to leave Sing Sing alive, and the alert, well-dressed, spry young man of more than four score summers who alighted from a Tarrytown train in the Grand Central station a few days ago, lay an act of grace—a full pardon granted to George Weldon Cramby, by Gov. Whitman, of New York.

A veteran or two wars, "Old George" had killed his wife in a fit of drunken frenzy and had been sentenced to be the first man to die in the electric chair. This was in 1894, and because of a doubt as to "Old George's" mental responsibility, Levi P. Morton, then governor, had commuted his sentence to life imprisonment.

"I never expected to see New York again. But I am not going to stay here. No indeed. I'm only 85, and I'm going out west to grow up with the country. I'm going to California, where I have relatives and the promise of a job."

"Old George" blames his downfall on drink.

"My advice to all young fellows is this," said the returned Rip Van Winkle. "Follow your mother's advice. Go to church, respect all women, and keep away from rum shops."

WOMEN DANCE ON STREET FOR VOTES

New York's East Side Introduced to Suffrage Campaign.

New York, Sept. 2.—The population of the Tenth assembly district is estimated at 162,000, and a good share of it turned out the other night to see the suffrage street dance on Fourth street, between avenues A and B. The entire block was supposed to have been reserved for dancers, but by 8 o'clock the crowd had gotten the best of the patrolmen and swarmed in from both ends until the space allotted the dancers was not more than two hundred feet square and they had to fight for that.

Judging from the feminine representation, women on the East Side should have the vote. There were fully twenty-five women and girls to one man. Either the men were bashful and would not come out, or they are painfully in the minority. The block was decorated with lanterns and yellow banners and although a majority of the crowd had no idea what it was all about or what the word suffrage means, they know now there is such a thing and may look into it in the future.

MISSED THEIR BREAKFAST.

Many Noblesville People Go Hungry When Fire Shuts Off Gas Supply.

Noblesville, Ind., Sept. 24.—The gas station of the Indiana Gass Light company was destroyed by fire yesterday. Noblesville's entire supply of gas passes through this station and when falling debris closed the regulator there was not a house in the city that had sufficient gas to cook breakfast. Many men went to work without their morning meals. The fire was outside the city limits and the fire department was unable to render assistance. As soon as the machinery cooled off, the regulator was opened and the supply of gas was sufficient for all.

The Sentinel, believing its readers will be greatly interested in an introduction to these POTENTIAL PRESIDENTS has prepared a series of illuminating articles on WHO and WHAT THEY ARE!

Of Wilson and of Roosevelt all has been printed that anyone can wash to know, so we'll leave them out.

But the rest of these fellows—

We're going to tear away the mask of dignified reserve, remove the barriers of distance that "lends enchantment to the view," and put them squarely before you with every fact thrown into relief by the SPOTLIGHT OF PUBLICITY

And the facts alone will prevail—the muchrake has been left in the cellar.

This series will be a little excursion into political truth!

It will apply the acid test of accuracy!

You'll know these men as you know your neighbors—and you'll know them better than they know themselves!

So watch The Sentinel for the articles, which will start tomorrow with the truth about the candidate now most prominently mentioned for the republican nomination—

Senator Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio!

DAD CATCHES EYE OF THE TAILORS

No More Baggy Suits for Men, Declare the Style Savants.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Father is not to be sent to the kitchen when society folks call this fall. The Chicago Society of Merchant Tailors have decided that he shall be dressed so that his wife and daughters will be proud to see him, even when no bills are to be O. K.'d.

The merchant tailors of Chicago met last night at a banquet in the Florentine room of the Congress hotel to observe and approve the fall styles, which represent practically in toto the efforts of local geniuses of scissors and tape. No foreign high priests of the style god had any hand in the fashion of this autumn's offerings.

Dad Gets Attention.

Particular attention has been given to the apparel of that socially invisible hermit, the American father. He will have to wear proper clothes, the tailors say, or spend his time in bed. In fact, there are to be no dowdy clothes this fall. Though the conservative middle-age man may pine for a nice shapeless suit of clothes with baggy knees and creases, he will search Chicago in vain. In brief, his wardrobe is to include morning coat, afternoon coat, golfing costume, evening clothes, opera capes and automobile raiment, in addition to his business suits.

The styles this fall will conform to the figure if any. Nothing will be padded except actors' clothes; the loose sack effect has been entirely displaced, and what the tailors consider a happy medium has been found between the baggy coat and the corsetlike garment which had a vogue this summer. The lapels are wider and the coats longer. The trousers mercilessly reveal the lines of the leg, although they are not to be tight. Life will be bitter this season for men whose legs are very distant in their manner toward one another.

Green, grays and heather mixtures will predominate. Albert Mathews, chairman of the executive committee, explained that a heather mixture included a combination of red and lavender on a background of green, bottle green, brown, bronze or tan.

Form fitting overcoats will predominate, with wide lapels and velvet collars.

NATIONAL OFFICERS COMING FOR BANQUET

National officers of the National Association of Civil Service Employes will be in attendance at a banquet to be given Saturday evening at the Elks' temple by members of Fort Wayne branch No. 57. The speakers of the evening will be L. E. Swartz, of Chicago, treasurer of the association; E. J. Gainor, of Muncie, national president of the letter carriers' association, and Congressman Cyrus Cline. Postmaster Ed C. Miller will act as postmaster. Invitations have been extended to fifty Fort Wayne business men and favorable replies have been received from a majority of them. Many visitors will also be in attendance from different cities throughout the district.

U. S. FLAG GLORIFIED BY ACTS OF WOMEN

She Has Always Shown Utmost Loyalty and High Patriotism.

Columbus, O., Sept. 24.—Owing to the large part that certain women have taken in recent peace propaganda, the loyalty and patriotism of American women has been questioned in some quarters.

However, according to history, the women of America have always shown the most loyal devotion to their country and flag. and will in the event of war with any foreign country be the staunchest supporters of her rights and honors.

Mrs. Charles B. Nelcamp, chairman of the Ohio state committee to prevent the desecration of the flag, of the D. A. R., has made a very complete study of the American flag and the connection that women of this country have had with it since the time of Betsy Ross, down to the present day, and has compiled the following historical facts relating to women:

Betsy Ross made and designed the first American flag in June, 1776, and she became official government flagmaker during the Revolutionary war. However, she was not the only woman of her day to work flags for her country.

Girls' Dresses Furnished Flag.

The girls of Portsmouth made a flag from pieces of their best gowns and presented it to Paul Jones to hoist on the Ranger, July 4, 1777. On relinguishing the Ranger, Paul Jones kept the flag and used it on the Bonhommie Richard.

The flag was made at a quilting party and the thirteen stars were cut from the bridal dress in which Miss Helen Seary had been wedded in May, 1777. This was the first edition of the stars and stripes that Europe ever saw, the first to be saluted by the guns of a European naval power.

The origin of the battle flag of the cavalry troop commanded by Col. William Augustine Washington, a distant relative of George Washington, is a romantic and interesting story.

In 1780 Col. Washington, at the head of his cavalry force from Virginia and South Carolina, where he met Miss Jane Elliott at her father's house, about sixteen miles west of Charleston.

Origin of Battle Flag.

In the fall Col. Washington paid a visit to Miss Elliott, to whom he was then engaged, and when she learned his corps had no flag, she seized her scissors and, cutting a square section from a red damask drapery, she presented it to him with the remark:

"Take this, colonel, and make it your standard!" This banner, ornamented with fringe and mounted on a hickory pole, was borne at the head of Col. Washington's cavalry till the close of the war.

In October, 1783, Sir Guy Carleton was ordered to evacuate the city of New York, the only place in our country then occupied by British troops. He was delayed, waiting for vessels, but finally, November 25 was the day agreed for his evacuation.

The first stars and stripes raised that day was run up in the morning by the wife of a tavern keeper, named Day. Mrs. Day was a large, stout woman and a zealous whig. On the morning of the evacuation day she ran up the American flag on a pole in front of her house. The British claimed possession till noon that day, and this act was offensive to them.

One Woman Color Bearer.

Mrs. Kady Brownell, wife of an orderly sergeant of the First and afterward of the Fifth Rhode Island infantry, was chosen color bearer of her husband's regiment. She marched with the men, carrying the flag and participating in battle as bravely as any of her comrades.

She was in the first battle of Bull Run and stood by her colors and maintained her position until her regiment had retreated. She was also in the expedition of Gen. Burnside to Roanoke Island and Newbern.

The largest flag ever made by hand was put together by Miss Josephine Mulford, of Madison, N. J. She was moved partly by sentiment and partly by a desire to pay off the mortgage on her mother's little home in a novel and patriotic way.

SOCIETY

Mrs. J. B. Niezer and aughters, Mrs. Frank Kroeff and little daughter and Miss Marguerite Niezer have come home from Rome City where they spent the summer. They have closed the Niezer cottage for the season.

Mrs. George Braun and Mrs. George Braungart have returned from South Dakota, where they spent two months with relatives, including a visit with Mrs. Braun's sister, whose golden wedding celebration was an event of the summer.

Misses Genevieve and Salome Mack have returned from a visit to the California expositions.

THE DEATHS

CRISMORE.

Mrs. Anna Crismore, aged 75 years, widow of the late Samuel Crismore, died Thursday evening at St. Joseph hospital, where she had been a patient for ten days suffering from carcinoma, which caused her death. She resided at 2306 New Haven avenue and is survived by three sons: William H. and David E. Scott, by a former marriage, and Albert Crismore. One grandchild also survives her.

ANOTHER "CRISIS," NO CHEWING GUM

Mexican Trouble Interferes With the Importation of Chicle.

Washington, Sept. 24.—A new crisis confronts the United States because of the revolution in Mexico.

This time one of the great American institutions—the chewing gum industry—is threatened. And the mere thought of it is throwing several million of your Uncle Samuel's nieces and nephews into a panic. "What is to be done," they cry, "if we no longer will be able to get our gum?"

The war in Mexico, among other things, has caused the sapodilla trees to be neglected. What has this to do with the situation? Well, the sapodilla tree produces chicle. And chewing gum cannot be made without chicle. Hence the concern of practically every fair young stenographer and baseball player in the land. It long had been the population fiction that chewing gum was made from horses' hoofs and other dead things.

Not so. Chicle is the thing that puts the "gum" in chewing gum. It is a rubbery sort of substance and the gathering of it formed one of the principal industries in Mexico before the natives found fighting more enjoyable, if not profitable, than work.

The statistical sharps at the department of commerce say that last year Mexico shipped to the United States 2,900,000 pounds of chicle. Other shipments came from Honduras, but the exports from Mexico were enough to run out about 540 tons of chewing gum. Think of it, girls, what a lovely party that "wad" would make.

Calhoun Place, located on South Calhoun Street, at Rudisill Boulevard, is the new, modern addition. Come out tomorrow and see it.

LITTLE FASHION MODEL SETS STYLES FOR NEWEST DOLL FAMILY.

©1915 GEORGENE AVERILL

Mildred Robertson, model for doll fashions; original of "Neutrality Jim," the little Indian mother doll and the cowgirl.

Los Angeles, Sept. 24.—Discovered—a new profession for children. You've heard of real fashions on real people and real models for real clothes. But did you ever hear of a real model for doll fashions?

Mildred Robertson, five years and no months old, is the little maid who fills this unique position.

Her specialty is posing for the originals of character dolls.

The manufacturers of these quaint toys for children have found that they can work much better if they have a live doll to work upon.

The costumes are "tried out" on Mildred and the effect noted. If the colors are wrong it's much easier to note it upon the animated "doll" than upon the inanimate doll.

If the cut isn't good, it's much easier to remedy it upon the model than upon the dolls patterned after her.

So little Mildred has found a lucrative and a most fascinating job. It's no trick at all, she'll tell you, to stand perfectly still if there are a hundred wide-eyed dollies staring up at her in wonder, while another is closely cornered in the crook of her elbow.

It's no hardship at all to "smile and look pleasant" when you are all dressed up in the most joyful colors imaginable; just like a little Dutch boy, or just like a real Indian with a long lasso in one hand.

Mildred has almost white hair, red, red round cheecks and clear blue eyes.

It Radiates All the Heat!

Come in now while our stock of Cole's Original Hot Blast Heaters is complete. It will enable you to make a better selection to best suit your own needs. This is but one example of the many money-saving and up-to-date articles that we carry in stock ready for your careful inspection.

Burn a Sunday Newspaper

in the old-fashioned oak stove and you will scarcely heat the stove. Try this experiment in a Cole's Hot Blast Heater and you will at once notice the heat in the room. This remarkable heating power has been accomplished in

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

A Wooden Stove

If you had a stove with a surface of wood, lined with asbestos, you could not heat with it, because wood and asbestos are poor radiating surfaces.

The same is relatively true with cast iron and mica in base burners and oak stoves as compared with the large sensitive radiating body and bottom of Cole's Heaters, which radiate all the heat from the stove into the room.

Sizzling Base Heat

equal to any base burner. You can roast potatoes quicker in the ash pit of a Cole's Hot Blast than in the oven of your cook stove.

It will give you all the heat that is in your coal.

It will hold fire 36 hours without attention.

Burns any fuel—soft coal, hard coal or wood.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PARK BOARD HAS A RUDISILL FIGHT ON

Resolution to Pave That Boulevard Brings a Remonstrance.

At its meeting Friday afternoon the park board is in the midst of a fight on the resolution to grade and pave Rudisill boulevard from Calhoun street to Broadway. Some of the resident property owners have signed a remonstrance and are trying to prevent confirmation of the resolution by the board. There is now before the city council an ordinance to appropriate from the park board's general funds the sum of $4,260 to pay for intersections in paving that boulevard. It is purposed to put the street in some state of passability this fall and to give it a high grade macadam pavement as early as possible in the spring.

The board also has up for confirmation a resolution for the construction of a concrete curb and gutter and grading the parkways on the south side of Rudisill boulevard from Calhoun street to Broadway, and on the north side of the same thoroughfare from Calhoun street to Fairfield avenue. The board is giving hearings on the resolution to construct sidewalks on both sides of Rudisill, from Calhoun street to Piqua avenue, and expected to order advertisements for bids for the grading of Rudisill, from Bowser avenue to Anthony boulevard and grading Anthony from Rudisill to Pontiac street.

BOARD OF WORKS ROUTINE.

Remonstrance Filed Against Grading of Winch Street.

The board of works at Thursday evening's session confirmed the resolutions for several sidewalks, of which a list was printed in this department Thursday, and postponed action for one week on the resolution to grade Winch street between Warren and Lumbard streets, because Joe W. Bell and six others had filed a remonstrance against the improvement. Of the remonstrators some are not resident on the street and the protest may be held insufficient. Action was rescinded by the board on the resolution to pave the alley between Lewis street and Douglas avenue from Harrison to Webster. The petition was signed by thirteen resident property owners, but seven of them remonstrated, killing the resolution. Superintendent Dix, of the lighting department, was instructed to install an arc lamp at Lake avenue and Loree street. The Lake avenue lighting tower will probably be removed to one of the city parks, and Members F. E. Singrey and Henry Hilgeman, of the board, have agreed to contribute to a fund to pay the cost of removing it to Hayden park. A year ago the light tower at the Harmar school, fronting upon Hayden park, was removed from the school grounds to Lawton park at considerable expense. Hilgeman & Schaaf, the real estate firm, filed a petition with the board for permission to construct an ornamental lighting system in Harrison Hill addition, stipulating that it would be donated to the city after completion. The board has the petition under advisement.

NEW LIGHTS FOR LAKESIDE.

It is announced by Secretary-Manager John Wessel, of the city light and power works, that a new system of electric lighting will soon be installed in Lakeside. Nitrogen incandescent lamps, which the city has very successfully tested in the southwest and southeast parts of the city, will replace the old type of arc lamps.

MAYOR NOT TO GO SOUTH.

Mayor W. J. Hosey has abandoned his purpose to attend the annual convention of the League of American Municipalities in New Orleans next week. His daughter Miss Jean, who was to have accompanied him, is still too ill from an attack of tonsilitis to make the trip, and Mayor Hosey decided not to go.

DOUBT AS TO COMBINING JOBS.

The board of works entertains much skepticism as to the wisdom of combining the jobs of chief engineer of the city light and power works with the similar position in the waterworks department and appointing Chief Engineer Henry Zauner, of the light works, to the dual position. His perfect competency for the waterworks place is admitted, but the board believes that as chief engineer of the light works Mr. Zauner has all that one man should be held responsible for. The combination of the two jobs has been discussed, but no conclusion reached.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Relief from tension regarding a possible squeeze of shorts was evident in the wheat market today owing to the board of trade directors having decided that No. 1 velvet chaff would be acceptable on time contracts here, although subject to penalty. Opening price, which ranged from the same as last night to ⅝c lower, with December at 93½c to 93¾c, and May at 96c to 96½c, were followed by a moderate rally but then a fresh downturn.

The close was strong, ½c to 1¼c above last night, with December at 95¼c and May at 97⅝c.

Corn developed firmness, influenced by the comparative smallness of the stock on hand here. After opening ¼c off to a shade advance, the market scored a rise all around.

The close was firm, ¼c to ½c net higher.

Oats sympathized with corn.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Sept. 24.—Special stocks were again conspicuous at the opening of today's market, with moderate improvement in some of the standard railways. Baldwin Locomotive opened with a fractional gain, which was soon extended to 2⅝, placing it at the new high price of 92¾. International Nickel recovered five points of yesterday's late setback at 211, and Colorado Fuel, Bethlehem Steel, American Car, American Locomotive, American Woolen and the Maxwell Motor issues were higher by one to two points. U. S. Steel opened at a slight advance but soon reacted to 77, yesterday's final. Railroads also lost initial gains.

Early gains were increased and other specialties were brought forward during the first hour, notably Tennessee Copper, which rose four to 59½. The usual recessions, due mainly to realizing, followed, but the decline was halted when a broad buying movement of railway issues set in. Toward midday Bethlehem Steel preferred advanced 12 to 180, equalling its record. Bonds were firm.

Impressive buying of high class railway shares gave solidity to the final dealings. The closing was strong.

CHARGES WIFE WITH FAILURE TO PROVIDE

Omaha Man Says Spouse Will No Longer Furnish Him With Food.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 24.—His face a study of mingled anger and pain, Al Mikelster hurried into the police station and demanded his wife's arrest. After some questioning the police obtained information which, summed up, showed that the man wanted his wife arrested for non-support.

Mikelster informed the officers that his wife had been working at the Cudahy plant for some months and that she is continually complaining because he is out of work. Now it has come to a point where she will not furnish him with food any longer.

"If one of you officers would go over to the house with me and frighten her I think it would be all right," he said.

When one or two of the unfeeling officers were inclined to smile a bit, Mikelster grew excited and told them that he was just as smart as they are, and that as far as "kidding" him any was concerned they would have to find another subject.

The wife was not arrested.

HOSIERY TO ADVANCE.

Manufacturers Plan to Raise Prices Because of Dye Shortage.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—A recommendation that prices of hosiery be raised was adopted by the National Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers' association at a special meeting here. The association also adopted a resolution calling attention to the "serious dyestuff situation," and urging the United States government to take such steps as would afford the textile industry relief. The resolutions recommend that prices be advanced from 5 to 10 cents a dozen on goods weighing one pound to the dozen in cotton hosiery, and from 25 cents a pair to 35 cents on silk hosiery.

The resolution set forth that because of the insufficient supply of dyestuff, practically every mill making hosiery either is working short time or shut down. It was further stated that "foreign dyes in reasonably large quantities are lying in European ports ready for shipment to this country, but awaiting diplomatic negotiations between the government of the United States and the governments of England and Germany.

"WATER OF UNKNOWN MERIT."

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—An order was filed Monday afternoon by the federal court condemning the property formerly belonging to the Robinson Springs company, of Chicago, which was seized by federal authorities on the charges of misbranding. In one instance, twenty-five cases, each of twelve one-half-gallon bottles, were seized, each containing what was purported to be spring water of remedial qualities. The seizure was made from Carl Kaufmann and Lee Wolf, of Hammond. The second seizure was made from the C., I. & L. railway and included twenty-three cases. The bottles are now in the hands of the United States marshal and will be sold as "bottles containing water of unknown merit."

MUCH ALARM; LITTLE DAMAGE.

Strong Earthquake Shock Felt in Many Sections of Italy.

Messina, Sept. 24.—A strong earthquake occurred here last night at 9:15 o'clock. It caused a panic among the people who rushed to the streets and squares. Many persons remained in the open all night but no damage was done.

At Avezzeno the earthquake caused the people to rush from the houses in which they have been living since the great disaster of January, but as no buildings have been erected there since the city was destroyed the damage was negligible. In the city of Aquilla, fifty-seven miles northeast of Rome, and throughout the province of that name, the shock was felt distinctly, causing considerable alarm.

FAIRBANKS WILL BE TOASTMASTER

Notable List of Speakers for the Riley Day Dinner.

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—Add another rhythmical note to the prelude for the Riley day dinner. The committee which has charge of the program for the dinner to be given at the Claypool hotel on October 7, as a mark of honor to James Whitcomb Riley, has rounded out a list of speakers that is both representative and notable. The committee proudly points to the fact that the list will be the most distinguished that has ever figured in any such affair in the west. The committee chose the men with the utmost care, then went after them with elecricity. The telegrams brought ready responses, all of them teeming with expressions indicative of an earnest appreciation of the honor.

William Allen White, of the Emporia (Kas.) Gazette, author of "What's the Matter with Kansas?" "A Certain Rich Man" and other books, was found in a lonely cleft of the Rockies, whither he had gone to ponder the sorrows of the world. Mr. White is the shyest of men but has replied that he feels this a real call of the people and will be present and speak. Mr. White's only plea was that Walt Mason, poet perfecto of Emporia, also be supplicated to add his presence to the occasion.

Shyness Almost Unprofessional.

But Mr. Mason, with a shyness almost unprofessional, had to decline to appear, making his regret find basis in the fact that he has never worn a dress suit and that he is just naturally so busy that he can not come. "But," said Mr. Mason, "when my beloved friend, Bill White, comes home I'll ask him questions about you folks for three days and nights. Please give my regards to Mr. Riley. A little rhyme about his birthday that I wrote the other day will be published in more than 200 newspapers on October 7. Among them will be The Indianapolis News, and I hope Mr. Riley will see it. It is punk poetry, but the sentiment in it is sincere."

Mr. White will be one of the speakers and he will make joy out of a grand old subject, "The Day We Celebrate." Mr. White took occasion to ask the committee if the Riley party was going to be one in which "the ladies would come down in their high estate and consent to mingle with the men." It is regretted, Mr. White, that because of limited accommodations, the ladies will have to leave the Riley party to the men in order that as many Indiana families may be represented as possible.

Worked Hard on Tarkington.

The committee worked hard on Booth Tarkington for speakership honors, but he ran from it like a bachelor preacher at a debutante's tea. Mr. Tarkington has been motor boating along the Maine coast the summer long, and wireless messages have brought the tidings that, although he loves Dr. Riley, his voice would never consent to speak at any dinner, it mattered not how pleadingly his heart might call. As an after-dinner speaker Mr. Tarkington admits that he is a refugee.

Distinction marks the acceptance of John H. Finley, formerly of Princeton university, later president of the college of the city of New York, and now the commissioner of education of the state of New York. Dr. Finley, a poet himself, has great admiration for Mr. Riley and found delight in being invited to the dinner. He was hidden away in the Adirondacks, but the message of acceptance followed quickly. He had an engagement to address the West Point cadets on October 7, but succeeded in shifting his calendar so as to be here. Dr. Finley is one of the big men in American education and a polished orator. The committee was particularly delighted to have him represent the east at the Riley dinner.

George Ade in All-Star Cast.

George Ade is another member of the all-star cast. He was in California when the committee began chasing him with telegrams, and finally he was landed at his farm home, Hazelden, near Brook, where he has agricultural interests that include several townships. He said he could last eight minutes at the Riley dinner, but the committee has promised him an additional supply of gasoline, and he will speed up to ten minutes. He will talk on Indiana literature as it relates to the center table in the parlor.

STRANGE SECT ENDS CAMP.

Shelbyville, Ind., Sept. 24.—Two hundred and fifty persons, members of a religious sect without a name, who have been holding their annual meeting on the farm of Martin Schulzie, in the southern part of Shelby county, have closed their camp and returned to their homes. The people have no organization. They say it is not necessary for the public to know the names of their leaders and say that names do not count in God's plan and that only what one is counts in the final reckoning.

They have no ministers and all have the same right to exhort the brothers and sisters. No member of the flock receives any pay for services. Members believe dress is superfluous, except as to the mere demands of nature. Their clothing is not of the latest style and the women do not wear ornaments of any kind. Three large tents were used for the meetings. A number of persons in the southern part of the county believe in the doctrines of the "No-names," as they have been called.

EUROPE IS VAST MOURNING PLACE

Muncie Man, Back from the Trenches, Strong Peace Advocate.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 24.—"Not a man, woman or child in the United States wishes this country to become involved in the European war if there could be any possible way of avoiding it honorably," asserts C. W. Whitehair, secretary of the Cornell university Y. M. C. A., who has just returned from a visit to the European battlefields where he represented the international Y. M. C. A. committee. He is now visiting his parents and other relatives here.

"The cream of Europe's manhood lies wasting itself in the hospitals and the trenches," said he. "I have walked over battlefields where graves were thicker than in any cemetery in America. Desolation stalks all over Europe and an entire continent is in mourning. The horror of the situation is so great that I can scarcely conceive of a situation arising that would be sufficiently grave to force this country into war. I have come back from the trenches to lift my voice in behalf of peace."

Armies Depend on Religion.

Mr. Whitehair was in the second line trenches in France, and visited the hospitals in France, England and Scotland. In his opinion it is France that is paying the biggest price for the war. He said that of the 500-mile battle front in France, that country is defending 450 miles and England is defending only fifty miles. In England there are 1,700 hospitals, he was told, but in France there are four or five times that number. England, he said, is paying heavily in money, however, it being estimated that the cost to that country is $21,000,000 a day. Religion plays a great part in the conduct of armies. All nations involved call on the Supreme Being for aid, and prayers and religious sentiment are expressed in various ways. On the helmets of dead Germans he saw the inscription, "With God and the Fatherland."

"All the nations are trying to make God, a god of war instead of a god of peace," he says. "English, French and Russian troops always pray before going to the front. The work of bringing about universal peace should be begun by the United States. As soon as the present war is ended the countries now involved will begin again to prepare for another war unless some country not now concerned endeavors to bring about a general disarmament.

Trenches Are Permanent.

"One thing that impressed me greatly was the way prisoners are treated by all sides. There are no atrocities actually committed as far as I know, and those who are complaining of them are those who are not doing the fighting. On all sides the prisoners speak highly of the way they are treated by their captors. The trenches in France are fifty miles wide and extend along a front of 500 miles. They are built, apparently, mith the idea of permanency and are constructed as well as any building in this city."

BURGLAR IS SLAIN

DAWKINS MERCHANT'S AIM PROVES DEADLY

VICTIM FOUND DEAD BESIDE RAILROAD TRACK

Firing at a range of ten feet with a 44-calibre Colt's revolver at 1 o'clock Friday morning, Frank Dawkins, aged 66 years, a crippled bachelor, who keeps a general store at Dawkins, a Hamlet twelve miles east of Fort Wayne, on the Nickel Plate railroad, killed an unknown man who was attempting to burglarize the place.

The body of the robber was found on the Nickel Plate tracks 100 feet from the scene of the shooting shortly after 5 o'clock Friday morning by Otto Butcher, an employe in the elevator at Dawkins. Until the finding of the body Dawkins did not know he had hit the man whom he discovered entering his store.

Heard Crash of Glass.

Dawkins, who leads a bachelor's life, with his home in his store, was aroused about 1 o'clock Friday morning by a crash of glass in the front of the store. He arose from his cot, got his big Colt's revolver and walked forward. Within ten feet of the window he saw a man's hand thrust in to push aside the window shade. Almost immediately a man's head peered in through the broken pane and Dawkins fired.

There was a sound of hurrying footsteps from the front of the store and Dawkins went outside. He could see no trace of the marauder and no traces of blood on the sidewalk. He concluded that his shot had missed its mark and returned to his bed.

Reports Body Found on Track.

At 5:30 Friday morning Coroner E. H. Kruse was notified by Superintendent W. F. Waterson, of the Nickel Plate, that the body of an unknown man had been found on the railroad's tracks at Dawkins. Coroner Kruse notified Scheumann & Son, undertakers on East Lewis street, to go out for the body and started at once himself for the scene of the tragedy.

A half hour later Sheriff A. C. Gladieux was called on his telephone by Frank Dawkins, at Dawkins, who stated that he had killed a burglar early in the morning.

Coroner Kruse and Sheriff Gladieux arrived on the ground about the same time, the coroner, who had been also informed of the killing, expecting to find two cases for his attention. At Dawkins the coroner learned that the two cases were identical.

Dawkins Learns of Killing.

When Butcher, the elevator man found the body and reported that a man had been killed by a train, Dawkins went over to view the body. An examination disclosed that the man had been shot and then for the first time he knew, five hours after the shooting, that his aim had been true and his bullet had gone home.

The big 44-calibre bullet tore into the burglar's body just below the left shoulder blade, passing entirely through an severing a large vein from which the man bled to death.

REV. NIPPER WINS BITTER CONTEST

After a career of a few weeks less than ten years the Hof Brau saloon, at Calhoun and Columbia streets, closed its doors upon the public at 9 o'clock Thursday evening, following the refusal of the board of county commissioners to again issue a license to Harry A. Wiebke, proprietor of the place.

The last testimony in the sensational hearing of the Hof Brau case was concluded at 5:30 Thursday afternoon. Five minutes later Guy Colerick, of counsel for the applicant, began a quarter-hour argument to the board and was followed by William P. Breen, of counsel for the remonstrant, Rev. James A. Nipper, in an address of similar length. At 6:15 President James D. Butt, of the board of commissioners, announced that the commissioners would retire and that a decision would be reported in fifteen minutes.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 24.—A diamond thief named Poltner, worst of three criminals being taken to Jeffersonville prison by Lake county sheriffs, escaped from custody here at noon today.

He was handcuffed to another prisoner and slipped the cuff over his hand and jumped from a Monon passenger train in the yards. Local police and many citizens are scouring the north end of town. The deputies continued their journey with the other two prisoners.

FRANK POIRSON SURRENDERS TO NIPPER AND CLOSES HIS CALHOUN STREET SINK

Another notorious dive for men and women has been extinguished.

When the board of county commissioners Thursday evening gave its decision denying a renewal of license to Harry A. Wiebke for the Hof Brau saloon and cafe, Frank J. Poirson, keeper of a saloon and chili parlor at 504 Calhoun street, and his attorneys, saw the handwriting on the wall.

Friday morning Poirson's counsel went before the board of commissioners and withdrew his application for a license and his place was shortly afterward closed.

The hearing of the remonstrance filed by Rev. James A. Nipper against renewing Poirson's license was set for 9 o'clock Friday morning and the remonstrant and William N. Ballou, his attorney, were ready with their witnesses to go to trial. Poirson and his lawyers decided that the best course was surrender instead of battle and withdrew the application, as had been decided upon late Thursday night at a conference of his attorneys.

Rev. Nipper and Attorney Ballou were said to be loaded for Poirson with ten times as much evidence of immorality, unfitness and law-breaking as had been presented against Wiebke. The two Chicago detectives, Sickles and Malkus, who appeared against Wiebke, had thoroughly investigated the Poirson deadfall and were prepared to prove the proprietor to be the keeper of a place that it would have been a crime for the commissioners to relicense. Much other testimony was also at hand and some of the same women whose names were brought up in connection with the Hof Brau case were known to have been habitues of Poirson's place.

It would have been no trouble at all to prove that Poirson was unfit to be licensed and that his place should be suppressed. Poirson and his lawyers knew that if the commissioners could not license Wiebke there was more reason why the board could not permit Poirson to continue in business. The place at 504 Calhoun street is gone. The scarlet women who resorted there to meet debauched men and callow youth and the jitney drivers who throve on bearing both sexes to assignations made in the dive will know it no more.

ROACH MAKES HIS THREATS

Hints at Prosecution of Bell Case Witnesses for Perjury.

Saloon Men Made Contributions; Deny Coercion by Officials.

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—Threats of prosecution for perjury were made today by Special Prosecutor Joseph Roach at the trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell, charged with election conspiracy. A number of saloonkeepers were being called and asked about their contributions to the democratic party at the time the threat was made.

Harry Farber admitted that he had made a contribution, but denied that William Kissel, who holds the contract to supply the city with mules and a co-defendant, threatened him with persecution by the police if he didn't contribute. He also denied making a statement to that effect before the grand jury. The defense objected to jogging the witnesses' memory. Mr. Roach then made his threat, declaring "there is a remedy."

M. A. Ryan, of counsel for the defense, was on his feet immediately.

"It ill becomes the state," he said, "to make threats of prosecution for perjury here in the midst of this trial. It is not proper in the presence of the jury."

The witness, when the court permitted him to answer, continued to insist that he did not remember the questions or answers he was reported as making.

More than twenty saloonkeepers were called and told of contributing to the democratic campaign fund in amounts ranging from $5 to $25.

None to Republicans.

On cross-examination some of the saloonmen were asked if they had contributed to the republican campaign fund. All said they had not. Among those named as collectors of the fund were Herman Adam, city sealer and a co-defendant, and Louis Larsch and Paul Bonner, saloonkeepers.

Mayor Bell, who had to leave the court room yesterday because of illness, arrived a little late today, but apparently was feeling much better. He laughed and talked with his attorneys for a few minutes.

FIELDS CASE WILL BE DECIDED TONIGHT

Officials of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company and members of the grievance committee from local union No. 862, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, will meet Friday evening at which time the case of Clarence Fields, a former conductor on the city lines, who is asking for reinstatement will be taken up. Disposition has already been made of the four other trainmen whom the union has asked to be reinstated. Two of them were taken back and the other two were dismissed.

No action will be taken by members of the newly organized union until the Fields case has been disposed of. A meeting of the union will probably be held following the conference with officials of the company at which time it is expected that definite action regarding the future course of the organization will be taken up.

MR. ROGERS TALKS ON REINCARNATION

Reincarnation was the theme of L. W. Rogers, of New York, last night at the Elks' temple. He declared that if the soul is created at birth there is no reasonable explanation of why one should be born a genius and another an idiot. Reincarnation, he said, showed that souls evolve as worlds evolve and that the stupid man is one who has not striven in his hundreds of past incarnations to develop his mind, while the genius is one who has energetically developed his intellect. If God made souls when people were born, the lecturer said, it was remarkable that they should not all be wise and kind and have an even chance to reach the heaven for which they are supposed to be destined.

He declared that the truth is that souls have evolved on the spiritual side as physical bodies have evolved on the material side and that reincarnation is the process by which the Supreme Being directs all evolution.

Coalition of Indiana Brewers and Liquor Dealers Paid for Evidence That Killed Wiebke and Poirson.

It was the Indiana Law Enforcement and Reform league, a coalition of brewers and liquor dealers in this state, and not the Berghoff brewery alone, that sent Chicago detectives into Fort Wayne to collect evidence against law-breaking saloons and furnished the evidence upon which Harry A. Wiebke and his Hof Brau and Frank J. Poirson and his chili parlor saloon were put out of business, and upon which Rev. James A. Nipper and the Men's Christian league, who inaugurated and are maintaining the fight, declare the Hotel Edwin's license will be revoked in the superior court.

Wanted to Know What Was Wrong.

The investigation under the auspices of the Indiana Law Enforcement and Reform league began more than a year ago, when the Thiel Detective agency, in Chicago, was commissioned by the league to find out what was wrong with the saloon situation in Fort Wayne. At that time Detective Ray Sickles, a Thiel agent, came to Fort Wayne and collected much evidence against cafes and saloons of the dive class. Last May Sickles came back and was accompanied by Detective Maurice Malkus. For two weeks they worked in Fort Wayne. Scores of saloons were investigated and reported upon by the detectives. Most of the reports were good, but several places the reports were a total condemnation.

Reported to Norton.

These secret service agents made their reports to Martin C. Norton, secretary and manager of the Berghoff Brewing association in Fort Wayne, for some of their instructions, as well as to disclose their findings and sent written reports to Chicago. These prepared reports were forwarded to Mr. Norton in Fort Wayne.

The Thiel agents spent much time in the Hof Brau, in Poirson's and the Hotel Edwin, it has been disclosed, and mingled much with the women who resorted in those places. Numerous other saloons were watched and reported upon and those that complied with the laws of Indiana were given clean bills in the reports made by the detectives.

Norton Aids the Fight.

It was just after the disclosures made last July that half a dozen or more well-known youngsters of Churubusco had been coming to Fort Wayne to get drunk and meet women in the saloon cafes that Manager Norton, of the Berghoff brewery, went to the law firm of Breen & Morris, retained by the Churubusco parents to assist in prosecuting the saloonists who helped to debauch their boys and tendered the use of his voluminous reports from the Chicago detectives who had made the investigation in May.

These reports were not of use in the prosecution in which the Churubusco boys were chief witnesses against Wiebke, Edwin S. Kleindinst, of the Hotel Edwin and Jack Hedges, a Columbia street saloonist, and Saban Smith, who was doing a blind tiger business at the old Hiser roadhouse on the Goshen highway, north of the city, but they were discovered to be of vital importance to the purpose of the Churubusco men and Rev. James A. Nipper and the Men's Christian league, of Fort Wayne, to put the worst of Fort Wayne's places out of business.

Fight is Begun.

After the conviction in the city court of Kleindinst and Smith on blind tiger charges and of Hedges for selling to minors, Rev. Nipper began his war to extinguish the city places. A suit was filed in the superior court against Kleindinst for revocation of his license

NOT A CANDIDATE FOR RENOMINATION

Marshall Makes Statement After His Talk With President.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Vice President Marshall called at the white house today and discussed with President Wilson the international situation, national defense and other problems confronting the administration. It was Mr. Marshall's first visit to the president since congress adjourned last March.

Mr. Marshall told the president that an extensive trip through the country had convinced him that the people were pleased with the manner in which international affairs had been managed. He said he favored an adequate army and navy, but had no specific recommendations to make regarding details. The question of calling a special session of the senate to permit it to revise its rules before the regular session begins in December, also was taken up. Mr. Marshall said afterward the president had not indicated any direction in the matter. The vice president expressed opposition to a special session of the whole congress at this time. Whether the political outlook was discussed was not indicated, and Mr. Marshall would not comment on it afterward except to say he was not a candidate for renomination.

FINANCIERS YIELD TO AMERICAN VIEW

New York, Sept. 24.—Members of the Anglo-French financial commission it was reported today have discarded their previous views on certain major details of the proposed credit loan to be established here to Great Britain and France and have accepted, instead, the suggestion of American financiers on all cardinal points. With the change reported in the attitude of the commission negotiations proceeded smoothly today toward the establishment of a credit along the following lines:

The amount to be $500,000,000 or possibly a little more; the price to the investor to be slightly below par; the joint Anglo-French notes issued therefore to run five years and to be convertible at option, into fifteen or twenty year Anglo French bonds, paying four and one-half per cent interest; Russia probably to be eliminated as a participant.

EDWARD G. HOFFMAN.

ALBERT E. THOMAS.

Four Fort Wayne Scottish Rite Masons were elected to the thirty-third degree at the one hundred and third annual meeting of the supreme council of the sovereign grand inspectors-general of the thirty-third and last degree for the northern Masonic jurisdiction of the United States of America, in session at Boston. The men thus honored are Postmaster Edward C. Miller, Edward G. Hoffman, Will C. Geake and Albert E. Thomas. The work will be conferred upon them at the council meeting next year at Pittsburg.

Word of the selection of four Fort Wayne Scottish Rite Masons was received in Fort Wayne Thursday evening. All the men selected are comparatively young and the fact that four have been elected from Fort Wayne is regarded as a splendid recognition. Each jurisdiction is limited to a certain number each year. John Ross, a Wabash engineer, was elected from this jurisdiction last year and was given the final degree in Boston Wednesday.

JITNEY DRIVER HAS BEEN JOY RIDING

William Van Camp's Wife Has Him in for Neglect of Child.

When William Van Camp, a jitney bus driver, was arraigned in the city court, Friday morning, on a charge of neglecting his child, and Mrs. Van Camp related that her husband had been from home since Tuesday and consorting with a woman whose evil eye had her spouse hypnotized and infatuated, Van Camp took the stand and admitted it all. He said he had been carrying the woman about in his jitney while he worked and that they spent the nights together in his car—she sleeping on the rear seat and he in front. Van Camp was arrested Thursday evening at Calhoun and Wallace street as he and the woman were returning from Bluffton, where they had spent the day attending the street fair. Van Camp said he had been sober for eighteen months, riding the water wagon without a single fall, until he met the woman, whose name he gave as Blanche Burger or Karbar, and then he had an awful tumble. Mrs. Van Camp said that but for the woman her husband would be all right. She only wanted him to give her enough to bring up their child properly and keep him in school. The boy in question, little Jimmy Van Camp, aged 7 years, was uncovered a few days ago as the bold bad robber who had been looting automobiles about the Commercial club and Anthony hotel of robes, tools, motorists' goggles and in one instance of a large bottle of whisky. Detective Sergeants Spillner and Junk, who unraveled the puzzling series of robberies, say the little fellow had stolen property valued at from $50 to $100. Judge Kerr held Van Camp under $100 bond to get hi mthoroughly sober, indicating that he might release him Saturday, provide he would go home and care for his wife and child.

Other City Court Cases.

Kirk Wilson was found asleep on the porch of a residence opposite Swinney park, Friday night, and was arrested. A window pane had been broken in the front of the house and burglary was at first suspected. He was merely drunk. He begged to be allowed to go back to wife and child at dear old Pennville, Ind., but was held for a day to be looked up.

William Lampert ascribed his condition to weak booze and strong tobacco. He lamented a new coat he had pawned for a pittance and wanted to hike for home at Crestline, Ohio, but was continued a day.

James Leadman, of Huntington, said he would fain return to the shade of his own vine and fig tree in the Lime City, although he had appeared Friday night at police headquarters and asked to be locked up to ward off a threatened attack of movies. He was held.

STREET CAR CAUSES RUNAWAY.

A South Wayne avenue line street car struck a horse and buggy driven by Fred Warner, a grocer at 3236 South Calhoun street, at 8:30 Thursday night, at Harrison street and Creighton avenue, causing a runaway. Warner was thrown out and received a bad scalp wound and his vehicle was much damaged. The police ambulance was called to take care of the injured man. His injuries were attended to at headquarters before he went to his home on the Illinois road.

COLORED LAD INJURED.

Julius Young, aged 6 years and colored, was seriously injured about the head while playing in the street on Wabash avenue, Thursday afternoon, when he darted in front of a motorcycle. He was taken to police headquarters where Police Surgeon J. Frank Dinnen attended him, after which he was taken home.

Sexton Upholds Former Ft. Wayne Pastor Whom Foes Would Unseat.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—"The trouble with Pastor Ainslie was that he worked too hard for the church."

The sexton of the North Shore Congregational church, the pastor of which, Rev. James Stuart Ainslie, after fifteen years of devotion to its welfare, has been asked to resign by a faction of his congregation, came to the pastor's defense yesterday afternoon.

The only occupant of the darkened church, he was discovered by a reporter after a collision with the organ pipes in the furnace room nursing a battered foot.

"No sir," said Sexton H. J. Johns, "the matter with these people is, they don't like it because he got out and hustled for the money to build this church instead of sittin' around wearin' a silk hat and lettin' the deacons do the work.

Growth of Church.

"He started in 1900, when all they had was a rented grocery store over on Evanston avenue and eighty-five members, and he worked and worried and preached until they have this big place —that's worth $200,000.

"They talk about wanting somebody that'll bring in the bathers from Wilson beach. The only thing that'll do that is a cowboy and a lasso that will go out there and drag 'em in. It isn't good common sense those soreheads want to hear. They want somebody that will thrill 'em and scramble around the pulpit and use slang. One of those big guns that will shoot 'em into heaven," and the sexton carefully set the damaged foot on the cement floor and "shot 'em into heaven."

Popular With Young Folks.

"The young people all like him," he continued after the rumble of a wagon on Wilson avenue had died away. "They've been calling him up about three times a week since he got back from his vacation askin' him to marry them."

"How does Mr. Ainslie feel about it?" the reporter prompted.

Sexton Johns' mustache drooped and he shoved his hat a little further over his eyes. "When I saw him this morning he looked just as bad as I feel," he said eloquently.

"I have seen it comin' a long time. There have been some pretty hot meetings up above in the Sunday school room, and Wednesday night one of the trustees would have broken up the meeting if Pastor Ainslie had been conducting it.

"There isn't anybody who could fill his place. But if I was him I wouldn't stay now even if they wanted me to." And the sexton carefully laced up the shoe on the offending foot and prepared to go home to dinner.

Rev. Mr. Ainslie, former pastor of Plymouth Congregational church, in Fort Wayne, resigned the local pastorate to go to the Chicago congregation some fifteen years ago. He will be well and favorably remembered in Fort Wayne.

DUELLING MANIA IS SUPPRESSED BY WAR

Conflict Does What Law Had Utterly Failed to Do in Hungary.

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 30.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—In suppression of the duelling mania in Hungary the war has done more in six months than the law would have been able to do in twenty years. Up to a year ago, it seemed that nothing could be done to stop duelling. Notwithstanding all legal prohibitions, such an important personage as the Minister President, Count Stephen Tisza, continued fighting duels, having had a dozen to his credit, six of them during his term of office, and openly defying all the penalties threatened by law.

In the first six months of the war, the change was so marked that fewer duels were fought during that period than had ordinarily taken place in a single week before. Since last spring not a single case of duelling has been reported, in contrast with the fact that during one week in July, 1914, fifty-four duels were recorded in Budapest, alone.

How public opinion has changed on this question of duelling is shown in a document recently published in the Hungarian papers. A provincial lawyer made some disparaging remarks about the army in the presence of a wounded officer, who resented his conduct in very sharp language. The lawyer sent a challenge but the seconds met and drew up a document setting forth that an officer ready to sacrifice his life for his country, was not obliged to give the so-called "satisfaction," and that in the present war the life of every soldier, and of every civilian, was too precious to be risked in duelling.

The Anti-Duelling league, which has long existed in Hungary, expresses the hope that this evil has been overcome, not only for war times, but also in peace.

RELEASED FROM PENAL FARM.

Two Terre Haute Men Get Freedom by Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

Greencastle, Ind., Sept. 24.—Two habeas corpus petitions have been filed in the Putnam circuit court for penal farm prisoners from Terre Haute, and in each case Judge Hughes has released the men, finding that they were not sentenced according to law. The last petition was filed yesterday by Charles S. Batt, former city attorney of Terre Haute, acting for John Godsey, whose sentence is alleged to be excessive. Further, it is alleged that Godsey was arrested without a warrant and was sentenced without being permitted to plead to the purported affidavit filed against him.

WAR BRINGS GOOD ROADS TO TURKEY

Highway Building is Given Impetus by Needs of the Military.

Constantinople, Aug. 30—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The extent to which the war has promoted good roads building in Turkey is indicated in a report just issued by the Ottoman Ministry of War, stating that 740 miles of roads have been graded, levelled and resurfaced with gravel, and 382 miles of roads have been macadamized by the "work battalions" of the Turkish army since the beginning of the war.

European Turkey has benefited greatly by these improvements, but the greater mileage of the new roads is in Anatolia, the Asiatic peninsula. The work has involved not only actual road improvement, but the construction of hundreds of bridges and culverts.

The total mileage of roads built by the Ottoman army during the war is 1,122 English miles. The work was done entirely by the older Turkish reserves and by Armenians of military age who were not sent into the field because their loyalty to the Turkish flag was doubted.

From his own experience in traveling over several hundred miles of the new roads, The Associated Press correspondent can say that the work was well done on the whole. Much care was taken in finding the best grades. Wherever necessary, the embankments were reverted and no labor was spared in making cuts where they were necessary to a favorable grade. This is especially true of the roads built between Adrianople and Constantinople and those built in the Taurus and Amanus mountain ranges. While the majority of the engineers and officers supervising the work were Turks, there were a few Armenians and Greeks and a number of Germans and Austrians.

Very little modern road-building machinery was used with the exception of a few steam rollers and small rock crushers. The roads were levelled by pick and shovel, and cuts were made in the same manner, although hand drills and blasting powder were used where ledges were encountered. Most of the crushed rock, tons of which were used, was broken by hand, a task which some officers made easier by having a piper keep the hammers in time with a tune.

Those familiar with travel conditions in the Ottoman empire say that the country has never had so many good roads as at present. In addition to the new roads that have been built for strategic purposes, many miles of neglected roads have been put in repair, one such notable instance being the pass road through the Taurus, from Erigli to Tarsus.

Mr. Edward Leigh Pell Writes:

You think your "little" is not worth saving; but I have noticed that the cigar man and the theater man and the soda water man have such a high opinion of your "little" that each is glad to get his hands on just a small fraction of it in order that he may carry it to HIS bank and have it placed to HIS account. I suppose it is all the same to the bank—your little is going there anyway—but, say! If it is going there anyway, would it not be better to carry it there yourself and have it placed to YOUR credit?

(By O. E. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course of the Moody Bible Institute.)

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 72.
GOLDEN TEXT—The king shall joy in thy strength, O Lord; and in thy salvation how greatly shall he rejoice. Ps. 21:1.

The subject assigned for this review lesson is aptly chosen, for the kingliest quality or virtue passed by any king is to be obedient. The servant who truly serves is obedient. The motto of the king of England is "Ich dien"—I serve.

Gen. R. E. Lee once said that for him the greatest word in the English language is the word "obey." We read of our master that he "learned obedience by the things he suffered" (Heb. 5:8) and he taught that "if ye love me, keep (obey) my commandments" (John 14:15).

The lessons for the past quarter cover an approximate period of about 125 years beginning probably B. C 1024 (Beecher). In them there are presented nine rulers; David, Solomon, Rehoboam, Jeroboam, Asa, Ahab and Jezebel from within, and two from without Israel, the Queen of Sheba and Ben-hadad, king of Syria. There are also five prophets mentioned, Nathan, Ahiah, Azariah, Obed and Elijah. It might be well for teachers to distribute blank pieces of paper and ask the scholars to write a brief outline of the oustanding facts regarding these rulers, also of Nathan and Elijah, though the last will more properly come later as there are yet several lessons about that great prophet. These kings can be classified as good and bad, though the greatest of them all (David) suffered a most terrible fall. From these lessons the great facts of sin, grace, prayer, the word of God, faith, salvation and unbelief are all to be emphasized.

For the older classes a most interesting study can be made of the development of God's people materially and the religious development also as well as a study of the causes for the division of the kingdom.

The tendency in both kingdoms was downward towards the destruction of the northern one and the captivity and impoverishment of the southern.

A good method of review would be to take up each of the different characters and give a summary of his life and of its effect upon the nation. It will be profitable to answer such questions as: What do the events of the past quarter teach us about the character of God? What great teachings have we had presented on the subject of prayer? What peculiar manifestations have been seen in the development of sin? In this quarter's lessons what emphasis has been made relative to the word of God? What moral duties and obligations have been emphasized? If a good crayon artist is available prepare on the blackboard 12 circles, five above, five below, and one at each end of a rectangle. In this last place the Golden Text for the day and in each of the circles, beginning in the upper left hand corner, either a sketch or some other suggestion of each of the several lessons.

Another suggestion for use upon the blackboard would be to draw two panels or columns on either end of the board and connect the tops by an arch. Divide the arch into five divisions and in the top, the keystone of the arch place the name of good King Asa, to the left Absalom and Adonijah, and to the right Elijah and Ahab. On the left panel write "The Word of God" and on its capstone "David." On the right panel write, "Obedience," and on this capstone "Solomon." Then underneath the arch and between the panels first the names of the remaining chief characters belonging to Israel, and below, but separate, those from without whose names have been considered during the past quarter. This arrangement of names might be so made as to call attention to the separated kingdoms of Israel and Judah, using the arch for the names of the characters affecting the kingdom before its division.

Again the board may be ruled into two columns, one to contain the names of the "chief persons," and the other the "chief facts." Divided according to lessons they will be about as follows: Chief persons 1, David, Joab, Abishai, Absalom; 2, David, Bathsheba, Zadok, Nathan, Solomon, Adonijah; 3 and 4, Solomon; 5, Solomon, Queen of Sheba; 6, Rehoboam, old and young men; 7, Jeroboam; 8, Azariah, Asa; 9, Elijah, Ahab and the widow of Zarephath; 10, Elijah and prophets of Baal; 11, Elijah and God; 12, Benhadad, Ahab, young men.

Chief Facts—1, failure; 2, anointing; 3, choice; 4, prayer; 5, wisdom, 6, division; 7, sin; 8, reform; 9, providence; 10, testing; 11, discouragement; 12, defeat. Thus by careful and prayerful preparation a review of each lesson can briefly but profitably be presented.

The material for a successful review along any of the lines suggested will demand careful preparation on the part of the teacher, but will be well worth while in fixing the chief facts in the pupils' mind while it also will test the sort of work the teacher has been doing.

SEES CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING REMEDY

Houston Discusses Waste of Apples, Peaches and Other Crops.

By Gilson Gardner.

Washington, Sept. 24.—All about Washington—and doubtless the same is true in many parts of the United States—the trees hang full of fruit, apples, peaches, plums, etc., which are not picked and will not be picked. It does not pay. A man sent a carload of peaches and his broker wired a bill for $18.00 deficit for freight and brokerage. The fruit did not pay the cost of sending it.

Yet every city has its homes—some poor homes and others not so poor—where fruit is not eaten and where it would be welcome. What is the answer?

I put the matter up to Secretary of Agriculture David F. Houston.

"Yes," he said, "I took a ride in an automobile only the other day through the wonderful fruit region west of here out by Harper's Ferry and Leesburg. I saw the trees with the fruit on them unsold and unpicked. The answer is co-operative marketing. The farmers must do for the apples and peaches and other crops what the citrus farmers of California have done for the citrus crop. They must standardize the products and organize for its marketing. They must have their own warehouses and act as a unit in dealing for its sale and finding where the crop is needed and sending it there. That is the work on which my office is engaged at present and is one of the things in which I am most deeply interested."

Anybody interested in knowing what Col. T. Roosevelt intends to do in the next presidential campaign may have the answer. And this is made on dependable authority. He is going fishing.

Much that is not true has been printed during recent weeks about the effect of the seaman's bill in "driving the American flag from the seas." Following are the facts in regard to the two principle lines which recently have taken action supposedly in this direction.

The Dollar line of steamers, owned by Robert Dollar, consists of a fleet of seven steamers. Three of these are in the coastwise trade, carrying lumber and of necessity flying the American flag, and always have done so. All steamships in the coastwise trade are obliged to be American registered. They always have and they always will—until they not—fly the American flag and the seaman's bill does not affect their status one iota. The other four vessels of the Dollar fleet are in what is known as the offshore trade. They are tramps which go anywhere a profitable charter is offered. These vessels are coolie manned; always have been coolie manned and always have sailed under an alien flag. When German raiders, however, were loose, two of these ships sought the protection of the American flag as the head of the company announced "for the time being only." The German raiders having ceased their raids, "our flag" was of no further use to the management of the Dollar fleet and one of these two coolie manned foreign-built boats changed back to a foreign flag, leaving one vessel only of the offshore fleet under the Stars and Stripes. The Dollar line will come under the Stars and Stripes or leave them just as it profits their owners, and nobody need be alarmed about the effect of the seaman's bill in "driving" them from under the flag.

As to the Pacific Mail Steamship company, the facts are equally illuminating. This company is railroad owned, and being such is not allowed by law to pass its steamers through the Panama canal. Observing that foreign lines were liable to take the Panama canal business away from them, the Pacific Mail transferred ownership to a subsidiary of the International Mercantile Marine and announced that at least two of its five vessels are to be used in the New York to San Francisco run via the canal. These, of course, must be under the American flag. Great efforts have been made to make it appear that this transfer of ownership was caused by the seaman's bill "driving the Pacific Mail out of business." The fact is that the transfer of the Pacific Mail was brought about, not by the seaman's bill, but because this company, being railroad owned, found that it could not use the canal until it did transfer ownership.

The withdrawal of the trans-Pacific coolie manned liners of this company will leave the way uncontested for the establishment of the proposed government-owned merchant marine on the Pacific, as desired by President Wilson.

LOOK OUT, PUSSY!

Audubon Societies Investigating Bird Killing Proclivities.

New York, Sept. 24.—Things look dark for the cat! The charge is that prowling felines destroy 5,000,000 birds a year. Whether this is true or not is to be decided by an impartial investigation of pussy's bird catching proclivities, conducted by the National Association of Audubon societies, of this city. The people of the United States are to be the jury. T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the Audubon societies, has just sent out an invitation to the general public to forward to his office "any evidence that may have bearing on the subject, either for or against cats as destroyers of birds." "We want the truth," said Pearson.

The town of Montclair, New Jersey, has just passed the first cat-tagging ordinance in America. It provides that all untagged cats are to be regarded as "vagrants," and are to be proceeded against accordingly. Spokane, Washington, is on the point of passing a cat license ordinance.

Coughs and Colds Not to Be Neglected

Anyone will realize the seriousness of neglecting a cold if he observes results of such neglect among his acquaintances. How often have you heard, "He caught cold, didn't do anything for it and it turned into"—then some dreaded disease is named.

Ordinary colds yield to prompt treatment at the beginning. That is why every family should be supplied with a reliable cough medicine—one that will heal raw and inflamed surfaces, loosen the phlegm, allay irritation, ease the hoarseness and stop the tickling sensation in the throat that does not permit one to sleep.

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is invaluable for relief of coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, tickling in throat, tightness or soreness, grippe or bronchial coughs. It contains no harmful ingredients. It is healing, soothing, efficient and pleasing.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Exodus 5:14-23.

14 And the officers of the children of Israel, which Pharaoh's taskmasters had set over them, were beaten, and demanded, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your task in making brick both yesterday and today, as heretofore?

15 Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cried unto Pharaoh, saying, Wherefore dealest thou thus with thy servants?

16 There is no straw given unto thy servants, and they say to us, Make brick: and, behold, thy servants are beaten; but the fault is in thine own people.

17 But he said, Ye are idle, ye are idle: therefore ye say, Let us go and do sacrifice to the Lord.

18 Go therefore now, and work; for there shall no straw be given you, yet shall ye deliver the tale of bricks.

19 And the officers of the children of Israel did see that they were in evil case, after it was said, Ye shall not minish ought from your bricks of your daily task.

20 And they met Moses and Aaron, who stood in the way, as they came forth from Pharaoh:

21 And they said unto them, The Lord look upon you, and judge; because ye have made our savour to be abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants, to put a sword in their hand to slay us.

22 And Moses returned unto the Lord, and said, Lord, wherefore hast thou so evil entreated this people? why is it that thou hast sent me?

23 For since I came to Pharaoh to speak in thy name, he hath done evil to this people; neither hast thou delivered thy people at all.

The Hof Brau Decision.

The board of county commissioners acted promptly and correctly in denying a renewal of liquor license to the Hof Brau. In the face of the mass of damning evidence piled up against the place by the remonstrants any other finding would have been inconceivable. Witness after witness testified to personal knowledge of practices permited in certain departments of the place that stamped it as a moral cesspool of the vilest type. The repeated sales of liquors to minors, operation at illegal hours and the operation of a place where men were permitted to meet women of evil repute and where they were permitted to take girls of tender years to be plied with liquor constitutd an indictment that, once established, could not fail to spell the doom of the place.

Mutterings of complaint against the Wiebke place had been pronounced and long continued. It had been repeatedly rumored that much of its business was conducted with a laxity that indicated flagrant disregard for law. It was perhaps the experience of some half a dozen Churubusco boys in their tour of the gilded way a few weeks ago that supplied the momentum for the launching of the definite crusade that has wiped out the place. Yet it develops that the Hof Brau, with certain other Fort Wayne places, was under investigation by detectives in the employ of the Indiana Law Enforcement League even before the sensational denouement that followed the splurge of the Churubusco youths. The Hof Brau has merely reaped what it sowed.

The decision is a victory of no mean importance for Rev. Mr. Nipper, the Men's Christian League and other forces which joined in the fight on the place. Its value lies not so much in the mere wiping out of one place which flagrantly offended the popular sense of decency as in the fact that it serves impressive notice upon all others who may be similarly offending. There is plainly a popular demand that the clean-up be made complete.

The South Bend city council, after a lively debate in committee of the whole, rejected an ordinance drafted by the city attorney to regulate the jitney bus business in that city because it was too lenient and ordered the preparation of a law of more rigorous character. The council is disposed to insist upon license fees, bonds and indemnity insurance as a protection to the public against possible accident arising from the operation of the jitneys. Whether the jitney is to become a permanent fixture or not will doubtless be disclosed shortly when it is forced to meet the stress of the ice, snow and storm of the winter season. Will it then stick to the job, as the street railways are compelled to do, or will it find itself unable to combat that sort of weather? If it is to be more than a transitory institution, nothing is more certain than that every city in which the jitney operates will be forced to adopt some sort of regulative system to control its operation.

The claim that femininty lacks resourcefulness is now left without a leg on which to stand. Down at Winchester a woman utterly routed a burglar from her home by lambasting him over the head with a pot of baked beans. The incident seems to make necessary a revision of the penal code defining deadly weapons, but since the efficacy of the pot of beans has been demonstrated, its use in similar cases may be regarded as perfectly justifiable under existing statutes where the issues seem to be so clearly defined as in the Winchester case.

Victor Murdock, chairman of the national progressive committee, confidently announces that the moosers are going to run a straight progressive ticket next year, which seems to indicate Mr. Murdock's absolute confidence that there will still be enough followers of Colonel Roosevelt left to fill the ticket, despite the claims of the republican leaders that they have all come back to the G. O. P.

One day after he had won a motorcycle in a "popularity" contest, a Lafayette lad met with an accident which utterly wrecked his benzine bicycle and sent him to the hospital for the repair of personal injuries. This appears to clear the way for others who aspire to win popularity honors.

Those Anglo-French financiers who are in the United States endeavoring to negotiate the loan of something like a billion dollars appear to be striking a rather large variety of snags of one sort and another. Well, a good many equally good men have had a deal of trouble in borrowing considerably less than that.

WHAT THE EASTLAND WRECK COST.

(Indianapolis News.)

The Red Cross society this week is distributing $190,000 of the sum collected for relief of families whose wage earners lost their lives in the Eastland disaster. The largest sum given to one household is $3,000. Every effort is being made to be just in the apportionment. The Eastland tragedy continues to be the subject of discussion in Chicago, though it has fallen into the background elsewhere. A dispatch from Washington the other day said that Secretary Redfield and President Wilson had conferred on the former's report. But what has been done, or what may be done, by the federal government with regard to the inspection features of the disaster is unknown.

Disasters are quickly forgotten. But the bills come in just the same. "The community, which is all of us," says the Chicago Herald, "is paying about $1,000 each for the 834 lives lost on the Eastland through a combination of private recklessness or greed and government extravagance." The Eastland, which, an hour before it turned over, was regarded as one of the finest passenger carriers on the lakes, and was worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, is to be sold. December 20, on court order, to meet a claim of $34,509 filed by the company which raised it in Chicago river. The ship itself, the 834 lives with all their possible earning power, the insurance, the expense of investigation, litigation and settlement, and the generous outpouring of gifts for the relief of the sufferiug—all these make the total cost of the Eastland disaster.

It is a prevalent notion, as the Herald observes, "that the loss of such disasters is somehow limited to those members of the community directly affected, with those who may be so moved by the spectacle of distress as to put their hands into their pockets to give aid." But this is not true. Every cent of destroyed life or property comes out of the community. Aid is being disbursed. The corporation employing the victims or their relatives has done well. Grand juries have indicted—but no one has been convicted. As far as the public knows, the federal government has taken no steps to improve the steamboat inspection service. Possibly it needs no improvement. Secretary Redfield was quick enough to defend it. But something, somewhere, was wrong, or the Eastland never would have tipped over.

(Toledo Blade).

On November 2, New York state will vote upon a new constitution which, though written by conservatives, embodies policies which have been agitated by progressives for a decade. The most striking reform is the proposal for the "short ballot," hitherto applied only in the instance of cities. If it passes, New York will have the credit of leading the states in this highly desirable policy.

New York has been the extremest example of irresponsible government. Elihu Root, president of the constitutional convention, pronounced that government one of patronage, for patronage and by patronage. Hordes of officeholders swarmed about the state capital and the county court houses "giving no honest service for the money they get." There had been established one hundred and fifty-two commissions and bureaus "lying around loose, accounting to nobody, spending all the money they can get, violating every principle of economy, of efficiency and of the proper transaction of business."

The new constitution reduces the number of elective state officers from seven to four, cuts the number of state departments from one hundred and fifty-two to seventeen and gives the governor the initiative in budget making. Should the constitution be adopted, every state officer, big or little, will be responsible for the conduct of those under him. He can be reached and, if remiss in his duties or corrupt, he can be punished.

This is the hardest blow which "invisible government" will have been made to endure in the entire career of that vicious institution.

SUICIDE FOLLOWS DIVORCE COMPLAINT

Monroe Runyan, Near Roanoke, Kills at Home by Shooting.

Roanoke, Ind., Sept. 24.—Monroe Runyan shot and instantly killed himself at 7:15 o'clock last night on the lawn of his home, one-half mile north of Roanoke. The bullet entered the center of the forehead. Wednesday his wife, Alice Runyan, had filed a complaint for divorce in the circuit court here, and his act is the sequel to it. Coroner R. S. Galbreath made a prompt investigation and held an inquest this morning.

Half an hour before killing himself Runyan gave his watch to his son, Albert, with brief instructions to keep it. Since the difficulties between Mr. and Mrs. Runyan had reached an acute stage, it is believed he had meditated suicide, although he is not known to have made any direct threats. It had been rumored he told Mrs. Runyan he would kill her if she sought a divorce.

Wife's Absence Saved Her.

The fact that Mrs. Runyan was not at home may have saved her life. Those intimate with Runyan for years are convinced that when he went to his home late in the afternoon it was with the intention of shooting her and then himself. Mrs. Runyan was in Roanoke with a relative.

Where the 32 calibre revolver used was obtained is not known. Mrs. Runyan, fearing either that he would commit suicide or harm her, had hidden all the weapons she found about the house.

Son Witnessed Death.

Albert Runyan, the son, and Earl Poling, of Roanoke, witnessed the death. They saw Runyan walk out the rear door of the home, and seeing something in his hand, hurried to the house to tell the others. In the meantime Runyan walked around the house, paced back and forth a few times, and then placed the revolver against his forehead and fired before either the son or his friend, who were on the porch, could strike down the weapon. The body was taken into the house and a physician called, but death had been almost instantaneous.

Mrs. Runyan was summoned and in view of the threats he is said to have made to kill her because she filed suit for divorce, took the tragic death calmly. The children were almost prostrated with grief, a daughter, Etta, being inconsolable.

Reared Near Roanoke.

Mr. Runyan was forty-eight years old, and was born and reared near Roanoke. Men with whom he had been associated for years respected and liked him. He had been employed in Huntington most of the summer, and until yesterday had worked regularly for the C. C. Huffine company in paving First street. Wages due him were tied up by a restraining order issued by the court at the request of Mrs. Runyan, and when Coroner Galbreath searched the dead man's clothing not a cent was found.

Six children are living: Elva Runyan, of Michigan; Mrs. Eva Smith, living north of Roanoke; Etta, Ira, Albert and Golda Runyan, who live at home. His father, Deneen N. Runyan, lives in Roanoke, and a brother, Charles Runyan, lives two miles north of the town. Mrs. Clinton Hambleton, a sister, lives in Roanoke and her father has made his home there.

News of Our Neighbors

MARKLE REVIVAL A SUCCESS.

Markle, Ind., Sept. 24.—After six nights of the revival services of the Methodist church here, the success of the five weeks' campaign seems now assured. Because of the cold weather many were kept away from the services for two or three evenings, although there was a fairly good crowd present. Two furnaces have been installed in the tabernacle and arrangements for a third are being made. It is believed that there will be no question of it being warm enough in the place now. Rev. E. K. Towell, the evangelist, who has been obtained for the services, preached the services last evening on the subject, "Aaron's Fatal Mistake." Rev. Towell is from Jacksonville, Ill., and is meeting with the approval of his hearers from his forceful sermons delivered nightly.

SUES THE ADMIRABLE CRICHTON.

Columbia City, Ind., Sept. 24.—Esther L. Johnson, the 18-year-old Cleveland township girl who married James W. Johnson, the former barber, motorcycle expert, painter and laborer, is suing for divorce. She was misled, she says, by lurid promises made by her lover to the effect that he would quit drinking and that he would provide a home; and that he would do many other things which looked big a few months ago, but after a residence with him of six or seven weeks, during which time they lived with his relatives and he did not do a day's work, she learned that the glittering promises were like unto a bubble that had burst. On May 30, she quit him and forever separated herself from him. She now asks a legal decree which will sever the tie between them.

CLAIMS BEER; IS FINED.

Portland, Ind., Sept. 24.—Claiming ownership of the twenty-nine cases of beer, cash register and three tubs, confiscated in the raid on the Carmony room by local officers three weeks ago, Levi Wible appeared in Mayor C. A. Paddock's court yesterday, and was arrested on a charge of operating a "blind tiger." He entered a plea of guilty to the offense and was fined $50 and costs—$68.05 in all, and a 30 days' jail sentence imposed, was suspended during good behavior. Wible was also called upon to settle the costs on the search warrant issued from the court of 'Squire A. G. Lewis, and this item amounted to something like $8 additional.

PAULDING BOYS WIN PRIZES.

Paulding, O., Sept. 24.—Three Paulding county boys will enjoy a trip to Columbus Farmers' week with all expenses paid for one week, as a result of the boys' live stock judging contest held at the county fair. The boys who were so fortunate as to get this opportunity of attending the state's big agricultural meeting and learning more about stock judging are: Byron Hartsell, Haviland; Albert Arend, Paulding; Herbert Troyer, Paulding. Not only are these boys prize winners in this county, but they now become the representatives of the county in the state boys' live stock judging contest which will be held during Farmers' week, January 31-February 4, 1915, at Columbus.

BOY'S INJURIES FATAL.

Bluffton, Ind., Sept. 24.—Everett Dowty, aged 10, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dowty, who live five miles north of Bluffton, is dead after lying unconscious since 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning when he was accidentally run down by an automobile driven by Rev. Leltoy Huddleston, of Fountain City, who with a party of four parishioners was en route home from the gathering of the M. E. ministers and laymen of the North Indiana conference at Fort Wayne. The boy darted directly in front of the automobile from behind a wagon loaded with stone on which he had been riding on his way to the Eagleville school.

GOES TO SUPREME COURT.

Portland, Ind., Sept. 24.—Judge J. F. Denney today rendered his final decision in the mandamus suit instituted recently against Mayor C. A. Paddock by the firm of Fitzmaurice & Beard, holding that the defendant should execute a contract to the plaintiffs for the construction of the improvement of Pleasant street. The case will now be appealed to the supreme court by D. O. North, a Bluffton contractor, who placed the low bid on the proposed improvement and since the suit was instituted was made a party defendant at his own solicitation.

ASKED TO AID NATIONAL DEFENSE

Columbia City, Ind., Sept. 24.—Jonathan Williams, a veteran of the civil war and one of the best known old soldiers in the county, has received word that he had been selected as a delegate to the conference of national defense, which will be held in Washington, D. C., Oct. 4-7, 1915, under the auspices of the National Defense League. The invitation was on a magnificently engraved card and it bore the names of Winfield Jones, secretary; Julius Kahn, member of congress, who is chairman of the movement, and Robert F. Broussard, U. S. S., vice-chairman.

ARRESTED FOR CHECK JOB.

Warsaw, Ind., Sept. 24.—Charles W. Cook was arrested at Auburn on a charge of drawing checks without funds. The charge was filed in the Kosciusko circuit court by Stanley & Armstrong, of Leesburg. He will be brought here today. The charge asserts that Cook presented them with a check for $20, payable at the Thomas Exchange bank at Corunna. They claim that he had no funds in the bank to make payment on the check. Cook tendered the check in order to make payment for some automobile repairs.

PERSONAL WORKERS ACTIVE.

Montpelier, Ind., Sept. 24.—Three automobile loads of personal workers from the local organization went to the Chester Center church, north of this city, and conducted services at that place. There was quite a nice attendance, and a splendid meeting is reported. H. G. Dragoo was leader. Rev. Ed. Oren, new pastor of the South Main street Christian church accompanied the party and gave a most interesting address. The league will meet Monday evening in the Baptist church for their regular weekly meeting.

HIGH SCHOOL IS JAMMED.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 24.—Four hundred and two pupils are now enrolled in the Huntington high school, with a possibility of more to come in soon. There had been in the first few weeks of school 405, but three of them dropped out because of ill health. With the school full and every available seat taken, Prof. C. E. Byers, principal of the school, is waiting grimly for the advent of about sixty more when the January term begins. There will be no possibility of housing them.

YOUTH ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Hartford City, Ind., Sept. 24.—Jesse Troxell, 19, of Gas City, attempted suicide at Eaton, Thursday, by drinking a quantity of carbolic acid. He will die, according to word received from Eaton. Troxell was well known in this city. He had been here and other points looking for work, of late, and it is supposed that despondency because he could not obtain it caused his rash act. His father was called from Gas City to be at the bedside of his son.

VAN WERT PYTHIANS BUSY.

Van Wert, Ohio. Sept. 24.—The Knights of Pythias will begin its meetings for the coming fall and winter on Friday evening. After the regular lodge meeting there will be a luncheon and smoker. A good attendance of members is desired to consider plans for forming a local representation of the lodge at the dedication of the Old Peoples' Home, at Springfield.

PERFECTION

scarcely touch human hands

One machine mixes the dough.

Another cuts out the cakes, three dozen at each stroke of the cutter, and a stroke with every tick of the clock.

A third finishes the cake as it comes from the oven by putting on a layer of creamy marshmallow, a covering of chocolate and a whole walnut meat—and it does it all with one operation.

ALL-STAR CAST IN 'VIA WIRELESS'

"Via Wireless," showing at the Jefferson today, should prove a treat for both the lovers of fiction and theater-goers inasmuch as it is a story of merit and features Gail Kane, George Cohan's foremost star. This lovely young Broadway actress bids fair to even increase the popularity she held on the stage, where she appeared in "Seven Keys to Baldpate" and later in "The Miracle Man," by her triumphs on the screen.

Bruce McRae, an English actor of considerable note, and a cast composed entirely of stars, gives assistance in this drama which cannot help but delight those who view it.

Paramount Travel Series complete the Jefferson bill for the day.

Paul Bosch, son of Rev. and Mrs. John H. Bosch, was fourteen years old on Thursday and so far as his intentions went, the day was to pass as other days, school and home duties and some playtime between. But Mrs. Bosch planned differently and in consequence Paul had an unexpected invitation to take an automobile ride after school and when he arrived home after that his mother asked him to fetch her something from the school hall. Paul ran up stairs to do his mother's bidding and was actually opunced upon by his Sunday school classmates, who gave him fourteen slaps across his back and congratulated him in less earnest fashion with their tongues. It was a jolly party with plenty to eat and drink and many games to enjoy. The hours were from 5 to 9 o'clock. The boys gave Paul a signet ring and his Sunday school teacher, Miss Henrietta Antekruse, assisted Mrs. Bosch in serving the boys their supper.

One of the prettiest parties of this week was that given by Mrs. Ray Deahl and Mrs. Ralph Hardesty, on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hardesty in Wells street, to honor Miss Gertrude Seely whose wedding to Ray Fish will take place on October 5. The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers and paper cupids with the colors of pink and white predominating. A bouquet of pink cosmos blossoms occupied the center of the supper table. Pretty hand painted place cards and pink nut cups were an attractive decoration of the table besides the flowers. The menu was also expressive of the same coloring. A game of red letters was enjoyed and prize winners were Miss Irene Rohyans and Mrs. Elmer Feistkorn. The gifts were presented to the elected bride by the winners. The guests were Misses Gertrude Seely, Irene Rohyans, Marguerite Wirth, Georgia Wirth, Neva Smith, Bessie Orr and Mrs. Elmer Feistkorn, Mrs. Charles Durnell, Mrs. Otto Heiny, Mrs. Charles Long, Mrs. Elmond Seely, Mrs. Valentine Blough, Mrs. Frank Keller, Mrs. Lydia Miller, Mrs. Mary Barrow, Mrs. Ray Deahl and Mrs. Ralph Hardesty. Miss Seely received many pretty and useful gifts for her new home.

AT THE TEMPLE.

Regular Matinee Saturday.

The usual Saturday matinee will be presented by the Temple theater players tomorrow in the comedy drama, "Help Wanted," the smart little bit written by Jack Lait, a Chicago newspaper man and fiction writer. But few of the modern plays presented in the last two years in Fort Wayne have created the stir that "Help Wanted" is responsible for. It has served as a warning for heedless girls and has made men employing young women to gather themselves together a bit more tightly, so that suspicious tongues might not be made to clack. The story is one of marked interest. It deals with the experiences of Gertrude Meyer (Miss Ethel Hamerick,) who follows a long line of "private secretaries" into the office of Jerrold Scott, sr., (Mr. Maurice Jenkins,) a wealthy and unscrupulous millionaire. Gertrude accompanies her employer to lunch frequently, despite warnings and a natural sense of peril, doing it to escape losing her job. She comes near the brink, but does not topple over because she finds in Jack Scott, McLain Gates,) a protector who braves his step-father's displeasure to keep the girl from harm. Of course the elder Scott reforms and everybody is happy enough before the curtain drops.

This vehicle will be succeeded on Monday night by another rich little comedy bit, "Elevating a Husband."

FOURTEEN DIFFERENT WARDROBES

Used By Princess Mazella Each Week. Is Widow of Late Kid Mitchell.

Princess Mazella has been identified by many people who have witnessed this week's performance at the Empress theater. She is the widow of the late Kid Mitchell, the well known light weight prize fighter, who was well known in Fort Wayne and who was married on Lafayette street in October, 1900. Princess Mazella, who has now acquired and won admiration and esteem all over the country as an exceptional oriental dancer, uses fourteen different wardrobes each week, one for each performance.

Billy Gross, a cyclonic comedian, whose ability as a humorist at the spur of the moment has never been equalled here before, has won the admiration of every one who has seen this week's bill at the Empress theater. The chorus is a gingery aggregation of pretty girls and they have been handsomely and daringly gowned for the ensembles.

"The Hurley Gurley Girls" will be the bill next week at the Empress.

MOVIE ACTORS ENDANGERED.

When Boat Burns in "The Regeneration."—Powerful Film at Orpheum.

No incident better illustrates the fanatical efforts of motion picture directors to secure realism in photoplays than one which takes place in "The Regeneration," the terrific screen hit which is playing at the Orpheum today and tomorrow with Rockliffe Fellowes and Anna Nilsson. The scenario of the original story called for a scene in which a river excursion boat is supposed to burn, affording the stalwart hero an opportunity of rescuing a number of small children. In order to visualize this particular scene with utter exactitude, the producers of the play purchased a Mississippi river "double-decker," filled it with eight hundred well trained "supers" and set it afire. In less than ten minutes the river around the boat was filled with swimmers paddling away from the burning boat with more haste than revenge. Narrow escapes were numerous as the ancient craft burned like tinder, and the expert swimmers who were held in reserve, had their hands full dragging the exhausted "supers" to terra firma.

DAILY WEAR AND TEAR.

Haven't you felt that finer instinct prompting you "to keep it looking nice" when you have a new dress or suit?

But the garment gathers soil with each wearing, and this soil is the unconscious cause for the indifference you begin to feel toward it. Right here is where our service should begin.

When the garment is returned to you by us, that finer instinct will again be whispering to "keep it looking nice." Our service is the fountain of perpetual youth for your wearing apparel. Why let your clothing get old?

AT KEITH PALACE

KNOWS WHEN TO STOP.

Rae Samuels Leaves One Still Hungry for Her Songs.

Someone has announced the secret of gastronomic delight to be found in leaving the table while still hungry, and not to stuff oneself to satiation. Rae Samuels, thevivacious comedienne at the New Palace this week, has adapted this rule to her amusement menu and always leaves her audiences just a bit hungry for a few more songs. She probably would have to sing a dozen more than she does to satiate them for this clever songstress is a character artist of class. Her little laugh at the story book small town sheriff is a gem.

Among the other hits on the current program are the Seven Colonial Belles in a delightful musical offering; Homer Miles and Helen Ray and company in the skit, "An Innocent Bystander;" Bill Robinson, the black dandydill; Joe Fields and Will Halliday's farce, "A Raw Recruit; Hill and Sylvany, the cycling marvels and Myrl and Delmar's gymnastic novelty, "Over the Garden Wall."

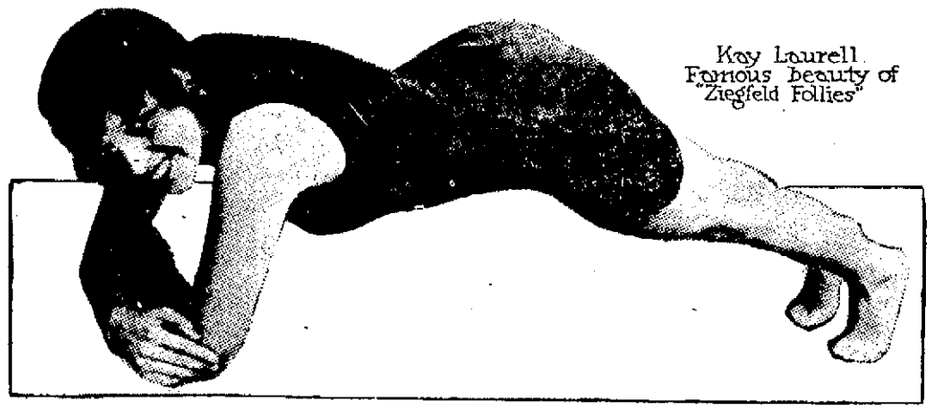
FOR HEALTH, BEAUTY AND GRACE, FAMOUS BEAUTY URGES ALL WOMEN TO EXERCISE DAILY.



Kay Laurell
Famous beauty of "Ziegfeld Follies"

Blood is the nourisher and scavenger of all the body's tissues. Without good blood one cannot have health and without health one cannot retain beauty, nor the grace that comes of a healthy virile figure.

An exercise that all women can practice is shown in the accompanying picture posed by America's famous 1915 beauty, Kay Laurell, star of "Zegfeld's Follies." This exercise is advocated if one would be healthy, beautiful and graceful.

Lie face downfard on the floor with the arms folded under the breast as pillows. Now stiffen up the whole frame and rest upon the toes and elbows, raising the hips as high as possible. Next lower them until the abdomen touches the ground. Repeat this slowly, raising and lowering the body for ten counts. Then relax and rest taking deep breaths meanwhile.

YOST STARTS MEN ON "HARVARD DRILL"

Michigan Footballers Are Down to Business With a Vim.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 24.—The so-called "Harvard drill" was introduced in the preparatory work being done by candidates for this season's University of Michigan football team. After a session of blocking and tackling Coach Yost put the men through the exercises which the Wolverines' training staff adopted last year from the crimson system.

One exercise is calculated to teach speedy footwork and dodging, and is much like shadow boxing, while the other drill consisted in running in a crouching position. Yost finished up his drill with the usual punting practice, and he had the same boys working their toes. Raymond today showed the best work, with Hildner, Dunne, Bixler and Sharpe as the others. The coach spent a long time with each man, carefully instructing them on the details of the booting game.

That Yost intends to search his squad to find a quarterback and center was indicated today by the practice of the field and by his talks with the coaches and newspaper men. Howe, Norton, Niemann, Adams and Warner were the centers he had passing the ball during the punting drill. During the grinds up and down the field in offensive formations the whole squad was trying to quarterback.

Four new arrivals, two of them veterans, joined the squad today. Jack Norton, of Ontanagon, lineman on the varsity squad last year, showed up, as did Jimmie Whalen, flanker, who was injured in the Syracuse battle last season. Owen J. Watts, of Wagner, O., a sophomore, and Samuel Cohen were the other newcomers.

Sixteen Cities Engaged in Struggle To Determine Amateur Championship.

HOW THE AMATEURS DRAW! SECTION OF CROWD BACK OF THIRD BASE AT AN AMATEUR BASEBALL GAME IN CLEVELAND. IT IS ESTIMATED 75,000 PEOPLE SAW THE GAME.

Just about the time the annual quarrel between National and American league champions is beginning to be history the fur will begin to fly in another world series that covers more territory than does the big blue ribbon event.

It's the world amateur championship series in which the big blow-off won't occur until late in October.

Eliminations now are being held in various parts of the country for the big amateur series. Teams representing sixteen cities are battling to decide which two shall meet to settle the big title.

The final games will be played on the Pacific coast Oct. 21, 22 and 23, with the team that wins the eastern division finals meeting the coast champions.

At the start of the eliminations the eastern group was made up of these towns: Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburg, Johnstown, Pa., Indianapolis, Louisville, Duluth, St. Paul, Omaha, Kansas City, Chicago and Columbus. The Pacific coast division consists of Tacoma, Portland, Sacramento and Los Angeles.

The series for the world title and the $1,000 trophy that goes to the winner will be played in whatever coast town wins the championship of that division.

All of these cities are members of the National Amateur Baseball association. The best amateur talent in the country plays on these clubs.

Last year the Cleveland entry won the national title. The association then did not comprise half as many cities as it does now.

HIGH SCHOOLERS HAVE FOUR HUNDRED NAMES

Faculty Members Join the Newly Formed Athletic Association.

Practically 400 names had been placed on the list of the Fort Wayne high school athletic association Friday noon, and the members in charge of the membership campaign are overjoyed at their success. The faculty members are enthusiastic and nearly the entire line of teachers has joined.

Membership in the association costs $1 and members may attend all of the ten local basketball games and four local baseball games on complimentary tickets. The students need nearly five hundred signers before the organization is assured, and it will be no difficulty to secure these names.

Acting Principal Louis Ward is an athletic enthusiast, and has promised to book ten good in town games and ten games out of town for the local boys through the winter, provided the athletic association is strong enough to support a team without any financial danger.

HAIL COLUMBIA!

New York, Sept. 24.—Football practice was begun at Columbia university Thursday for the first time in ten years. In that time Columbia has taken no part in intercollegiate games. Last spring more than 300 students promised to report as candidates for the eleven, but it was not expected that more than sixty or seventy of them would begin work today. None of the candidates has played the game since graduation from preparatory school two years ago. Some of Columbia's old football stars, including Tom Thorpe and Harold Weeks, were expected to aid in the preliminary coaching.

Y. W. C. A. TENNIS TOURNEY.

The only match in the Y. W. C. A. tennis tourney played off Thursday resulted in a win for Miss Katherine Brown over Miss Helen Hackius in two sets, 7-5 and 6-1. The girls played a snappy game with many sensational features. The tourney is being held on the association courts on Tennessee avenue, near Spy Run.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

SOLID TRAIN OF WHEAT FOR EXPORT

Thirty-Nine Cars Are Being Rushed to Seaboard on Passenger Schedule.

Shipments of wheat for export are increasing, making good eastbound business for the Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania and Wabash. Westbound freight continues to be light, however, and a large portion of the westbound cars are empties. The grain movement on the Nickel Plate is so heavy that it is necessary to occasionally send out trains composed exclusively of grain-laden cars. One passed through the city over that line this morning, running on a schedule nearly equal to passenger trains. It had thirty-nine cars, each one of which was loaded to its capacity with wheat for export. The grain movement is not at its greatest, though it is increasing in volume every day.

IS SEVENTY YEARS OLD.

R. J. Fisher, of Bass Works, Reaches Three Score and Ten.

R. J. Fisher, traveling salesman for the Bass Foundry and Machine company, is receiving the congratulations of his friends today upon his arrival at the seventieth anniversary of his birth. He was born in Herkimer county, N. Y., September 24, 1845, and came west with his parents, who settled in Chicago in 1853, when R. J. was eight years old. In his recollection of early days an undertaking establishment figures prominently, for Mr. Fisher's father was an undertaker both in New York and in Chicago. R. J. came to Fort Wayne in 1861 and took employment with Brooks & Hill, who conducted a bookstore, and a year later went to the drugstore of Reed & Wall, where he remained until August 1, 1864, when he resigned and took employment as a clerk with Bass & Hanna, the founders of the manufacturing establishment which for many years has been the Bass Foundry and Machine works. There Mr. Fisher remained continuously over fifty-one years, working in different capacities at different times. For many years he traveled in the interest of the company and in that capacity visited all the leading railway centers in the United States and became widely acquainted with railway managers. No Fort Wayne resident is more widely known in railway circles than he. Father time has dealt kindly with him and the signs of approaching age are not visible in appearance of action in Mr. Fisher. Many men a quarter of a century younger are less sprightly physically and mentally than he.

AEROPLANE GETS ON TURKISH NERVES

Soldiers of the Sultan Do Not Like the Airship Kind of War.

Constantinople, August 30.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Although the Turkish soldier is hardened to artillery, machine-gun and rifle fire, he is still so terrorized by the aeroplane that the mere sight of one sends him to cover.

The fear of the flying-machine is due, of course, to the effect of the bombs and darts that are thrown by the aviators, but there are psychologists among the Turkish officers who maintain that the fear of the man-bird largely arises from the fact that men still carry the "bloody memory," as evolutionists call it, of the days when human beings were the prey of huge winged creatures.

But the aeroplane bomb has qualities of its own to make it a fearful thing. Unlike the artillery projectile, it has no trajectural curve, against which cover can easily be obtained. In addition, although the scatter area of either the aeroplane bomb or the steel darts is small, it is in the form of a complete circle while the scatter area of the artillery projectile lies almost straightforward of the explosion. For this reason, an infantry position that is well protected against the artillery and small arms fire, is still open to attack from above.

Another factor that makes the aeroplane bomb feared is that it contains high explosives of a sort that cannot be employed in artillery ammunition, owing to their great susceptibility to shock. Most of the British and French aeroplane shells dropped on the Gallipoli peninsula contain nitro-gelatine, a mixture of nitro-glycerine and cellulose, the two making an explosive that is 98 per cent. pure, which, in other words, is all converted into heat with the exception of about two per cent.

The shattering effect of this explosive upon the steel shell of the bomb is terrific. At its best, the ordinary artillery shell flies into but a small number of fragments, but the aeroplane bomb is shattered completely. Its fragments usually show edges that are as sharp as that of a razor, and wounds caused by them are deep lacerations.

The aeroplane bomb "splinter" has a shattering effect upon small bones, but hitting a large bone it will firmly imbed itself. The artillery projectile fragment hardly ever does this. The wounds caused by it are as a rule fatal or easily cured, while those caused by the aeroplane bomb are what surgeons term "vicious." While the artillery "splinter," owing to an absence of great velocity at mean distances, takes a direct course in making a wound, the aerial bomb fragment, because of its smallness, shape, sharp edges and greater velocity, literally plows a zigzag route through the human body. Were it not that the Roentgen rays make the location of the fragment possible, the mortality from the effects of aeroplane bomb wounds would be appallingly great.

BILLY SUNDAY RAPS HUSBANDS AT OMAHA

Wife Deserves Flowers and a Few Kisses, He Tells Men Hearers.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 24.—Billy Sunday won the affections of every wife, young or old, and a lot of prospective brides here recently, when he lambasted erring husbands and exposed many masculine shortcomings.

The husbands squirmed on their seats and many looked guilty. If Omaha wives were shocked by hubby kissing them when they got home they might guess he was at the tabernacle and was perfectly sober.

If the florists got hurry calls for flowers from many Omaha benedicts they may thank Billy Sunday.

Here's some of the things Billy said for the benefit of the Omaha husbands:

Brag on your wife while she is alive. Don't wait until the undertaker has her.

Say nice things to your wife now. Don't wait to carve them on her tombstone.

Many a dollar has been spent on rosewood coffins that should have gone for a hired girl.

Some men buy rosewood coffins and big bouquets for their wives, who never gave her $5 when she was alive.

Many men make a big splurge at the funeral to throw the wool over some other fool woman's eyes.

The height of irony is to read "At Rest" on the tombstone of a woman ho has worked herself to death.

One man told me he married his wife because she was the best worker in the country. I knew another man who bought a mule for the same reason.

Scatter some rosebud's in your wife's path now. Don't wait until she is six feet under the ground.

Some men wait to put the bouquets on the grave and say, "Darn you, smell them if you can!"

Tell the neighbors what good coffee your wife makes, so she can hear you.

Kiss your wife as you did when you were courting her. She won't mind.

A Sale that was inaugurated to demonstrate conclusively our remarkable value-giving—It seems as if most of the women in Fort Wayne have profited by this sale.

The reasons for the growing popularity of our Ready-to-Wear sections are not far to seek. First, by far the widest assortments in Fort Wayne. Second, prices which we confidently believe are ten to fifteen per cent less than any other store. Third, the very newest styles shown as soon as they appear in the east. And finally, the knowledge that our advertised prices are genuine, and that the marked prices are absolutely the lowest at which anyone can buy the garments. We maintain a strictly one price standard.

Select a Fur Coat Saturday

Because our ready cash bought these coats at 25 to 35 per cent less than usual wholesale prices we are offering them to our customers at 25 to 35 per cent less than usual retail prices. Included are coats of Hudson Seal, Near Seal, Pony, Muskrat, Caracul, Squirrel and Persian Lamb.

If you can't pay for one now, just ask us to lay your choice aside, which we will be glad to do for a small deposit. Then get your coat November 1st.

Garb for the Little Miss

The young miss of six years and upwards can be just as fashionably attired as the mothers and older sisters. We want to mention briefly the new coats and dresses just arrived. The coats sell from $4.98 to $12.50, and include all textures. The dresses, of serge, shepherd checks, corduroys, etc., range in price from $3.98 upwards. The usual Frank standard of value is maintained in these little garments.

Favored by excellent weather, Fort Wayne's army of women have attacked our suits in force, making wide gaps in our lines. These, however, have been closed up with reinforcements of new suits fresh from New York, so that today we present quite as strong a front as on the first day of this convincing comparison sale.

GREEK MOBILIZATION ORDERED BY DECREE

Athens Prepares to Promptly Meet Recent Move of Bulgaria by Energetic Action.

Paris, Sept. 21. An official decree for the mobilization of the Greek army was issued in Athens today, says the Athens correspondent of the Havas News Agency. Parliament probably will be summoned tomorrow.

The dispatch says the decree was published in the official journal. It states that mobilization has been decided upon as a measure of prudence, on account of similar action by Bulgaria. The classes of 1892 to 1911 are called to the colors.

The semi-official newspaper Patris of Athens says the military measures undertaken by Greece show a decision has been reached to meet Bulgaria's move energetically and without delay. It adds that the intention of Greece is to defend her own rights and to fulfill her duty to support Serbia.

ALL EYES ON BULGARIA.

Paris, Sept. 24.—The Bulgarian situation is absorbing the attention of France to the exclusion of all other topics. Little doubt is felt here that Bulgaria, or rather King Ferdinand, has decided to cast its lot with the central powers.

"For months," says Jean Herbette, one of the authors of France on foreign politics, "the quadruple entente has been talking to Bulgaria without acting. During the same period Bulgaria has been preparing to act without talking. The time has come when Bulgaria is acting."

Military writers are beginning to discuss the course Bulgaria probably will take. Most of them are of the opinion that they will hurl troops into the upper Varda valley in Serbia and then cut the Salonika-Nish railway, which would cut Russia off from all communications with her allies, except through Archangel. It is generally believed such an eventuality must have occurred to the allied governments and that preparations have been made against it. While such headlines as "Will Czar Ferdinand repeat the error of 1913?" are common, French editorial writers betray some anxiety at the prospect of an added complication in the struggle for Constantinople.

Good Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered combination of assimilative agents has made fat grow after years of thinness and it is also unequaled, judging from reports, for repairing the waste of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable preparation is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing assimilative elements of acknowledged merit have been combined in this preparation, which is endorsed and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A few weeks' systematic use of Sargol should go far to produce flesh and strength by correcting faults of digestion and by supplying nourishing fats to the blood. If not, every druggist who sells it is authorized to return the purchase price. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten and the additional fats that thin people need are thus provided. Meyer Bros. Drug Co., Dreier Drug Co., D. & N. Pharmacy, The Family Drug Store and other leading druggists supply Sargol and say there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has from reports given splendid results as a nerve-tonic and vitalizer, its use is not recommended to nervous people, unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

WOULD AID TRADE WITH RUSSIA.

New York, Sept. 24.—Alexander Behr, president of the Russian-American chamber of commerce, who is in this city, started today a movement among American trade and commercial organizations looking to the organization of an international chamber of commerce, in which business houses of both the United States and Russia may become members. Mr. Behr came here in the interests of Russian business and to extend the trade between these two countries and aid in overcoming the obstacles which now hamper it.

VON PAPEN FOUND IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Sept. 24.—Capt. von Papen, German military attache at Washington, who in one of the letters found in possession of James Archibald, referred to Americans as "these idiotic Yankees," is in San Francisco today. He is accompanied by a friend, who registered at a hotel as "Mr. Hatzfeldt, of New York."

Captain von Papen arrived yesterday and attempted, it is said, to preserve an incognito. When his identity was determined he refused to make any statement other than to say he is here on leave of absence. Captain von Papen's companion, who is believed to be Prince von Hatzfeldt, of the German embassy at Washington, refused to make reply to questions addressed to him.

EXPECT DECISION MONDAY.

Ruling in Bankruptcy Case of Winona Assembly Will Be Made Soon.

A decision will probably be made Monday in the federal court on the recent sale of the Winona Assembly and Summer School association to E. O. Excell, of Chicago, for $106,000. Objection to the sale was filed some time ago by certain creditors, which was overruled by Sol A. Wood, referee in bankruptcy. An appeal was then taken.

The property of the W. H. McIntyre company at Auburn, which is in the hands of a receiver, was sold, Thursday, to the highest bidder, which happened to be the creditors. The bid was $38,000 for the property and $12,500 for the material and contents of the factories. The creditors are incorporated as the DeKalb Manufacturing company.

20,000 JAP BALL FANS THERE.

Tokio, Sept. 24.—Twenty thousand Japanese baseball enthusiasts saw the City of Chicago university team win the first game of its series with Wazda university here this afternoon by a score of 5 to 3. The American's victory was due to their ability to make hits when they meant runs. The natives fielded cleverly and ran bases well, scoring all their runs with only one hit.

The American ambassador, George W. Guthrie, and the president of Wazda university, Dr. Santetaka, attended the game.

ALEXANDER $1,000 RICHER.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Grover Alexander, the big right handed pitcher of the Philadelphia Nationals, was $1,000 wealthier today as a result of his victory over Chicago in the first game of the double-header yesterday. Alexander was given $1,000 by the management of the club for scoring his thirtieth victory of the season. He previously had been given $500 after winning twenty games.

BULGARIA FEARS BELGIUM'S FATE

Sofia Newspaper Throws Bit of Light on Cause for Mobilization.

Sofia, Sept. 23.—(Via London, Sept. 24, 4 a. m.)—An article which may throw some light on the Bulgarian mobilization appears in the Mir, which asks what Bulgaria will do if the Germans appear on its frontier, since a German invasion in Serbia will be attempted. Replying to its own question the paper says:

"It would mean the Bulgarians must allow the undisputed passage of German troops through their country. If the Bulgarians consented without making common cause with Germany then they would be unable to refuse the same privilege to the Russians, who might disembark at Varna (on the west shore of the Black sea.) Then the two adversities would meet to fight on Bulgarian territory to decide the fate of the country and people, if not the fate of the whole war.

"Thus Bulgaria would emerge ruined like Belgium. Moreover, her honor would be lost. If the Bulgarians joined the Germans, should they triumph, then Bulgaria would be a vassal state of Germany and Austria."

The Mir urges an agreement with the quadruple entente on the ground that Bulgaria will be overrun with Germans if Serbia is invaded.

MEETS ON LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN.

General Assembly of Ohio Holds Session During Southern Tour.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 24.—The general asembly of Ohio had a brief session on the summit of Lookout mountain today, with a majority of both houses present. The session, incident to a tour of the Cincinnati Southern railroad, was confined by the proclamation authorizing it to discuss an adoption of a resolution of thanks to cities along the route for their hospitality to the party. Presiding Officer Arnold, of the senate, used a pile of cannon balls for a chair, while Speaker Canover's rostrum was a cannon. A roll call showed eighty-two representatives and twenty-five senators present.

THREE CALLS IN AN HOUR.

The city fire department answered three telephone calls for fires in an hour's time Thursday afternoon. The first was answered by No. 8 wagon to the residence of 1326 Hoagland avenue, where the house had become filled with smoke from a furnace. No. 1, No. 3 and No. 5 came to the Newark shoe store at 3:17, where a flat iron had set fire to a partition. The loss was $25. Twenty-five minutes later a small building at the back of the house owned by Mary Maloley, on Clinton street, was destroyed by fire.

TRUTH SOCIETY IN PROTEST ON LOAN

New York, Sept. 24.—A protest against the proposed Anglo-French loan was sent to President Wilson, the treasurer of the state of New York, the state banking department and the mayor, comptroller and chamberlain of New York city today by the American Truth society. The protest was expressed by resolutions adopted last night at the first of a series of mass meetings held for the avowed purpose of blocking the loan.

The meeting was under the auspices of the American Truth society. A. G. Koelbel, president of the German-American Alliance of New York, was one of the speakers. The resolutions characterize the proposed loan as "unsound, hazardous and improvident, subversive to the interests of depositors and corruptive of the purpose of our federal banking laws."

board on Thursday, Commissioners Butt, Schwier and Black retired to a private room. Almost immediately the four filed again into the court room. They took their seats and President James D. Butt arose and said, addressing the applicant and the counsel in the contest:

"Gentlemen: The board has decided to refuse the applicant a license on the ground of his unfitness to run a saloon."

The board had not required more than three minutes to retire, complete a verdict and to announce its judgment.

The Hof Brau was dead and the law required the doors of the place to be closed and the sale of liquor to cease at once. If already had run three weeks over the tenure of its last license by reason of the contest that had been launched against a renewal.

Girl's Testimony Hurt.

The most impressive testimony presented to the board of commissioners was given late Thursday afternoon by Anna Block, a 16-year-old girl, who sobbed out a heart-wracking story of disgrace and ruin at the hands of a man who first took her to the Hof Brau cafe on the 10th of last January.

The court room was cleared of all who had a legitimate interest in the proceedings, as well as of a goodly flock of buzzards, who were cheated of what had been promised as the salacious treat of the inquiry. Only Judge Morris, the members of the board, the remonstrant, the applicant and counsel for both sides were permitted in the room while Anna Block told what had happened to her on the fateful night when she was picked up on the street early in the evening, taken to the Hof Brau cafe, plied with beer and then of knowing no more until she awakened at 6 o'clock the following morning beside her betrayer in a room on Pearl street.

Breaks Down Completely.

The girl's story was broken by convulsive sobbing and it was with difficulty that she regained sufficient control of herself to testify at all. When she had concluded her shocking story she broke down completely and had to be assisted from the room, her hysterical weeping filling the rooms. She said the man who wrought her ruin is Harvey Jackson, a railway man 28 years old, who has fled the city to escape the suit brought against him by the girl. A charge of criminal assault will lie against Jackson if he can be found. The young victim is soon to become a mother and her unhappy state elicited the profound pity of all who saw her in court.

Printed stories that the girl would testify to having been assaulted in the rooms at the Hof Brau were wholly without foundation. The girl had no such story to tell. That it was possible to take a 16-year-old girl into the Hof Brau and get drunk was considered by the commissioners and others who heard her story as sufficient indictment of the place. Miss Block's testimony dealt Wiebke a terrible and perhaps the fatal blow.

Pushed to Rapid Conclusion.

Late Thursday afternoon Judge Morris began to crowd on speed in the taking of testimony in an effort to conclude the hearing. He announced that no recess would be taken until that had been accomplished, and refused several different times after 5 o'clock to adjourn until Friday morning.

The counsel for the opposition put Rev. James A. Nipper on the stand to prove by him that he had often seen drunken men and women come from the Hof Brau, but the testimony was ruled to be improper and Rev. Nipper's appearance on the stand was brief.

Half a dozen waiters from the Hof Brau were examined by the applicant's attorneys to prove that all employes of the place were carefully instructed to serve no minors or lewd women in the cafe. Their testimony was uniform to a nicety.

"Do you know any lewd women—do you know a solitary lewd woman—in this city, and have you ever seen one?" Attorney William P. Breen, for the remonstrant, asked Ernest Reed, one of the waiters.

"No, sir," responded the witness.

"And you have always kept such women out of the Hof Brau?" said Mr. Breen.

"Yes, sir," replied Reed, whereat there was a roar from the court room.

Wiebke, the applicant, was called again to the stand to explain the checking system, and Bernard Hedekin, the manager, was examined briefly.

Then both sides rested their case. Earlier in the afternoon Oscar Gandy, of Churubusco, a fifteen-year-old youth, almost six feet tall, was questioned as to the drinking by himself and young companions from his town in the Hof Brau last July, and related the story he has told on other occasions.

Arguments Were Brief.

The arguments in the case were so brief as to permit only a summing up by Mr. Colerick for the applicant and Mr. Breen for the remonstrant. Mr. Colerick declared that no applicant for a license had ever supported his character by such an array of substantial witnesses who knew him, whereas the only attacks made on him had been by two detectives from Chicago who gave "hired testimony." He made a strong plea for his client.

Mr. Breen declared that every allegation of the remonstrant as to violations of the law in the Hof Brau had been established and the moral unfitness of the applicant proved.

Henry A. Wiebke closed his saloon at 9 o'clock, but the three cafes attached to the place were open. He says he is done and will go out of business.

BUSINESS PICKING UP, SAYS DELANO

Washington, Sept. 24.—F. A. Delano, vice governor of the federal reserve board, got back to Washington today from a trip through the Panama canal and across the continent.

"Business," said Mr. Delano, "is picking up, and that is true everywhere except in the farming country of the west. The farmer seems to think he can get $1.25 again this year for his wheat. He can't, but he's holding it just the same. The fact that money is easy makes it easier for him to hold his crop for higher prices, and I'm afraid he will get fooled."

Mr. Delano said signs of increased prosperity were noticeable from the Pacific coast all the way eastward, and that war orders, more buying by railroads and other factors were responsible. He visited the federal reserve banks in San Francisco, Minneapolis, Chicago and Cleveland and thinks their usefulness is becoming more appreciated.

CLEVELAND MEN ARE COMING NEXT WEEK

t 4:53 o'clock Thursday morning, September 30, a special train composed of four Pullman cars, will arrive in Fort Wayne, bringing a hundred or more members of the manufacturers' and wholesale merchants' board of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, who have included this city in their five days' trade extension excursion through the state of Indiana. They will remain in Fort Wayne all night and will not leave until Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

The visitors come to Indiana, not with gripsacks in their hands, but simply with good will and a desire to become more closely associated with local merchants with whom they now have or may hereafter acquire more close business relations.

"Business now days is based on confidence, and confidence is based upon acquaintance," is the motto of President Upson, head of the Cleveland delegation.

The manufacturers' and merchants' board of Cleveland has recently entered the third decade of its existence, having been established in 1895. The original membership consisted of twenty-three jobbing houses, and the first president was George T. McIntosh, then of the McIntosh-Huntington Hardware company, now the secretary and manger of the One Cent Letter Postage association of the United States.

One of its earliest activities was the projection of trade extension by which its members paid visits to merchants in surrounding cities with the purpose of increasing personal friendships between heads of institutions and the men with whom they were carrying on business correspondence.

The board has done much to increase Cleveland's commercial relations throughout the middle west, and has been a prominent factor in the activities of the chamber of commerce at home. The manufacturers' and wholesale merchants' board only selects those territories in which business conditions are promising in making its tours. Last spring it took in the great middle west and northwest from Kansas City and Omaha to St. Paul and Milwaukee. This fall it is devoting itself to a rich section of central Indiana.

CURIOUS EFFECT OF WAR ON PAWNSHOPS

Leipzig, Germany, Sept. 5.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—One of the curious effects of the war has been to reduce the number of loans made by the poor of the city at the municipal pawn establishment, and to increase the number of redemptions of property already pawned.

The explanation is that most of the loans, in peace time, are made by women: that most of the women are the wives of men now in the field; and that never in peace time have these women had as large an income as they do now that most of their husband's earnings come to them to supplement what they themselves can make.

In the twelve months just preceding the war the municipal pawn shop made approximately 240,000 loans on articles ranging from silver-headed canes to babies' shoes. The exact number for the past 12 months has not as yet been compiled, but the director of the establishment is authority for the statement that the number probably will run closer to 200,000. Incidentally, the money loaned will not, either, reach the figures of the year before.

The usual rate of redemption, in normal, peace times, is astonishingly high as pawn shops go. With a normal of almost a quarter of a million loans a year; it is seldom that more than 20,000 articles have to be auctioned off. The number usually runs between 15,000 and 18,000. This year it will be still smaller because of the increased number of redemptions.

Leipzig's loan establishment is a huge affair, and is conducted along much the same lines as a few institutions in America that make a specialty of encouraging redemptions by advancing little, and by charging a low rate of interest. The city of Liepzig, however, incorporates a new feature by charging 12 per cent. a year, and then by returning to the borrower everything above the interest charges that may be procured by auctioning off the pledge when it has not been redeemed.

Women are by far the most frequent customers, and rarely offer anything of great value. A prosperous loan establishment would scoff at the watches and jewelry that find their way to the municipal "pawn shop" and would refuse to accept the clothing, even bedding and household utensils, that are offered. That they are taken by the city's establishment is one of its virtues, for with them many a needy person can get temporary relief that she could not obtain elsewhere.

The haggling, arguing methods of the private loan office are noticeable by their absence in the Yorkplatz establishment. The women enter by a rear door, free from the prying eyes of gossiping neighbors, and tender their bundles to appraisers who briefly announce what will be loaned. That ends the matter. The women accept the decision without demur and silently get their money.

The pledges are for the most part homely articles of wearing apparel, and often are not without their touch of tragedy. The Sunday shoes of the whole family—father's, mother's, daughter's and the baby's—hanging together by a single string, indicate a degree of distress if not actual poverty that is appealing.

ASSAILANT NOT SOAKED HARD ENOUGH; PROSECUTING WITNESS DEMANDS APPEAL

It is neither out of order nor unusual for the convicted party to express dissatisfaction with the judgment of trial courts and to seek appeal to higher tribunals. It is frequently done. But it remained for Sam Pontello, of Melita street, in Fort Wayne's Little Italy, to come forward as a witness and denounce a court's verdict and demand an appeal because an offender had not received all that was coming to him.

Sam caused the arrest of Joe Liberatto, a Melita street neighbor, on a charge of assault and battery. The two sons of sunny Italy had a disagreement which, according to Sam's story, Joe had sought to compose by appeal to the arbitrament of an iron bar and two bricks. Joe accordingly was arraigned before Judge Kerr in the city court Friday morning, on a charge of assault and battery. There were none to testify but the accused and accuser. Each told his story in a rather incoherent mixture of the Latin and English tongues. Each blamed the other, but Sam blamed the most fluently and the court assessed a fine of $1 and costs against Joe, which that belligerent promptly paid, and walked out of court.

To see his assailant walk forth free and buoyant at a trifling outlay of $11 made Sam's angry gorge to rise against his late adversary and the court.

Sam dashed forward to the court's desk and said excitedly:

"Whatta it costa to go to-a the cir—what you call court. I have him tried there where he gotta enough for him, I betcha."

The court informed Sam that the thing was over unless Joe wanted to appeal and others warned him he was getting himself in line for a fine for contempt and he went away much disgusted with American judicial procedure.

BORED SOCIETY FOLK IN AMATEUR FILMS

Upper Circles at Spokane Have Discovered New Diversion.

Bored to death by tango teas, and afternoon bridge parties, the leaders in this city's five hundred have taken to scenario writing and the production of motion pictures in which they themselves are the principal actors.

Miss Virginia Riblet, young society maid who has a hankering for the stage, started the fashion. Miss Riblet wrote a scenario and invited her friends to pose for the motion picture machine. The film was produced on the estate of her father on the Little Spokane river and one of the managers of a local motion picture theater acted as stage director.

Five hundred society men and women acted as "the mob."

The film was exhibited at a motion picture house for three days and it did a rushing business.

Society folks here plan to make this a regular feature of their entertainments this coming fall.

CRYING FOR THEIR PAPA.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 22.—A search is being made for Otto R. Deming, a painter, twenty-eight years old, who disappeared from his home in the country near here last Tuesday, and has not since been seen. His young wife is frantic with grief, and his two children cry almost incessantly. The young man, who came to Muncie with his family a few months ago, and moved to the country, told Mrs. Deming a few days ago that he was going to Muncie to work. He had no bad habits and few acquaintances in Muncie, and was always devoted to his wife and children. He is described as having a smooth face and fair complexion, being six feet and two inches in height, weighing 175 pounds, but having a blue mark across the bridge of his nose, one upper tooth out, brown eyes and dark brown hair. When last seen he wore a brown coat, blue trousers and black derby hat.

Our men will be at the addition office tomorrow to give prices and explain the $300 bonus for building.

Goes on Stand and Testifies That He Alone Committed Deed.

Butler, Pa., Sept. 24.—To save his brother from going to prison, Steve Hoffner, 26 years old, who inflicted serious wounds on Louis Tomolitz, last July 26 in Zelienople and escaped into Ohio, returned to Butler county voluntarily and gave himself up.

Hoffner and Tomolitz fought over a girl, it is alleged. Nick Hoffner attempted to interfere. Tomolitz was stabbed in the stomach and under the heart and spent five weeks in a hospital. Steve Hoffner escaped and Nick Hoffner was arrested. Tomolitz was unable to tell who cut him.

The brothers were indicted jointly on a charge of felonious cutting and assault and battery. At the trial, Steve Hoffner went on the stand and testified that he did the cutting and that his brother was innocent. The jury returned a verdict finding Steve guilty of felonious cutting and acquitted the brother.

CHILDREN ALARMED BY TOY-TOWN RUMOR

Metal Used in Tin Soldiers May Go Into More Real Purpose of War.

The Hague, Netherlands, Sept. 8.—(Correspondence of the American Press).—Disquieting rumors have reached Dutch children to the effect that the famous toy-making town of Nuremberg, in Bavaria, may use the metal which it has been putting into millions of little tin soldiers for more real purposes of war. However true the report may be, there is as yet no serious decimation in the ranks of the armies of the nursery floor. From toy dealers' reports, in fact, the tin-soldier armies are increasing faster than any others in Europe.

Although before the war Dutch children were satisfied with an indiscriminate phalanx of red coats, German Hussars and Cossacks, the nursery now must be equipped uniformly with unbroken lines of soldiers, with the child's favorite always predominating in strength of men and guns. If there is any class in Holland that has entirely ignored the neutrality stand, it is the children, who, in the toy shops exhibit their preferences. The toy dealer has more than ever become a diplomat.

In Rotterdam it is very noticeable that the toy shop generally displays German soldiers, while in Amsterdam, it is the French and British which are shown. In the matter of naval toys, children also have marked preferences, with Rotterdam windows displaying the German colors on dreadnoughts and torpedo boats, while Amsterdam windows cater to the sentiment there by giving the Franco-British allies the better show.

SUE RELIEF DEPARTMENT.

Discharged Negro Porter-Brakemen of Pennsylvania Lines Ask Judgments.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Sept. 24.—Nathaniel Marble and John Britton, two of five negro employes of the Pennsylvania lines who have sued to recover the difference in pay which they received as porters on the run between Louisville and Indianapolis and the rate of pay of white brakemen on the same run, have filed additional suits against the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway company, the former asking $121 and the latter $54, alleged due as part of their wages kept back as contributions to the voluntary relief department of the railroad. Both were discharged, with several others, August 15, 1915, because of the protest made by the railroad organizations over the employment of the porter's to do brakemen's work. Each is suing for more than $2,000 alleged due as difference of wages. Several suits similar to the new ones have been instituted against the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad company, but these are the first, as far as known here, to be directed against the voluntary relief department of the Pennsylvania lines.

Apparatus by which a locomotive can be utilized as a vacuum-cleaning plant has been invented by a German railroad man.

Carried Away Broken Glass.

That the burglar felt secure, after smashing in the big window pane in the front of the store was shown by the care he took to remove the jagged pieces of broken glass. Large pieces of the pane had been removed and carried to each side of the store building.

After making the means of entrance easy the robber was just about to step through the opening he had made when Dawkins' big gatling belched its fire and lead.

No Means of Identification.

The burglar was clad in a suit of blue overalls and one shoe was removed. He was a man of medium height, of dark complexion, dark hair and wore a dark mustache. There was not found in his clothing a scrap of paper by which he could be identified. The label had been removed from his overalls so that no means of determining the place of purchase remained. In his pockets were found a penknife and a razor, but no other weapons.

John Richle, employed on the Nickel Plate section crew at Dawkins, after viewing the body stated that he had seen the man walking on the tracks near the village about 5 o'clock Thursday evening but paid no special attention to him.

Make Finger Prints.

Sheriff Gladieux brought to the city several fragments of the broken glass that the finger prints on them might be examined by Sergeant Detective Joseph P. Brennan, of the police identification bureau, and later Sergeant Brennan took finger prints of the dead man at Scheumann & Son morgue. By this means it is hoped to identify the victim of Dawkins' bullet if he is a man with a criminal record.

Dawkins, who killed the burglar, has long been in business in the village of Dawkins. He is badly crippled by rheumatism and gets about with difficulty. He says that an attempt was made to rob him about eighteen years ago and that since that time he has always been prepared for marauders.

Finger Prints Not Positive.

Detective Sergeant Brennan, after developing the finger prints on the fragments of glass brought from the Dawkins store and compared them with prints he took of the dead man at the Scheumann morgue.

"There are indications that some of the prints on the glass are identical with those of the dead man," said Sergeant Brennan at noon Friday, "but the conclusion cannot be positive. So many persons handled the glass either after it was picked up or had their hands in contact with it while it was yet in the sash before the shooting that it is not possible to get conclusive results from the glass. However, there are some indications that are of value."

One reason for identifying the prints of the dead man's fingers with those on the glass is to establish completely that the man whose body was picked up on the railway tracks is the same man who was seen by Dawkins in his window and at whom he shot. The importance of this lies in establishing a justifiable homicide.

on the ground that he was morally unfit to run a saloon and was guilty of numerous violations of the law and on similar grounds remonstrances were filed against Wiebke and Poirson, who were applicants for renewal of license before the commissioners at the opening of the September term of the board's court. Both Poirson and Wiebke filed motions to have the complaints of the remonstrant made more specific and were accommodated so quickly that the applicants got a shock. The reports of the Chicago detectives furnished all the ammunition of that sort the applicants might call for. The same reports, it is disclosed, will furnish the specific charges demanded in the superior court by Kleindinst, whose case is set for trial November 22.

Detectives as Witnesses.

The applicants remonstrated against and their attorneys were taken completely by surprise Thursday in the Wiebke case hearing when the detectives were put on the stand to detail what they had learned in their investigations.

"That was a h—l of a mess to have to go against," said one of Wiebke's attorneys at noon Friday, after the Chicago sleuths had been on the stand most of the forenoon. There was no weakening the force of such testimony. Names of women, days and hours when the detectives met and bought drinks for the female hangers-on in the Hof Brau and made assignations with them were a part of the testimony and the testimony was of record made at the time. The same character of notes had been taken in Poirson's place and in other resorts for the commingling of men and women over boozing tables.

Reform League Wants Reform.

The Indiana Law Enforcement and Reform league, composed of interests enormously interested in the preservation of the jeopardized brewery and saloon business, had taken note of the repeated agitation against saloons in Fort Wayne and wanted to know what was wrong in this city. The league resolved to find out and to give its aid to local efforts to put out of business the dealers who were making the way hard for all liquor dealers and manufacturers. The services of the Thiel agency were employ to make a secret investigation. The result so far has been that two notorious places have become extinct and that others will become so as opportunities are found to attack their licenses.

The first loan, which closed in September, 1914, amounted to $1,125,000,000, according to figures from Berlin shortly after the subscriptions closed. For the second loan, in March last, $2,140,000,000 was subscribed.

SLOW GERMAN ADVANCE.

Austrians Unable to Bear Burden of New Russian Drive.

London, Sept. 24.—Miliary activities on the eastern front are once more assuming the familiar phase of a slow German advance, following the recent impetuous rush of the invaders. The German plan of dividing the Russian armies north and south of the Pripet has been a strategic success in a way, but the immediate effect of the severance has thrown an increased burden on the Austrians who seem unable to check the Russian drive.

Unofficials dispatches from Petrograd sattie that the latest Russian victory northwest of Dubno is of more importance than was revealed by the official communication from Petrograd, involving recapture of the fortress of Lutsk, northwest of Dubno. Relinquishing tthis fortress, the Austrians are said to have retired across the Styr.

All the way from the Baltic port of Riga to the Pripet marshes the Russians are holding their line stubbornly in an attempt to bring their long retirement to an end. The fighting is particularly severe southeast of Vilna and eats of Dvinsk. Envelopment of the Vilna army having failed, it is assumed the Germans will develop their offensive movement at Dvinsk, with the view of an ultimate blow at Riga. It is generally believed the Germans have determined to capture Riga before the onset of winter.

London is still in the dark concerning the developments in Bulgaria and the policy of the government. Not the slightest hint of the reason for mobilization has reached England.

CALLED HER HUSBAND A TRAMP AND A BUM

Consequently George Kelley Wants Divorce from Helen Kelley.

Because his wife and her two children by a former marriage persisted in calling him a tramp and a bum, George Kelley filed suit Friday in the superior court asking for a divorce from Helen Kelley, through his attorneys, Emrick & Emrick. Mr. and Mrs. Kelley were married in 1913 and luived together until September, 1915. Kelley also alleges that his wife refuses to cook his meals, compelling him to prepare his own many times after he had done a day's work.

Divorce is Granted.

Judge Carl Yaple in the superior court Friday granted a decree for divorce to Caroline Taylor from Cecil A. Taylor. Mrs. Taylor also was given the custody of the minor child, Irene, the husband being ordered to contribute $3 a week toward its support. The plaintiff was represented by Attorneys Hanthorn and Clapham.

WOMAN GIVEN SCORING.

Mrs. Dennis Testified She Had Not Seen Babies Since Last June.

Mrs. Maude Dennis was given one of the severest scoring Thursday afternoon by Judge John W. Eggeman in the circuit court that perhaps any woman ever received from a court when in a suit for divorce brought by her husband, Francis M. Dennis, testimony was introduced showing that she had not seen her little children since she left the family home in Lafayette township last June, and had never made any inquiry concerning their welfare. Mrs. Denns was not in court at the time and the court ordered that she be brought in, when she admitted that she had not seen her children, declaring that the only reason she left her family was because she did not like life on a farm and would rather stay in town and "run around." The court granted the divorce and gave Dennis the custory of the children. The husband was represented by Attorney William C. Geake.

Fined for Stealing Current.

George W. Bryan, a restaurant man, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Eggeman in the circuit court Thursday afternoon for sealing current from the city light and power department. Several other consumers are alleged to have been found using "jumpers" to prevent their meters from registering. Bryan was represented by Attorneys Barrett, Morris & Hoffman.

Received Stolen Property.

Hattie Edwards, colored, was fined $10 and costs for receiving stolen property and a jail sentence of thirty days suspended, while Mark Walters, also colored, was fined the same amount and sent to jail for twenty days on the same charge. The couple are alleged to have received much property that had been stolen by Walter Hamilton, colored, who is now serving time in the penitentiary.

NOTES OF THE COURTS.

The divorce case brought by Minetta Agster against Chester Agster has been set for trial in the circuit court for September 28.

The suit brought by Louis Plost against Abraham Weil was dismissed Friday morning on motion of the plaintiff.

Attorneys Frank H. Kleekamp and Robert B. Dreibelbiss entered their appearance Friday morning in the superior court for the defendant in the case brought by Homer J. Kelsey against Daniel W. Rhodes, involving the possession of a piece of property on St. Joe boulevard.

The case against Floyd LeRoy, charged with child neglect, on complaint of his wife, will be heard October 16.

TW OSUITS ON NOTES.

Otto H. Schmidt, Emma Schmidt and Gottfried Schmidt filed suit in the circuit court Friday against Henry J. Andrews for $125, alleged to be due on a promissory note. The plaintiffs are represented by Attorneys Somers and Kenerk.

Suit for $200 alleged to be due on a note was filed by the Farmers' State bank, of Sheldon, against Albert Brown. The bank is represented by Attorney H. I. Smith.

ORDERS PROPERTY SOLD.

COLORED MAN ADMITTED.

Frank Williams, colored, was admitted to the Allen county bar Thursday afternoon, on motion of John G. B. Jones. Williams has been practicing law in Marion county.

CHANGE OF VENUE.

A change of venue was taken Friday morning in two cases, the suit brought by Nettie Campbell against Hyman Goldstein and A. N. Houk, being sent to Adams county, and the suit brought by the Armour Leather company against John P. Evans being sent to DeKalb county.

FIND NO LAW TO FIT THE ARCHIBALD CASE

Washington, Sept. 24.—James F. J. Archibald, the American, who acted as messenger for Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba, Austro-Hungarian ambassador here, possibly will not be prosecuted by the department of justice. Examination of the papers relating to Archibald's activity has not been completed by the department, but some officials say there is no statute covering the case. As a result of the incident, it was said that congress would be urged to enact a law to cover such cases.

Archibald's attorney today requested an appointment for his client with Acting Secretary Polk for further explanation of his claim that he had not consciously misused his American passport. The interview will be granted as soon as the state department has received copies of all the documents taken from Archibald.

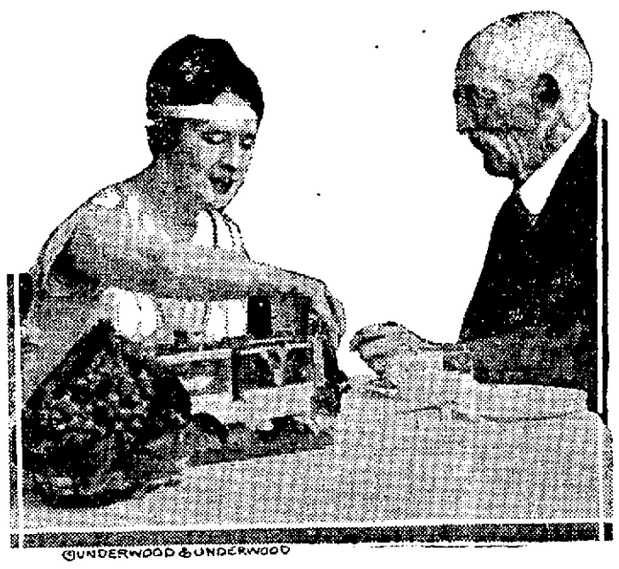
SING SING'S RIP VAN WINKLE TO START LIFE ANEW AT 85.



UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

George Cram, Sing Sing's Rip Van Winkle, and Miss Doris Easton, his hostess at an electrically cooked dinner.

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

New York, Sept. 23.—Last month he was "Old George the Lifer," the most pathetic figure in Sing Sing prison.

Today he is a new Rip Van Winkle at large in New York city, and staring wide-eyed with wonder at the miracles which have come to pass since he passed, 20 years ago, under the lowering portals of what was then the gloomiest prison in the world.

Between "Old George, the Lifer," the 85-year-old prisoner who had never hoped to leave Sing Sing alive, and the alert, well-dressed, spry young man of more than four score summers who alighted from a Tarrytown train in the Grand Central station a few days ago, by an act of grace—a full pardon granted to George Weldon Cramby, by Gov. Whitman, of New York.

A veteran or two wars, "Old George" had killed his wife in a fit of drunken frenzy and had been sentenced to be the first man to die in the electric chair. This was in 1894. and because of a doubt as to "Old George's" mental responsibility, Levi P. Morton, then governor, had commuted his sentence to life imprisonment.

"I never expected to see New York again. But I am not going to stay here. No indeed. I'm only 85, and I'm going out west to grow up with the country. I'm going to California, where I have relatives and the promise of a job."

"Old George" blames his downfall on drink.

"My advice to all young fellows is this," said the returned Rip Van Winkle. "Follow your mother's advice. Go to church, respect all women, and keep away from rum shops."

WOMEN DANCE ON STREET FOR VOTES

New York, Sept. 24.—The population of the Tenth assembly district is estimated at 162,000, and a good share of it turned out the other night to see the suffrage street dance on Fourth street, between avenues A and B. The entire block was supposed to have been reserved for dancers, but by 8 o'clock the crowd had gotten the best of the patrolmen and swarmed in from both ends until the space allotted the dancers was not more than two hundred feet square and they had to fight for that.

Judging from the feminine representation, women on the East Side should have the vote. There were fully twenty-five women and girls to one man. Either the men were bashful and would not come out, or they are painfully in the minority. The block was decorated with lanterns and yellow banners and although a majority of the crowd had no idea what it was all about or what the word suffrage means, they know now there is such a thing and may look into it in the future.

MISSED THEIR BREAKFAST.

Many Noblesville People Go Hungry When Fire Shuts Off Gas Supply.

Noblesville, Ind., Sept. 24.—The gas station of the Indiana Gass Light company was destroyed by fire yesterday. Noblesville's entire supply of gas passes through this station and when falling debris closed the regulator there was not a house in the city that had sufficient gas to cook breakfast. Many men went to work without their morning meals. The fire was outside the city limits and the fire department was unable to render assistance. As soon as the machinery cooled off, the regulator was opened and the supply of gas was sufficient for all.

U. S. FLAG GLORIFIED BY ACTS OF WOMEN

She Has Always Shown Utmost Loyalty and High Patriotism.

Columbus, O., Sept. 24.—Owing to the large part that certain women have taken in recent peace propaganda, the loyalty and patriotism of American women has been questioned in some quarters.

However, according to history, the women of America have always shown the most loyal devotion to their country and flag, and will in the event of war with any foreign country be the staunchest supporters of her rights and honors.

Mrs. Charles B. Nelcamp, chairman of the Ohio state committee to prevent the desecration of the flag, of the D. A. R., has made a very complete study of the American flag and the connection that women of this country have had with it since the time of Betsy Ross, down to the present day, and has compiled the following historical facts relating to women:

Betsy Ross made and designed the first American flag in June, 1776, and she became official government flagmaker during the Revolutionary war. However, she was not the only woman of her day to work flags for her country.

Girls' Dresses Furnished Flag.

The girls of Portsmouth made a flag from pieces of their best gowns and presented it to Paul Jones to hoist on the Ranger, July 4, 1777. On relinguishing the Ranger, Paul Jones kept the flag and used it on the Bonhoummie Richard.

The flag was made at a quilting party and the thirteen stars were cut from the bridal dress in which Miss Helen Seary had been wedded in May, 1777. This was the first edition of the stars and stripes that Europe ever saw, the first to be saluted by the guns of a European naval power.

The origin of the battle flag of the cavalry troop commanded by Col. William Augustine Washington, a distant relative of George Washington, is a romantic and interesting story.

Origin of Battle Flag.

In the fall Col. Washington paid a visit to Miss Elliott, to whom he was then engaged, and when she learned his corps had no flag, she seized her scissors and, cutting a square section from a red damask drapery, she presented it to him with the remark:

"Take this, colonel, and make it your standard!" This banner, ornamented with fringe and mounted on a hickory pole, was borne at the head of Col. Washington's cavalry till the close of the war.

In October, 1783, Sir Guy Carleton was ordered to evacuate the city of New York, the only place in our country then occupied by British troops. He was delayed, waiting for vessels, but finally, November 25 was the day agreed for his evacuation.

The first stars and stripes raised that day was run up in the morning by the wife of a tavern keeper, named Day. Mrs. Day was a large, stout woman and a zealous whig. On the morning of the evacuation day she ran up the American flag on a pole in front of her house. The British claimed possession till noon that day, and this act was offensive to them.

One Woman Color Bearer.

Mrs. Kady Brownell, wife of an orderly sergeant of the First and afterward of the Fifth Rhode Island infantry, was chosen color bearer of her husband's regiment. She marched with the men, carrying the flag and participating in battle as bravely as any of her comrades.

She was in the first battle of Bull Run and stood by her colors and maintained her position until her regiment had retreated. She was also in the expedition of Gen. Burnside to Roanoke Island and Newbern.

The largest flag ever made by hand was put together by Miss Josephine Mulford, of Madison, N. J. She was moved partly by sentiment and partly by a desire to pay off the mortgage on her mother's little home in a novel and patriotic way.

ANOTHER "CRISIS;" NO CHEWING GUM

Mexican Trouble Interferes With the Importation of Chicle.

Washington, Sept. 24.—A new crisis confronts the United States because of the revolution in Mexico.

This time one of the great American institutions—the chewing gum industry—is threatened. And the mere thought of it is throwing several million of your Uncle Samuel's nieces and nephews into a panic. "What is to be done," they cry, "if we no longer will be able to get our gum?"

The war in Mexico, among other things, has caused the sapodilla trees to be neglected. What has this to do with the situation? Well, the sapodilla tree produces chicle. And chewing gum cannot be made without chicle. Hence the concern of practically every fair young stenographer and baseball player in the land. It long had been the population fiction that chewing gum was made from horses' hoofs and other dead things.

Not so. Chicle is the thing that puts the "gum" in chewing gum. It is a rubbery sort of substance and the gathering of it formed one of the principal industries in Mexico before the natives found fighting more enjoyable, if not profitable, than work.

The statistical sharps at the department of commerce say that last year Mexico shipped to the United States 2,900,000 pounds of chicle. Other shipments came from Honduras, but the exports from Mexico were enough to run out about 540 tons of chewing gum. Think of it, girls, what a lovely party that "wad" would make.

Calhoun Place, located on South Calhoun Street, at Rudisill Boulevard, is the new, modern addition. Come out tomorrow and see it.

DAD CATCHES EYE OF THE TAILORS

No More Baggy Suits for Men, Declare the Style Savants.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Father is not to be sent to the kitchen when society folks call this fall. The Chicago Society of Merchant Tailors have decided that he shall be dressed so that his wife and daughters will be proud to see him, even when no bills are to be O. K'd.

The merchant tailors of Chicago met last night at a banquet in the Florentine room of the Congress hotel to observe and approve the fall styles, which represent practically in toto the efforts of local geniuses of scissors and tape. No foreign high priests of the style god had any hand in the fashion of this autumn's offerings.

Dad Gets Attention.

Particular attention has been given to the apparel of that socially invisible hermit, the American father. He will have to wear proper clothes, the tailors say, or spend his time in bed. In fact, there are to be no dowdy clothes this fall. Though the conservative middle-age man may pine for a nice shapeless suit of clothes with baggy knees and creases, he will search Chicago in vain. In brief, his wardrobe is to include morning coat, afternoon coat, golfing costume, evening clothes, opera capes and automobile raiment, in addition to his business suits.

The styles this fall will conform to the figure if any. Nothing will be padded except actors' clothes; the loose sack effect has been entirely displaced, and what the tailors consider a happy medium has been found between the baggy coat and the corsetlike garment which had a vogue this summer. The lapels are wider and the coats longer. The trousers mercilessly reveal the lines of the leg, although they are not to be tight. Life will be bitter this season for men whose legs are very distant in their manner toward one another.

Green, grays and heather mixtures will predominate. Albert Mathews, chairman of the executive committee, explained that a heather mixture included a combination of red and lavender on a background of green, bottle green, brown, bronze or tan.

Form fitting overcoats will predominate, with wide lapels and velvet collars.

NATIONAL OFFICERS COMING FOR BANQUET

National officers of the National Association of Civil Service Employes will be in attendance at a banquet to be given Saturday evening at the Elks' temple by members of Fort Wayne branch No. 57. The speakers of the evening will be L. E. Swartz, of Chicago, treasurer of the association; E. J. Gainor, of Muncie, national president of the letter carriers' association, and Congressman Cyrus Cline. Postmaster Ed C. Miller will act as postmaster. Invitations have been extended to fifty Fort Wayne business men and favorable replies have been received from a majority of them. Many visitors will also be in attendance from different cities throughout the district.

LITTLE FASHION MODEL SETS STYLES FOR NEWEST DOLL FAMILY.

SHE CAN ALWAYS LOOK PLEASANT AND SMILE—THAT IS WHY SHE WAS SELECTED TO TRY ON COSTUMES.

Mildred Robertson, model for doll fashions; original of "Neutrality Jim," the little Indian mother doll and the cowgirl.

Los Angeles, Sept. 24. Discovered a new profession for children. You've heard of real fashions on real people and real models for real clothes. But did you ever hear of a real model for doll fashions?

Her specialty is posing for the originals of character dolls.

The manufacturers of these quaint toys for children have found that they can work much better if they have a live doll to work upon.

The costumes are "tried out" on Mildred and the effect noted. If the colors are wrong it's much easier to note it upon the animated "doll" than upon the inanimate doll.

If the end isn't good, it's much easier to remedy it upon the model than upon the dolls patterned after her.

So little Mildred has found a lucrative and a most fascinating job. It's no trick at all, she'll tell you, to stand perfectly still if there are a hundred wild-eyed dollies staring up at her in wonder, while another is closely cornered in the crook of her elbow.

It's no hardship at all to "smile and look pleasant" when you are all dressed up in the most joyful colors imaginable: just like a little Dutch boy, or just like a real Indian with a long lasso in one hand.

Mildred has almost white hair, red, red round cheeeks and clear blue eyes.

It Radiates All the Heat!

Come in now while our stock of Cole's Original Hot Blast Heaters is complete. It will enable you to make a better selection to best suit your own needs. This is but one example of the many money-saving and up-to-date articles that we carry in stock ready for your careful inspection.

Burn a Sunday Newspaper

in the old-fashioned oak stove and you will scarcely heat the stove. Try this experiment in a Cole's Hot Blast Heater and you will at once notice the heat in the room. This remarkable heating power has been accomplished in

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

A Wooden Stove

If you had a stove with a surface of wood, lined with asbestos, you could not heat with it, because wood and asbestos are poor radiating surfaces.

The same is relatively true with cast iron and mica in base burners and oak stoves as compared with the large sensitive radiating body and bottom of Cole's Heaters, which radiate all the heat from the stove into the room.

Sizzling Base Heat

equal to any base burner. You can roast potatoes quicker in the ash pit of a Cole's Hot Blast than in the oven of your cook stove.

It will give you all the heat that is in your coal.

It will hold fire 36 hours without attention.

Burns any fuel—soft coal, hard coal or wood.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

At its meeting Friday afternoon the park board is in the midst of a fight on the resolution to grade and pave Rudisill boulevard from Calhoun street to Broadway. Some of the resident property owners have signed a remonstrance and are trying to prevent confirmation of the resolution by the board. There is now before the city council an ordinance to appropriate from the park board's general funds the sum of $4,260 to pay for intersections in paving that boulevard. It is purposed to put the street in some state of passability this fall and to give it a high grade macadam pavement as early as possible in the spring.

The board also has up for confirmation a resolution for the construction of a concrete curb and gutter and grading the parkways on the south side of Rudisill boulevard from Calhoun street to Broadway, and on the north side of the same thoroughfare from Calhoun street to Fairfield avenue. The board is giving hearings on the resolution to construct sidewalks on both sides of Rudisill, from Calhoun street to Piqua avenue, and expected to order advertisements for bids for the grading of Rudisill, from Bowser avenue to Anthony boulevard and grading Anthony from Rudisill to Pontiac street.

BOARD OF WORKS ROUTINE.

Remonstrance Filed Against Grading of Winch Street.

The board of works at Thursday evening's session confirmed the resolutions for several sidewalks, of which a list was printed in this department Thursday, and postponed action for one week on the resolution to grade Winch street between Warren and Lumbard streets, because Joe W. Bell and six others had filed a remonstrance against the improvement. Of the remonstrators some are not resident on the street and the protest may be held insufficient. Action was rescinded by the board on the resolution to pave the alley between Lewis street and Douglas avenue from Harrison to Webster. The petition was signed by thirteen resident property owners, but seven of them remonstrated, killing the resolution. Superintendent Dix, of the lighting department, was instructed to install an arc lamp at Lake avenue and Loree street. The Lake avenue lighting tower will probably be removed to one of the city parks, and Members F. E. Singrey and Henry Hilgeman, of the board, have agreed to contribute to a fund to pay the cost of removing it to Hayden park. A year ago the light tower at the Harmar school, fronting upon Hayden park, was removed from the school grounds to Lawton park at considerable expense. Hilgeman & Schaaf, the real estate firm, filed a petition with the board for permission to construct an ornamental lighting system in Harrison Hill addition, stipulating that it would be donated to the city after completion. The board has the petition under advisement.

NEW LIGHTS FOR LAKESIDE.

It is announced by Secretary-Manager John Wessel, of the city light and power works, that a new system of electric lighting will soon be installed in Lakeside. Nitrogen incandescent lamps, which the city has very successfully tested in the southwest and southeast parts of the city, will replace the old type of arc lamps.

MAYOR NOT TO GO SOUTH.

Mayor W. J. Hosey has abandoned his purpose to attend the annual convention of the League of American Municipalities in New Orleans next week. His daughter Miss Jean, who was to have accompanied him, is still too ill from an attack of tonsilitis to make the trip, and Mayor Hosey decided not to go.

DOUBT AS TO COMBINING JOBS.

The board of works entertains much skepticism as to the wisdom of combining the jobs of chief engineer of the city light and power works with the similar position in the waterworks department and appointing Chief Engineer Henry Zauner, of the light works, to the dual position. His perfect competency for the waterworks place is admitted, but the board believes that as chief engineer of the light works Mr. Zauner has all that one man should be held responsible for. The combination of the two jobs has been discussed, but no conclusion reached.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Relief from tension regarding a possible squeeze of shorts was evident in the wheat market today owing to the board of trade directors having decided that No. 1 velvet chaff would be acceptable on time contracts here, although subject to penalty. Opening price, which ranged from the same as last night to ⅝c lower, with December at 93½c to 93¾c, and May at 96c to 96½c, were followed by a moderate rally but then a fresh downturn.

The close was strong, ½c to 1¼c above last night, with December at 95¼c and May at 97⅝c.

Corn developed firmness, influenced by the comparative smallness of the stock on hand here. After opening ¼c off to a shade advance, the market scored a rise all around.

The close was firm, ¼c to ½c net higher.

Oats sympathized with corn.

NORTH AMERICAN BUILDING

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Sept. 24.—Special stocks were again conspicuous at the opening of today's market, with moderate improvement in some of the standard railways. Baldwin Locomotive opened with a fractional gain, which was soon extended to 2⅜, placing it at the new high price of 92⅜. International Nickel recovered five points of yesterday's late setback at 211, and Colorado Fuel, Bethlehem Steel, American Car, American Locomotive, American Woolen and the Maxwell Motor issues were higher by one to two points. U. S. Steel opened at a slight advance but soon reacted to 77, yesterday's final. Railroads also lost initial gains.

Early gains were increased and other specialties were brought forward during the first hour, notably Tennessee Copper, which rose four to 59½. The usual recessions, due mainly to realizing, followed, but the decline was halted when a broad buying movement of railway issues set in. Toward midday Bethlehem Steel preferred advanced 12 to 180, equalling its record. Bonds were firm.

Impressive buying of high class railway shares gave solidity to the final dealings. The closing was strong.

Omaha Man Says Spouse Will No Longer Furnish Him With Food.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 24.—His face a study of mingled anger and pain, Al Mikelster hurried into the police station and demanded his wife's arrest. After some questioning the police obtained information which, summed up, showed that the man wanted his wife arrested for non-support.

Mikelster informed the officers that his wife had been working at the Cudahy plant for some months and that she is continually complaining because he is out of work. Now it has come to a point where she will not furnish him with food any longer.

"If one of you officers would go over to the house with me and frighten her I think it would be all right," he said.

When one or two of the unfeeling officers were inclined to smile a bit, Mikelster grew excited and told them that he was just as smart as they are, and that as far as "kidding" him any was concerned they would have to find another subject.

The wife was not arrested.

Manufacturers Plan to Raise Prices Because of Dye Shortage.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—A recommendation that prices of hosiery be raised was adopted by the National Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers' association at a special meeting here. The association also adopted a resolution calling attention to the "serious dyestuff situation," and urging the United States government to take such steps as would afford the textile industry relief. The resolutions recommend that prices be advanced from 5 to 10 cents a dozen on goods weighing one pound to the dozen in cotton hosiery, and from 25 cents a pair to 35 cents on silk hosiery.

The resolution set forth that because of the insufficient supply of dyestuff, practically every mill making hosiery either is working short time or shut down. It was further stated that "foreign dyes in reasonably large quantities are lying in European ports ready for shipment to this country, but awaiting diplomatic negotiations between the government of the United States and the governments of England and Germany.

"WATER OF UNKNOWN MERIT."

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—An order was filed Monday afternoon by the federal court condemning the property formerly belonging to the Robinson Springs company, of Chicago, which was seized by federal authorities on the charges of misbranding. In one instance, twenty-five cases, each of twelve one-half-gallon bottles, were seized, each containing what was purported to be spring water of remedial qualities. The seizure was made from Carl Kaufmann and Lee Wolf, of Hammond. The second seizure was made from the C., I. & L. railway and included twenty-three cases. The bottles are now in the hands of the United States marshal and will be sold as "bottles containing water of unknown merit."

Three beautiful lots facing on Rudisill Boulevard, having in all a frontage of 130 feet, and a depth of 152 feet, with one additional lot in the rear 40x130 feet. The Rudisill Avenue lots have a north incine, and are located between Hanna and Lafayette streets, about three squares south of Weisser Park, which is one of the most beautiful spots in and around the city. The whole proposition can be handled for $1,650. The lot in the rear is easily worth $350.00, which leaves the Rudisill Boulevard stuff costing only $10.00 a front foot, which is easily worth double that amount at the present time, as the Boulevard is under course of construction at the present time in front of these lots.

MUCH ALARM; LITTLE DAMAGE.

Strong Earthquake Shock Felt in Many Sections of Italy.

Messina, Sept. 24.—A strong earthquake occurred here last night at 9:15 o'clock. It caused a panic among the people who rushed to the streets and squares. Many persons remained in the open all night but no damage was done.

At Avezzeno the earthquake caused the people to rush from the houses in which they have been living since the great disaster of January, but as no buildings have been erected there since the city was destroyed the damage was negligible. In the city of Aquilla, fifty-seven miles northeast of Rome, and throughout the province of that name, the shock was felt distinctly, causing considerable alarm.

HARMAR SCHOOL IS OCCUPIED.

Seventh and Eighth Grades Are Transferred to New Building.

The new Harmar school building, situated on Harmar street, between Jefferson and Washington streets, is now entirely occupied. All the grades with the exception of the seventh and eighth, were transferred there by degrees the first part of the week, but the two upper grades were compelled to take up their work in the old high school building until a delayed shipment of furniture arrived. The fixtures arrived Thursday morning, and were installed in the afternoon. The children were taken to their new rooms at 3:45 o'clock Thursday afternoon and Friday morning took up their regular work there.

O. R. Hartt is home after spending six weeks in the west. During his absence he visited Seattle, Vancouver, Portland, San Francisco and San Diego, returning by way of Colorado Springs and Denver.

Notable List of Speakers for the Riley Day Dinner.

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—Add another rhythmical note to the prelude for the Riley day dinner. The committee which has charge of the program for the dinner to be given at the Claypool hotel on October 7, as a mark of honor to James Whitcomb Riley, has rounded out a list of speakers that is both representative and notable. The committee proudly points to the fact that the list will be the most distinguished that has ever figured in any such affair in the west. The committee chose the men with the utmost care, then went after them with electricity. The telegrams brought ready responses, all of them teeming with expressions indicative of an earnest appreciation of the honor.

William Allen White, of the Emporia (Kas.) Gazette, author of "What's the Matter with Kansas?" "A Certain Rich Man" and other books, was found in a lonely cleft of the Rockies, whither he had gone to ponder the sorrows of the world. Mr. White is the shyest of men but has replied that he feels this a real call of the people and will be present and speak. Mr. White's only plea was that Walt Mason, poet perfecto of Emporia, also be supplicated to add his presence to the occasion.

Shyness Almost Unprofessional.

But Mr. Mason, with a shyness almost unprofessional, had to decline to appear, making his regret find basis in the fact that he has never worn a dress suit and that he is just naturally so busy that he can not come. "But," said Mr. Mason, "when my beloved friend, Bill White, comes home I'll ask him questions about you folks for three days and nights. Please give my regards to Mr. Riley. A little rhyme about his birthday that I wrote the other day will be published in more than 200 newspapers on October 7. Among them will be The Indianapolis News, and I hope Mr. Riley will see it. It is punk poetry, but the sentiment in it is sincere."

Mr. White will be one of the speakers and he will make joy out of a grand old subject, "The Day We Celebrate." Mr. White took occasion to ask the committee if the Riley party was going to be one in which "the ladies would come down in their high estate and consent to mingle with the men." It is regretted, Mr. White, that because of limited accommodations, the ladies will have to leave the Riley party to the men in order that as many Indiana families may be represented as possible.

Worked Hard on Tarkington.

The committee worked hard on Booth Tarkington for speakership honors, but he ran from it like a bachelor preacher at a debutante's tea. Mr. Tarkington has been motor boating along the Maine coast the summer long, and wireless messages have brought the tidings that, although he loves Dr. Riley, his voice would never consent to speak at any dinner, it mattered not how pleadingly his heart might call. As an after-dinner speaker Mr. Tarkington admits that he is a refugee.

Distinction marks the acceptance of John H. Finley, formerly of Princeton university, later president of the college of the city of New York, and now the commissioner of education of the state of New York. Dr. Finley, a poet himself, has great admiration for Mr. Riley and found delight in being invited to the dinner. He was hidden away in the Adirondacks, but the message of acceptance followed quickly. He had an engagement to address the West Point cadets on October 7, but succeeded in shifting his calendar so as to be here. Dr. Finley is one of the big men in American education and a polished orator. The committee was particularly delighted to have him represent the east at the Riley dinner.

George Ade in All-Star Cast.

George Ade is another member of the all-star cast. He was in California when the committee began chasing him with telegrams, and finally he was landed at his farm home, Hazelden, near Brook, where he has agricultural interests that include several townships. He said he could last eight minutes at the Riley dinner, but the committee has promised him an additional supply of gasoline, and he will speed up to ten minutes. He will talk on Indiana literature as it relates to the center table in the parlor.

STRANGE SECT ENDS CAMP.

Shelbyville, Ind., Sept. 24.—Two hundred and fifty persons, members of a religious sect without a name, who have been holding their annual meeting on the farm of Martin Schulzie, in the southern part of Shelby county, have closed their camp and returned to their homes. The people have no organization. They say it is not necessary for the public to know the names of their leaders and say that names do not count in God's plan and that only what one is counts in the final reckoning.

They have no ministers and all have the same right to exhort the brothers and sisters. No member of the flock receives any pay for services. Members believe dress is superfluous, except as to the mere demands of nature. Their clothing is not of the latest style and the women do not wear ornaments of any kind. Three large tents were used for the meetings. A number of persons in the southern part of the county believe in the doctrines of the "No-names," as they have been called.

EUROPE IS VAST MOURNING PLACE

Muncie Man, Back from the Trenches, Strong Peace Advocate.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 24. "Not a man, woman or child in the United States wishes this country to become involved in the European war if there could be any possible way of avoiding it honorably," asserts C. W. Whitehair, secretary of the Cornell university Y. M. C. A., who has just returned from a visit to the European battlefields where he represented the international Y. M. C. A. committee. He is now visiting his parents and other relatives here.

"The cream of Europe's manhood lies wasting itself in the hospitals and the trenches," said he. "I have walked over battlefields where graves were thicker than in any cemetery in America. Desolation stalks all over Europe and an entire continent is in mourning. The horror of the situation is so great that I can scarcely conceive of a situation arising that would be sufficiently grave to force this country into war. I have come back from the trenches to lift my voice in behalf of peace."

Armies Depend on Religion.

Mr. Whitehair was in the second line trenches in France, and visited the hospitals in France, England and Scotland. In his opinion it is France that is paying the biggest price for the war. He said that of the 500-mile battle front in France, that country is defending 150 miles and England is defending only fifty miles. In England there are 1,700 hospitals, he was told, but in France there are four or five times that number. England, he said, is paying heavily in money, however, it being estimated that the cost to that country is $21,000,000 a day. Religion plays a great part in the conduct of armies. All nations involved call on the Supreme Being for aid, and prayers and religious sentiment are expressed in various ways. On the helmets of dead Germans he saw the inscription, "With God and the Fatherland."

"All the nations are trying to make God, a god of war instead of a god of peace," he says. "English, French and Russian troops always pray before going to the front. The work of bringing about universal peace should be begun by the United States. As soon as the present war is ended the countries now involved will begin again to prepare for another war unless some country not now concerned endeavors to bring about a general disarmament.

Trenches Are Permanent.

"One thing that impressed me greatly was the way prisoners are treated by all sides. There are no atrocities actually committed as far as I know, and those who are complaining of them are those who are not doing the fighting. On all sides the prisoners speak highly of the way they are treated by their captors. The trenches in France are fifty miles wide and extend along a front of 500 miles. They are built, apparently, with the idea of permanency and are constructed as well as any building in this city."

Bryan is Sorry He Wrote Soldier Song

ALFRED BRYAN

New York, Sept. 23.—Even though it is probably the most popular song he has ever written and despite the fact that it has brought him an immense royalty, Alfred Bryan is sorry he wrote "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier."

Though Bryan at first defended the song as a protest against European militarism, he now says:

"I would rather cut off my right arm than be the author of a song that holds my country up to ridicule."
